

REED TO BE BOSS.

The New Rules Will Place Great Power in the Speaker's Hands.

SOME VERY RADICAL DEPARTURES.

Prospects of the President's Naming the Pittsburgh Surveyor.

FATHER STEPHAN'S PROTEST NO GOOD.

Commissioner Morgan's Remission to be Reported Favorably.

THE REPUBLICAN MAJORITY OF THE HOUSE.

Committee on Rules is about ready to report. Their rules will be called radical, says one of the members. He doesn't think them too much so, though. Work has been begun on the contested election cases.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—The Republican members of the House Committee on Rules met to-day and went over the revised code which it is proposed to ask the House to adopt. One of the members of the committee is quoted as saying that the changes which have been adopted by them are all of a tendency to facilitate the progress of business and prevent the waste of time in filibustering started for that purpose alone.

"Some of the changes which we shall propose to the House," said this member, "will perhaps be called radical. For instance, we intend to maintain the right of the Speaker to determine the existence of a quorum of members in the House by counting them, whether they respond to the roll call or not."

"If it be found that there are not 100 members on the floor, the Speaker at once will be required, under the old rules, to search for and arrest the absentees and bring them before the day of the House. Then the Speaker will be given the power to discriminate as to the motions he will recognize, so that if he is manifestly in the wrong for the sake of delaying the public business, he may refuse to entertain it."

"Another very useful change, upon which we have not yet finally decided, but which is receiving consideration, is the reduction of the number of members necessary to constitute a quorum in committee from 100 to 50. There is no good reason why this should not be done. In the British House of Commons, a majority of 50 is considered sufficient in any committee of 100 members, and in the United States, a majority of 50 is considered sufficient in any committee of 100 members."

"It is foolish to suppose that there will be anything in the new code which is manifestly in the minority of their rights. We would not afford to suggest anything of that kind, for in some future Congress, if the strictness were again in our hands, we would be in an uncomfortable position by having our own rules operated on ourselves. Our duty has been, however, to frame such a code as will help the House to get through its work instead of retarding it, as the cumbersome rules of the past have done, and we believe that when we have completed our present work we shall have accomplished this desirable result."

"If the Democrats object to our code when we submit it to them, and fight its adoption, I don't see what else can be done than to conduct the business of the House as usual, and let the remainder of the session under the present parliamentary law. In such an event the Speaker would have the power in his hands to under any code of rules that could be adopted."

FARMERS ASK FOR PROTECTION.

They Want the Same Cure as is Taken of Manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—The Ways and Means Committee to-day listened again to the needs of the farmers in the way of protection. S. C. Bowen, of Medina, N. Y., spoke for the bean growers, and said they wanted a duty of 50 cents a bushel. S. W. Smith, of Allentown, Pa., wanted protection for hams. The members, he said, decided that they must be protected as were the manufacturers.

W. J. Colgan, of New York, proposed the proposition to increase the tax on red and blue ink. The effect of a tax on these articles, grown mainly in the East Indies, would operate to protect one monopoly against the interest of nearly all of the manufacturers of chairs and stools.

Another letter from a western chair-making company protesting against the proposed advance, saying that the protection was a matter of the rings and monopolies appearing before the Congressional committees, and threatening to be heard from at the polls at the next general election.

Other interests that were heard to-day were paper makers, wood pulp manufacturers, shoe and leather, button manufacturers, razor makers, optical instrument manufacturers and hat makers.

FATHER STEPHAN OVERHEARD.

His Protest Against Commissioner Morgan of No Avail.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—At the meeting of the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs, the reply of Commissioner Morgan to the charges filed against him by Father Stephan, Director of the Catholic Board of Missions, was presented and read.

At the conclusion of the discussion which followed, the committee, by a vote of 10 to 1, ordered the nominations of Thomas J. Morgan to be Indian Commissioner and of Dr. Charles to be Superintendent of Indian Schools to be reported favorably to the Senate.

A SAD JOURNEE HOME.

The Remains of George Martin Leave for the Capital.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—The remains of Mr. George Martin, correspondent for the Pittsburgh Times, were put upon the Baltimore and Ohio special this evening to be taken to Pittsburgh. They were accompanied by Mrs. Martin and her parents, ex-Congressman James, of Brooklyn, and his wife, and Messrs. Henry and James, of the Commercial Gazette and Post.

Services were held at the residence this afternoon, which were attended by many of the correspondents.

HE MAY BE HEYNT.

Prospects of the President's Settling the Pittsburgh Surveyor.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—It is the intention of the Secretary of the Treasury to present the papers on the interests of the various candidates for the Presidency to the President on Saturday, and possibly a decision may be reached in regard to a choice.

Possibly, however, in view of the very interesting nature of the contest, Mr. Harrison may find it difficult to make up his mind for some time to come.

At Work on the Contests.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—The House Committee on Elections to-day took up the first of the contested election cases in its docket—Smith versus Jackson, Fourth West Virginia district, and listened to arguments by G. C. Cleo for the contestant, and General J. C. Cleo for the contestant.
