A Test Vote Shows How the Windy City Getting in its Work.

AN ATTEMPT TO DRAW THE LINES,

Pitting the Atlantic Coast Against the Mississippi Valley.

The Atlantic Coast and the Mississippi Valley had a tilt yesterday over the World's Fair in Congress. The valley, represented by Chicago, gained a temporary advantage. This was almost lost, though, soon afterward. Yet Chicago recovered in time to show her strength was about equal to that of her opponents combined

WASHINGTON, January 16 .- In the House, to-day, Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, from the Committee on Rules, reported a resolution for the appointment of a committee on the World's Fair, to consist of 13 members, which committee shall within three days report a plan by which the House can determine the site of the proposed fair, and sub-sequently report a bill providing for the fair. Mr. Cannon, from the minority of the | count. committee, reported a substitute resolution ferred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, divers bills, petitions, and memorials touching the projected World's Fair of 1892, thereby giving full jurisdiction to that committee of the whole subject matter, and said committee has given exhaustive consideration to the same;

Resolved, That the Committee on Foreign Affairs be instructed to report a resolution providing a method of selecting the locality of the World's Fair of 1892, by a vote of the House of Representatives, first, whether said fair shall be held east or west of the Allegheny Mountains: second, the selection of the place for the location of said fair. After such vote shall have been taken, the committee, at the earliest possible day, shall report a bill provid-ing for a World's Fair in 1852 to be held at the GOOD WORDS FOR HIMSELF.

Mr. Hitt, of Illinois, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, favored the substitute resolution, and testified to the vigorous and faithful work which that committee had performed in reference to the projected World's Fair. The site having been selected by the House the committee could, within 24 hours, report a plan for the fair which would be satisfactory to all the members of the House. Mr. Morrow, of California, took the same view.

Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, favored the ma-

A COMPACT DENIED.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, denied that there had been any compact between the representatives of the competing cities. It was true that they had agreed to request the Speaker to call a meeting of the Committee on Rules, in order to create a special committee; but the only intention of that agree ment was that the committee might sit during the holiday recess.

Mr. Hatch characterized Mr. Springer's argument as "special pleading." The reprethey had treated with were looking around for loopholes through which to crawl out of n honorable contract. Mr. Springer denied that there had been any compact. He denied the right of any

Mr. Cummings, of New York, said that all New York asked was a fair, square deal, and no trickery. Mr. Spinola, of New York, thought that the friends of Chicago had not acted in perfect good faith; and he said that the Chicago bill had been slipped

Mr. Adams, of Illinois, denied that the bill had been slipped in. It had been introduced in the ordinary course of proceedings. CHICAGO BEADY TO VOTE. The speaker had felt the pulse of members, and Chicago was ready to voic on the question now. Why was my delay wanted? He referred to St. Louis as a great city—a suburb of Chicago, which Chicago would annex at the next spring election, if it had time. [Laughter.]

Hatch retorted that Chicago had taken in all the farm lands within 25 or 50 miles of her Court House, and she was now desirous of getting within her limits a firstclass, honorable, commercial city. [Laugh-

Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, argued against withdrawing the jurisdiction from the For-eign Affairs Committee, which had been appointed without prejudice and without pre-conceived notions. The gentlemen from New York never wanted a new deal until they held a bad hand.

Mr. Flower retorted that they did not want the eards stocked upon them.

Mr. Butterworth replied that the Foreign Affairs Committee had been appointed when it was not known that this subject would ever come before it.
Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, said that the great contest was between the coast on the one hand and the Valley of the Mississippi on the other; and it would be simplified if it could first be decided whether the tair abould be held east or west of the Alle-ghenies. For the past two hours it had been thrust in his face that he had acted in bad faith. This he denied.

IT NEVER CAME. When Congress met, said Mr. Cannon, everybody that wanted a fair, recognising that there was scant time to prepare for it, said, "Let us have a special committee."

For that reason he did co-operate, but somehow the special committee never came, and the standing committees were appointed and the House took the holiday recess. The House (as was its right) had referred bill after bill in regard to the World's Fair to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, which was nearly ready to report.

Mr. Hatch again referred to the agreement, and Mr. Gannon remarked that they had no power to bind the House. Mr.
Hatch retorted that they had power to bind each other as honorable men. Mr. Cannon claimed the protection of the Chair, declaring that he could not run a race against a windmill.

Mr. Hatch-You can't run a race against the truth.
Mr. Cannon-If the gentleman says acted in bad faith ,he says what he ought not to say, and what is not true.

Mr. Hatch—The gentleman never said it.

Mr. Cannon—I say again that the object of that co-operation immediately after the meeting of Congress was a special committee; and it was not an agreement which should last through the session. We failed to get the special committee; and the object failing, the agreement failed.

Mr. Cannon then modified his resolution by striking out the alone.

