SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

ROCHESTER, January 6.—The American Association of Baseball Clubs, met in town by the November combine at New York, pulled itself together to-day in excellent style and formally organized for the season of 1890.

FOR SUNDAY GAMES.

Arrangements had been made for Sunday afternoon games from Syracuse, where the Fenwick Street Car Company had grounds on the lake shore and the owners of the club were eager to become members.

FILLING UP THE VACANCIES.

The first thing in order being the question of filling the two vacancies. George H. Frazer, of Syracuse, said that city would execute the club and make a fair presentation of the club to the city.

MUST ACT AT ONCE.

That body was empowered to act at once and communicate with President Phelps. The vacancy will be filled by the following: President Lazarus suggested that as Rochester, Toledo and Syracuse had no representation on the committee.

SINGLE UMPIRE SYSTEM.

The double umpire system was not adopted, although it had some advocates. President Phelps was authorized to employ four umpires, whose aggregate salary should not exceed the amount appropriated.

BECK EWING'S DIAMOND.

"How is that for a nice set of sparks?" said Beck Ewing, as he flashed a magnificent diamond ring before the gaze of the writer yesterday afternoon.
