Their Organ Says They Will Oppose the Eight-Hour Agitation.

HOW HOME CONTRACTORS SUFFER

Pittsburg Work Done in Small Towns

Where Labor is Cheap.

THE ASSOCIATION TO DISCUSS IT

The builders' Exchange will meet Monday next. The event will be the regular annual gathering of the exchange, and, on the reports of the various departments for account of the impending eight-hour trouble, it is expected that it will be the most important meeting in the history of the exchange. The organization cannot take action as a body on labor questions, but an indirect movement will be instituted. An attempt will be made to have the exchange send delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Builders, to be held at St. Paul on the 27th inst. The Pittsburg Exchange is not connected with the national organization and it is doubtful whether delegates will be sent or not. If the exchange does not send representatives then a number of Pittsburg builders will go on their own hook.

The national association will take up the eight-hour question and adopt some action in regard to it. Among those who will go to the meeting is W. S. Sharon, managing editor of the Journal of Building. He has received a copy of the programme of the meeting and upon that bases an article which appears in the current issue of the paper. Mr. Sharon, when asked what the builders would do in regard to the matter when it is presented to them by their employes, said:

THEY WILL SHOW FIGHT.

"The contractors and builders of the county intend to fight the matter. They say they cannot afford to run on an eight hour a day basis. I think one outcome of the matter will be that it will force the Builders Exchange to go into the national association. They should have gone into the association a long time ago, so as they could lend their co-operation to legislation on such questions. The national organization takes up matters of such great importance and it would be to the interest of the Pittsburg people to have something done about it. One of the vital principles of the association is that they shall employ who or 75 per cent. they please, how they please and work as many hours as they please.

"I think the Pittsburg builders would aign the eight-hour scale if it was not for the fact of other contractors jumping in and taking the business. Last year the builders of Pittsburg did a business amounting to $6,000,000. Of this amount $750,000 was done by a contractor at Erie, Pa. He works his men ten hours a day, while the Pittsburg men work but nine. The wages paid in Erie are about 25 per cent less than are paid in this city. On this account the contractor is enabled to underbid our builders. He takes a contract for a building and everything that goes in it is made at Erie. None of the work is done in this city. If these contractors were driven from the city we would have no trouble about the eight-hour law. I think the convention of the Union Association of Lumber Dealers, to be held at Dayton this month, will also take some action on the matter. In his paper, which is the official organ of the builders, Mr.

The increase is not alone during the past year, but the business has grown steadily for years back. As compared with 1886 when the gross receipts of the office were $39,797 45, the business of 1889, when the gross receipts were $60,532 45, shows an in-crease of 69 per cent. Below will be found

ANOTHER SNAKE STORY. County Commissioner Mercer Dug Up a

Reptile Far From Its Habitat. The subject of herpetology being under discussion yesterday drew out a contribution from County Commissioner Mercer. He was digging in his back yard on New Year's Day for recreation, or for some other pur-Day for recreation, or for some other pur-pose, and dug up a snake of sufficient kindred subjects of legislation. ity and length to have made a fine cane for a boy. Mr. Mercer took it into the parlor fire and thawed it out, when it proseeded to exhibit the peculiarities common to all the genus.

Mr. Mercer hasn't been able to explain point to make the test. The master builders, of Pittsburg and Allegbery county, who employ upward of 6,000 mechanics, good, bad and madifierent, claim and can substantiate the declarations that the adoption of an eighthour movement in this city means a paralyzation of the local building trades. It must be therefore met with the most determined opposition, and that upon the highest plane of equity and reason. With the united effort of the allied building craftsmen, the American Federation of Labor will have about as much chance of success as an icicle would in purting out the fires of his Satanie Majesty. Eighthours for a day's work is too short in the buildmay have learned something from contact with civilization, and knew that this winter would be mild.

Mr. Mercer thinks the reptile lost its inwages for that many hours of labor, but for the following indisputanble reasons:

WHAT THE REASONS ARE.

That in commencing work at 8 o'clock A. M. the day is so far advanced that workmen cannot in the heat of the day render service that would warrant living wages being paid. Between the hours of 7 and 8 A. M., in the cool of the morning, the mechanic nimbles himself for his day's work, which if he begins one hour later would commence his work in the heat of the day.

No contractor or builder could estimate the amount of work that could be performed under such circumstances, even if the mechanic behalf by the hour.

Eight hours labor means that all the planing mill work that is done in this city will be done in small towns, where they are not affected with labor organizations, large mercantile taxes, expensive water rents, vehicle licenses, costly in surance, etc., etc.

Some naturalists hold that if brutes' lives could be prolonged and they receive the same care in their education that people do, they would acquire the power of speech. Reptiles are long lived and cold blooded, and they may know much more than they are given reddit for. Judging from reports from all sections of the country they at least seem to have known that there was no hurry in getting into winter quarters last fall. St. Patrick's influence must be waning.

Boys are permitted to work in the mills and workshops, and they do as much labor as men in the cities, and are paid only boys' wages. They take a pride in doing their work instead of patting in the time.

