DISEASED MEAT KEPT OUT.

Dr. McChesney Condemns Windy City

Stock as Not Fit to Eat.

MR. M'CUTCHEON IS SUSTAINED.

George McCutcheon, Meat and Milk Inspector, has been for some time in receipt of congratulatory letters on his clearing the war upon the "lump-jaw" cattle sent here committee said: from Chicago is regarded as the best move

With regard to the milk question, he has made within three weeks 277 tests, and only found eight that did not come up to the requirements of the lactometer and the public. This he accounts for by the stand he took against skimmed milk and watered cow juice about a year ago, when he brought suit against some of the leading dairymen of the county, Inspector McCutcheon still says that just as good milk can be obtained in the city from cows which are stall-fed as from the so-called creamery farms, the owners of which are too anxious to churn their cream into golden butter. The cows which get exercise and are sent out during the grazing season for fresh fodder gives much better milk, he elected the representative from that board says, for infants or invalids, than the socalled country cows, whose product is agitated by long railroad trips and made unfit A request we

KEPT HIM POSTED. Inspector McCutcheon, who started the first fight against the lump-lawed cattle and the diseased meat generally shipped from Chleago to other cities, disguised in tin overcoats as corned beef, or in sealskin wrappers as sausages of every class, has been kept posted pretty thoroughly by the Chi-cago people on the status of the cattle trade the city that wants the World's Fair. The Inspector shows the state of affairs as at present existing in Chicago, and the debates that occur in the city at the foot of Lake Michigan, on the very evil which was overhis fight against lump-jawed cattle for food, although opposed by home butchers who used the Chicago dressed meat, and by the capital of the producers of the to administer to weak stomachs.

Some extracts are given from a letter addressed by H. C. McChesney, of the Illi-nois State Board of Live Stock Commissioners, to Dr. Wickersham, Health Commissioner of Chicago, and consequently all Cook county, which will give an idea of how the diseased meat question still rankles after Pittsburg stirred it up:

Doctor, you will excuse me if I comment ins little bit on portions of your interview pub-shed in the press of December 31 regarding diseased meat put on or attempted to be placed for sale on the market by the State Board of live Stock Commissioners; also upon the manner in which you and the inspective under your charge have discharged the responsible duties of your office, but more particularly your trusty chief, Matt Lamb. Your declaration that none but healthy meat should be sold for consump-tion, even if you have to call on the police force, shows the fact that you feel as you ought to for the safety of the public, and the warmth with which you express yourself, eliminating the theatrical part, the sawing of the air with your arms and pounding your right fist into the palm of your left hand carries conviction to the minds of all that no slaughterer will deal in other than healthy cattle.

palm of your left hand carries conviction to the minds of all that no slaughterer will doal in other than healthy cattle.

LAMB IN CHARGE.

You say that upon receipt of the first rumor that diseased cattle were being sent in you sent Lamb to the yards and put him in charge. In charge of what, doctor? You should be more specific so people will understand you. You say that half a dozen attempts have been made to remove him; and immediately after the failure of such attempts lumpy-jawed cattle were received there. Received where? doctor. The cattle you complain of were unloaded at the slaughter house on Sunday mornings and were immediately shughtered. tor. The cattle you complish of were unleaded at the slanghter house on Sunday mornings and were immediately slaughtered.
Where was your trusty man, Matt Lamb? He knows that many cattle are slaughtered on the Sabbath. Why did he neglect his duty? Doctor, it was because of the failure of the health department of the city of Chicago to properly discharge its duty that the State Board of Live Stock Commissioners was forced to order the Stock Commissioners was forced to order the State veterinarian and his assistants to visit all dustillery cattle sheds in the State and place in quarantine all cattle affected with actinomykosts.

I believe you to be a thoroughly bonest man, desirous of discharging your full duty to the people, and regret exceedingly to find you placed in this awkward position by your trusty placed in the sawkward p pan Lamb. If it is true that the principal i man Lamb. If it is true that the principal is responsible for the acts of his agents I find you will have to have the carcasses of $2 cattle, affected with one of the most dangerous bovine diseases communicable to mankind, placed on the market to be sold for human food. That a man having 16 years' experience in the inspection of cattle at slaughter houses should out of 100 diseased cattle pass $2 as healthy can only be accounted for on the ground that he is a secoundrel or a fool.

A ROAST ON LAMB.

