

THE CAPITAL'S BID.

Washington's Claims for the World's Fair Set Forth at Length.

THE PLACE FOR A BIG SHOW.

Location Correct, Hotel Accommodations Unsurpassed, and

IT SHOULD BE A NATIONAL AFFAIR.

WASHINGTON, January 10.—The second hearing on the selection of the site for the Quadricentennial Exposition was held this morning in the ladies' reception room in the Senate wing of the Capitol, when the claims of the city of Washington were presented.

Mr. Douglas, one of the District Commissioners, stated the order in which the arguments would be presented, and closed his remarks by saying that if it should be concluded to hold the Exposition elsewhere than in the national capital the citizens of the District of Columbia would exercise their exertion, by money or otherwise, to make it a magnificent success.

A PERMANENT SHOW. Mr. Anderson, Secretary of the National Board of Promotion of the Three American Expositions, opened the arguments. He said he represented a board of promotion from all the States and Territories, who, under the name of a Board of Promotion, have been acting in the interest of the fair for four years. He summarized the provisions of the bills introduced by Senators Gorham and Faulkner, and argued that the building to be erected for the fair should be permanent, and should be under Government control.

STIMULUS TO THE PROGRESS. The reasons for selecting Washington were numerous. Washington was the city of the nation, and of all the cities of the country. It was the city of St. Louis, Chicago and New York, which had meant that the people of those cities had more control in representing the affairs of the District of Columbia than its residents had.

A BIG BOARDING HOUSE. As to the hotel accommodations, he said that there was no city in the world so elastic in hotel facilities. The city of Washington was practically a boarding house. It was accustomed to be transformed into a boarding house on great occasions. There never had been any difficulty in that respect at inaugural ceremonies, or other great conventions or gatherings.

THE ARGUMENTS CLOSED. General Felix Agnus, of Baltimore, the next speaker, said he came as an envoy from the State of Maryland to the Exposition as the place for holding the Exposition. He was, he said, a native of the United States. He had been in the army and carried the flag and fought with the troops of New York, and he felt that he was a citizen of that State. He said he thought that State claims should not be consulted.

A WAY TO DECIDE. The House May Take Continues Session on a Bill.—The Lowest City on Each Ballot to be Made TH

WASHINGTON, January 10.—The discussion of the World's Fair bill by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs has resulted in bringing forward a proposition which, it is suggested, may aid in the selection of the site for the fair by the House. The committee has already decided that it will report a bill leaving blank the name of the city where the fair shall be held, and it is feared that if it goes into the House in that shape, and without some arrangement in advance to govern the method of selection of a site, no agreement can ever be reached.

Under the ordinary parliamentary rules, the probable course of proceedings in the House would be for some member to move to insert the name of the site. Some other member would thereupon move to strike out that name and insert another. On the vote on this last proposition the opposition would combine to defeat it, and this would probably be the fate of the original proposition.

JUVENILE RACE WAR.

White and Black School Children Fight for the Possession of a Schoolhouse—A Lively Row in an Illinois Town.

ALTON, ILL., January 10.—There is a race war here, in which Southern issues are joined with a third that promises much trouble. The Board of Education has provided separate schools for the negroes, but the negroes are not grateful for this consideration, and insist on attending their own schools and attending the schools set aside for the white pupils.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING. Some Who Travel, Some Who Do Not, and Others Who Talk. —Congressman F. G. Neidighausen, of St. Louis, who wrote a humorous biography of his life for the Congressional Record, which was published in a number of papers throughout the country, passed through Pittsburgh, last evening, on the Eastern express. He was accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

—George B. Donaldson, Chief Rate Clerk of the Pennsylvania Railroad in this city, has been appointed traveling freight agent of the road on Thursday, January 10. His appointment will take effect on the 15th inst. It is rumored that the "Cover Lead," the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City Road, will establish an agency here soon. Nearly every railroad in the country is now represented here and they all get their share of the great traffic out of this city.

—United States Assistant Attorney General Shields was a passenger on the Eastern express last evening on his way from his home in St. Louis to Washington. He refused to talk about State matters, and particularly the blocks of five business. He is a tall, fine-looking gentleman, wears a strong hat, a white Albert coat and a long full beard. He is not known to his intimate associates, and deserves the title.

—Colonel J. W. Nichols, the operator of the Randall Club, who is to deliver the speech at the Termination and the Exposition, is expected to reach here on Thursday, January 10. He is preparing a synopsis of his remarks, which, although brief, will be national in its treatment of the aged soldiers of the war.

—W. S. Anderson, late proprietor of the Monongahela House, left last evening for the East, accompanied by his son Harry. His visit to the East is for a brief stay at a hotel in New York and also to inspect a hotel in Atlantic City, either of which he may be in possession of. He will return to Pittsburgh next week.

—C. C. Gerwin, a prominent politician of Illinois, was a passenger on the Eastern express last evening. He was a candidate for Congress at the last election, and was on his way to Washington, D. C., to confer with other well-known politicians in regard to appointments in his own State.

—Jacob Leman and wife, of Mexico, are at the Seventh Avenue Hotel. Mr. Leman is a Yankee, who has made a fortune in the Southwest, and is now in the East, to see what he can do there. He is in the city looking for a man to manage a manufacturing plant near the capital.

MISS PURCELL LEAVES TRESTON.

Dr. Kallia and the Typewriter Street to Visit Relatives.

TRESTON, N. J., January 10.—A little before 9 o'clock this morning a carriage drove up to the Kallia residence, on Broad street, and David Purcell and his sister Emma at once got in and were driven to the railway station, whence they took the 9:10 train for Broadway, Warren county. Miss Purcell will remain with her mother until Tuesday, January 21, when she will be required to appear here at the Court of Oyer and Terminer.