Experience has demonstrated that where city mechanics refuse to put up the work manufactured in small places that workmen are imported from these places who come and put the work into position, and labor organizations dare not interfere with them. They receive protection from authorities that non-union men cannot.

AN OPINION ON BRICE

Al Carlisle Sizes Up the Would-Be Senator From Ohio.

WHAT OLD BANDANA SAYS OF HIM

The Old Roman Thinks Brice Would be Competent Man.

FACTS ON THE INSIDE OF OHIO'S FIGHT

Mr. Al. Carlisle, the well-known Ohio olitician, arrived in the city yesterday from a business trip through the Buckeye State. He was met by a reporter for THE DIS-PATCH, who asked his opinion of the Ohio Senatorial contest, on the eve of battle,

Mr. Carlisle answered: "Mr. Brice has the fight well in hand, and in my opinion there is no doubt of his receiving the caucus nomination." "What leads you to entertain that opin-

"Mr. Brice's thoroughly organized cam paign and superb management, and his fair treatment of the candidacy of other aspirsuts, has crystallized sentiment largely in his favor since the contest opened. The roorbacks or misrepresentations that have been made as to his subsidizing the press and not being a resident of Ohio, have been met with such rompt denials as to turn what was intended to damage him into his favor. Many of the opposition have put the question to Democrats and members of the Legislature friendly o him, 'If it were Cal. Brice, simply Lima lawyer, who were a candidate for Senator, would you vote for him?' With the same propriety a man might have asked when Grover Cleveland was nominated for Mayor of Buffalo, whether the people would then have picked him out for President of the United States, or whether they would have chosen Lincoln when he was mauling rails in Illinois. The Brice who was a law-yer of Lima, is a thing of the past.

MEASURING UP TO A BIG FIELD. "The man before the people now is the Brice who has had a field large enough to develop the great capacity innate in the man in dealing with master minds in the financial world, where he has proved a phenomenal success, coming out of every transaction with honor and credit, and without any act in his financial career leaving a stain upon his good name, and receiving a stain upon his good name, and recelving nothing but praise from the financial leaders of his State with whom he has been associated, all of whom, in this fight, irre-spective of politics, are speaking warm praises in behalf of the man's ability and ntegrity. He has taken several losing properties and put into the management hi energy and capacity for organization and turned them into some of the best paying properties in the State of Ohio. Such honors, such success, such indorsements do not to fall the lot of common, ordinary lawyers or ordinary men. The men who are raising this question will find that not only a majority of the members of the Legislature, but a great majority of the Democrats of Ohio, will prefer taking the reputation of the Brice of to-day rather than that of the unknown Brice of whom they talk. Such petty drives as this bave created sentiment for him among the thinking men of the party." BRICE AS A BOODLER. "It is charged that because he is a million aire, connected with corporations, he would not represent the sentiment of his party in "Mr. Brice is known as a thorough, hardworking Democrat, a close personal friend to Grover Cleveland, was a delegate at St. Louis in 1888, took a prominent part there, indorsed its action, and as Chairman of the National Committee conducted a canvass in accord with the teachings of the platform adopted at that convention. He did his part like a man, and success would have fol-lowed the effort but for treachery on the, part of certain Democrats in Brooklyn and New York, aided by the vast corruption fund used in behalf of the Republican party. fund used in behalf of the Republican party.

He is thoroughly in agreement with all the advanced deas of the Democracy on the questions of tariff reform, taxation and popular legislation. His cleanness, fairness and equity in his financial transactions are surely proof that he will be found on the side of the people, giving his best efforts in their behalf. Cal Brice cannot be referred to as a millionaire in the general use of that word. His riches have never taken him out of the circle of his former friends. He has none of the grasping characteristics of the conventional million aire, but is a thorough man of the people.

Knowing the close acquaint-anceship of Judge Thurman and Mr. Brice, I desired, for my own satisfaction, to learn the Judge's estimate of Mr. Brice's ability and competency for the position of Senator. I asked him the question, 'If he is elected what kind of a Senator do you think he will make?' In his usual trank manner he replied, 'He is a talented man and would make a competent Senator.'" Two Houses Adroitly Burglarized, but No Much of Value Stolen. "I at first thought," said Mr. Black to "I at first thought," said Mr. Black to a DISPATCH reporter that it was all imagination or nervousness, but finally took my gun and went downstairs. On reaching the kitchen I found a bright light burning and the window up; entering the dining room adjoining I found the outside door open, and upon a chair near a bundle of forks and spoons. Closer inspection revealed the fact that just above the lock, and in close proximity to the burglar-proof fixture, a square hole large enough to admit a hand had been chiseled through, the burglar latch lifted and the kev transthe burgiar latch lifted and the key trans entrance must have been effected very quietly. The "safety" latch was probably a foot above the key; the opening was made equi-distant between them, thus affording facility for the easy manipulation of both. The burglar unquestionably, after entering the door, went to the kitchen, there raising the window and ensuring either of the two