Months since, for good and sufficient reasons, the State Board ordered the stock yards com-pany to pass no lumpy-jawed cattle out of the wards on the certificate of Matt Lamb, and recent acts make it necessary to include in the order all employes of the health department stationed at the stock yards. During the many years your trusty man, Matt Lamb, has served as Health Inspector at the slaughtering estab-lishments in this city, thousands of cattle affected with that dread disease have been driven from the stock yards, slaughtered, and their carcasses sold on the market for human food. Neither you, the public, nor I will ever know how many people found untimely graves by eating that diseased meat, but we can know

This was the state of affairs discovered by bad as it was then, with the exception that no shipments are made to Pittsburg of discensed meat. The Inspector says that when eased meat. The Inspector says that when don't relish, their money at home. This they don't relish, their money not being so secure or remunerative as it would be if it was in a him to be in the right, and to keep Pitts-burg markets clear of diseased food. Inspector Lamb referred to above, is the eitizen who came on to Pittsburg at the time Inspector McCutcheon made his famous fight against Chicago dressed meat. At that time he declared no lump-jawed cattle were shipped from that city.

James Snyder, foreman of McCully's glasshouse, Twenty-eighth street, made an information before Alderman Warner, charging E. Woods, J. Killgollen, J. Tynery, J. Pirrsburg, January 14, 1890. Five years ago to-day, we were compelled to inform our creditors that we were unable to meet our obligations as they matured, and to ask them for an extension. We then promised that if time were given, and the management of our property and business left in our own hands, we would pay one hundred cents for every dollar we owed, with 6 per cent interest. We are now ready to fulfill that promise, and beg to advise you that the notes for the last installment of our extension indebtedness, and beg to advise you that the notes for the last installment of our extension indebtedness, principal and interest, will be paid when due on the first day of February next.

We think this a fitting time for us to express our appreciation of the liberal treatment we received at the hands of those to whom we were indebted, and the many expressions of confidence tendered us in the time of our trouble. We are as proud of having justified the expections of our friends, as we are of the redemption of our promises and the preservation of our good name.

Major J. F. At present, he says, the appropriations are all nearly exhausted, except the sinking fund, and the cost of running the city business between now and March will be about $250,000, which will be needed for salaries, etc.

The method agreed upon between the Treasurer and the banks is for him to draw by personal check as the money is required, retain the warrants as they are handed in; and instead of cancelling them, deposit them in the various banks as vouchers, taking up the check previously made. This idea is to secure the convenience of city employes and prevent their having to wait over two

Voorhees, a sou of the Tall Sycamore of the Wabash, was placed in nomination by the Democrats. The women unanimously supported him and he was elected. A local option law came up shortly thereafter, fathered by the Republicans and opposed by the Democrats. The women supported this law. When Statehood was broached the women were without a party, and the statute giving them the right of suffrage was stricken

The men of Kansas are now much more in favor of the movement than they were before the right of franchise was given to the other sex. One result of the movement in Kansas and other States where women have the glorious privilege of marching to the polls is that it has elevated their minds. Women, instead of discussing Mrs. Thingumbob's last dress, which was so loud that it kept her husband awake o' nights, now talk of silver coinage, the probabilities of Grover Cleveland's candidacy in '92, the mpropriety of President Harrison's shooting hogs on a duck hunting expedition, and other topics calculated to place them on a level with their husbands. The Allegheny Valley Railroad Company is going to build a fine bridge constructing shop at Verona, The land adjoinstructing shop at Verona. The land adjoin-ing their shops has been purchased, and Liberty, on the 16th inst., at 7:30 Until almost the last day of life she was upon this ground a large shop will be erected. It will be fitted out with all kinds of improved machinery for constructing bridges. For some time past the Valley had their bridge works located in Oil City, but they found it inconvenient to have the shops separated, so they decided to build a commodious building at Verona. When the shop is built and fitted up it will be the mest complete of its kind in the country. Bridge constructing on the Valley road has become quite a feature in the business of the road. Between Pittsburg and Oil City the railroad people are going to strengthen the bridges, and this department will be watched very closely.

A most distressing circumstance happened vesterday in connection with the transfer of the bridge shop from Oil City to Verona. Mr. E. Lewis, who was lately appointed to the position of Superintendent of the bridge constructing works, came to Verona from Oil City to lay out the plans for the new shops. While standing on the bank of an engine pit he suddenly fell backward into the pit. The accident was not thought to be serious. Mr. Lewis was picked up and he walked to the cars to return home. When he was on his way home he gave a sudder gasp and expired.

Superintendent Lewis was universally respected on the road. He was genlous earnest, affable and was endowed with fine mechanical abilities. His early demise is deeply regretted by the officers and men.

WILLING TO COME IN.

Reserve Township People Auxious to Cast Their Lot With Allegheny.