The vote was then taken on substituting Mr. Cannon's resolution for that reported by Mr. McKinley, and it was defeated— yeas, 140; nays, 142. Mr. Springer, arising to a question of privilege, said that he had kept a close tally of the vote, and his tally did not agree with the official tally. Without impugning anyone he asked for a re-

Many members contended that the next vote should be taken on the McKinley resolution, as amended by the substitu-tion of the Cannon resolution; but the Speaker held otherwise, and stated that the next vote was upon substituting the majority resolution, as amended, for the original resolution referred to the Committee on Rules. The vote was watched with intense interest, and when it was known, at the end of the roll-call, that the resolution had been defeated by a tie vote, Mr. Springer, of Illinois, who had voted in the affirmative, changed his vote to the negative, in order to be able to move a reconsideration. The substitute was rejected—Yeas 133, noes 135. Mr. Springer moved to reconsider, and Mr. McKinley moved to lay that motion on the table, pending which the House ad-

Senator Butler Supports Mr. Morgan's Proposition-Mr. Boar Replies to Both Gentlemen-Arguments on Both Sides of the Question.

WASHINGTON, January 16 .- The Senate to-day took up the bill introduced by Mr. jority resolution. He said that prior to the Butler on December 12, to provide for the emigration of persons of color from the Affairs, the geutlemen representing the competing cities had entered into a compact that a special committee should be created.

All St. Louis asked was that a special committee should be created. Southern States and other States. Mr. mittee should be appointed by the Speaker, distorted by party considerations, or conand that that committee should contain au equal number of the friends of the four limits of party lines. It rose above party cities competing for the fair. Gentlemen might rest assured that no representative of Missouri, or no friend of St. Louis would tions. Would the colored people in the United States, he asked, be able to maintain themselves on an equal footing with white men, and so as not to jeopardize the well-being of American institutions? The opinion appeared to be growing that an honest effort should be made to ascertain why not, and to determine what was best to be done.

Mr. Butler referred to the absence of colored people from all high positions in this of the Secretary Tracy, who, unaware of the Secretary and saw in that test the area of the secretary and saw in that test the area of the secretary and saw in that test the area of the secretary and saw in that test the area of the secretary and saw in that test the area of the secretary and saw in that test the secretary area of the secretary area.

country, and saw in that fact the proof of unforgiven, incurable race prejudice. If anybody, he said, had predicted, before the war, that Southern States would, within a few years, be represented in both Houses of Congress by men who were then slaves, should be replanted. The authorities said it Congress by men who were then slaves, he would have been laughed at and derided as a negro Nihilist. And after many as they pleased with it. While this is strictnegroes were in Congress, if it had been pre-dicted that, in ten years, not one negro would be sitting in either House, the pre-diction would have had few believers. And so, if anyone predicted to-day that, within half a century, not a full-blooded, genuine negro would be found in the United States, he would not be believed; and yet there were men who expected that very thing.

The bill, Mr. Butler said, contemplated a Mr. Springer asserted that the friends of Chicago had done just what they had agreed to do.

Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, opposed the creation of a special committee, and called attention to the fact there were two New York members on the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

NEW YORK OBJECTS.

The bill, Mr. Butler said, contemplated a gradual, orderly, voluntary movement of the colored people out of the Southern States, and provided Government aid to enable them to do so.

Mr. Hoar replied to Mr. Butler. It seemed to him that this proposition was the most astonishing that he had ever heard in the legislative history of any free, civilized

Mr. Turner, of New York, strongly opposed Mr. Cannon's proposition that the

Dr. Flood is too busy to oppose Representative Culbertson for Congress. Secretary Tracy is in trouble about an ash tree. The President is reported as inclining to appoint Dravo Surveyor at Pittsburg.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] WASHINGTON, January 16 .- The annua meetings of the National Glass Manufactu rers' Association and of the Eastern Associ ation were held to-day, in this city. At th former meeting nothing was done beyon some routine business of no particular in terest to outsiders. The following list officers was elected for the National Associa tion: President, William E. Smith, Alton, Ill.: Vice President, Joseph Atkin son, of Hawley, Pa.; Secretary, Thomas W.

J. T. Gorsuch, of Gainesville, O. It was expected that at to-day's meetin of the Eastern Association something would be done to adjust the difficulties between th manufacturers and the glass blowers. This however, did not occur. On the contrary, resolution was adopted reaffirming the pe sition heretofore taken by the association refusing to accept the scale of wages offere by the glass blowers, and declining to recog nize their demands. DR. FLOOD OUT OF THE RACE. An Increase of His Private Business Retires

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. WASHINGTON, January 16 .- Mr. Arthur L. Bates, City Solicitor of Meadville, Pa., arrived here to-day on private business. Incidentally he strolled up to the Capitol and gave Congressman Culbertson the ineresting piece of information that Rev. Dr. I. L. Flood, who was to have been Mr. Culbertson's opponent for the Republican Congressional nomination this year will not seek the honor at the coming convention. In speaking of the matter to THE DISPATCH correspondent, Mr. Bates said:

Of course, Dr. Flood has not made any public announcement of this decision of his, but it is generally understood among his friends in Meadville. The reason is that his business affairs will demand his attention too closely to permithim to seek the nomination. He is the publisher of the magazine. The Chaulauqua, and at a meeting of the Chautauqua Society, held last week, it was decided to permit him to incorporate with the magazine several other of the society publications. This means, of course, increased work for him, and as he finds it immensely profitable, he proposes to devote his whole attention to it. This clears up the political situation in the district, and Mr. Culbertson will probably have no opposition in securing a renomination.
