Cokers' leaders say they don't want a strike. Still they reject the employers' scale. There is talk of an ominous outlook, if the breach is not closed. Prices are high. Great contracts are soon to be signed. Much depends, therefore, on the outcome of the present scale contest.

INPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR.1 SCOTTDALE, January 15 .- At labor headquarters here they say they are not afraid of a cokers' strike, but intimate that if their scale is not conceded a lively time can be looked for. Whether they mean a strike by this or not can hardly be determined. A coke operator was approached by THE DISPATCH correspondent yesterday and asked as to what effect the wage trouble would have on trade. He promptly replied that it would effect it for two or three weeks yet, even if the matter "was" fixed up. He said he believed the coke trade for '90 would aurpass any year before in excellency. In reference to prices he was not prepared to state whether it would be increased to $2 or not, but would not be surprised to see it.

ONE cold is sometimes contracted on top of another, the accompanying cough becom-ing settled and confirmed, and the lungs so strained and racked, that the production of tubercules frequently follows. Many existing cases of pulmonary disease can be thus accounted for, and yet how many others are now carelessly allowing themselves to drift through the preliminary symptoms, con-trolled by the fatal policy of allowing a cold to take care of itself! On the first intima-tion of a cough or cold, or any throat or lung trouble, resort promptly to Dr. Jayne's Ex-pectorant, a safe curative of long established reputation, and you may avoid the conse-quences of such dangerous trifling.

a brief opinion, Judge Stowe said that after a careful consideration of the arguments of counsel in the case, he did not think the relief prayed for should be granted. He said it was not necessary, nor perhaps proper, to enter into any special argument at present to sustain such opinion. Continuing, he said:

"I am at present decidedly of the opinion that the return required by the commissioners and assessor should be made in the form prescribed by them for the purpose of enabling the proper authorities to determine what properties so returned are liable to a taxation under the act of 1889, and I may add that I cannot at present agree with the views expressed by counsel that money deposited in either of the banks on interest, or the capital stock of the Germania Bank, or the mortgages, etc., with the exceptions specified in the act of both are not liable to taxation; it may be to an amount less than the capital stock, but upon which I express no opinion. To go further than this at present mightly prove embarrassing hereafter. The injunction prayed for is now refused."