Tired of mud and city discomforts without attendant benefits, a strip of Reserve township, bordering on the Alleghenv City line, wants to get in, and it appears that 'Barkis is willin'," as a considerable number of our Northside neighbors want their population swelled to 100,000 so as to become a city of the second class. The petiioners, who are chaperoned by Commor Council Amerlich, of the Seventh ward, will add 500 to Allegheny's population, and as the section wanting in is compact it will not cost much to extend water, police and electric light to it.

SOLEMN FUNERAL SERVICE.

Mrs. Mansell, Wife of the M. E. Paster of McKeespart, Buried Yesterday. The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Dr. Mansell were conducted in the First McKeesport M. E. Church. Seventyfive ministers were present. Elder Miles conducted the burial service. The church was crowded with sorrowing friends. Many beautiful flowers were sent to the home of the deceased, which were placed upon the casket, completely covering it. The new National bank of Lawrenceville will be located at 3423 Butler street temporarily. The property was leased yesterday by the incorporators of the bank from Mr. Thomas McCaffrey. It is the intention of the stockholders to build a commodious Milnor had several slides in exhibit of human blood corpuscles, Mr. C. C. Mellor, petrified coral, and Mr. J. H. McRoberts exhibited human flesh that had fallen a victim to the triching. Though the specimens have somewhat shrivelled by the alcohol in which they were preserved the utterly depraved and ferocious character of the parasite could easily be gathered from its appearance even when in liquor." Mr. C. C. Meller, from the Committee on Federation, reported a plan of union and of the various scientific societies of the city, and it was that a federation was not practicable, but that an academy of art and sciences had been decided upon, a charter prepared and now awaiting signatures. The object was to secure a suitable building as a home for all the societies at a cost that would not be oppressive, where zoological, geological and other collections that had

REASONS FOR RESIGNING.

Father A. A. Lambing, of Wilkinsburg, was approached yesterday afternoon by a DISPATCH reporter regarding his recent resignation as Secretary of the Western tendered his resignation, he said: "Most assuredly I have, but they have not olution of regret or something of that

As to why he resigned the reverend father said he was weary trying to awaken and keep up a society that had no life and no ambition. The Historical Society, he said, sisted of the thorn-backed ray of the skate much occupied with the present, to care for family; radiata, or star fish, or more comcalled by Mr. John C. Porter, who is acting as Secretary. Father Lambing said he had prepared a great many papers for the socie-ty, over which he would spend time and monly known as the five-fingered Jack; sea thought, and would go to the meeting to find only a handrul of gentlemen to listen to the reading of the paper, which showed a lack of appreciation on the part of the members of the society.

The gentleman said he was ready to resume labors in the society whenever it showed signs of resurrection, and would oc-casionally send them a paper while it re-mained in its lethargic condition.

COMING OVER TO THE STRIKERS. ome of the Light Company's Men Say

They Did Not Know the Facts. Six employes of the Allegheny County Light Company, who have been filling the places of the strikers, were present at a meeting of the Strike Committee last evening. They were from Cleveland and other points, and explained that the stories of the strike related to them by the company's officials and by the strikers were so much at variance that they desired to make an explanation of how they had come to the city. They said that they had been on strike in Cleveland and had come on here on the representations of a Mr. Miller, an official o the company, that there was no serious diffi culty on hand. Arriving here, they had put up at the American House, where they were waited upon by a man who said that he was from the union, who told them that the difficulty between the company and the men had nothing to do with any trade or ganizations. Satisfied on this score, for they themselves were members of a Western Electrical Union, they turned into work next morning.

The committee explained the true cause and standing of the difficulty, and the visitors expressed their intention of appearing at the full meeting of the union on next Friday night. As a result of statements distributed among the carbon setters and linemen, outlining the exact condition of the affair, it is said that a number of the men now at work will be present at the Friday meeting.

Circulation-Number of volumes withdrawn Circulation—Number of volumes withdrawn during 1886, 12,846.

Donations—The thanks of the Library are due to A. F. Keating, Miss E. Darlington, Dr. Muller, Mrs. J. F. Hudsen, Hon. John Daizell, Hon. Thomas Ewing, for books donated, and to Charles J. Clarke and R. A. Elliott, for plants and flowers to brighten the reading room.

In presenting the year's report we are gratified to be able to say that the demand for scientific, philosophical and bistorical works has tific, philosophical and historical works has noticeably increased; even though we must ad-mit that the general circulation is smaller year by year. The cause for this we find in the chean unper books and cheap paper books sold at so many stores-not really in the book trade. Respectfully, M. F. MACHUM, Librarian.
