THE CRISIS REACHED

Sterrett Union Will Retain the Day Nursery.

MRS. CAMPBELL RESIGNED.

Mrs. Foster Expected to Make Trouble at Cleveland.

SHE WANTS THE NATIONAL OFFICE

The trouble which has existed in the Sterrett W. C. T. U. for some time culminated vesterday afternoon in a stormy session held in the Allegheny Day Nursery, which lasted about two hours. The fight was for the control of the Day Nursery and the adoption of an smendment to the consti-

Miss Etta L. Clark, who had given notice at the previous meeting that she would offer an amendment to the constitution, moved to strke out the section providing that the managers of the Day Nursery must be members of some union. This was the first bombshell, and it exploded with considerable force. Mrs. Morton said the section had been adopted to satisfy the Board of Managers a year ago, and she wanted to know why another change was desired. Miss Clark replied in a general way that it was for the good of the nursery. Mrs. Haslett moved that Miss Clark's amendment be not adopted.

Mrs. Campbell then raised the question as to whether it was within the province of the Sterrett Union to change the constitution of the Day Nursery, it being under the control of a board of managers. This having been or a board of managers. This having been decided in the affirmative, the matter was discussed. Mrs. Morton thought she might be induced to support the proposed amendment if the managers would agree to continue the work under the control of the Sterrett Union, and would agree not to make any attempts in the future to take it from the union.

HER PLAIN REMARKS. Mrs. Campbell, the State President of the new alliance, then said: "I want to say that it will not make a particle of difference to me whether you adopt this amendment or not. I might as well tell you now that it will be impossible for me to continue in any office under the Sterrett Union so long as its present relations with the National W. C. T. U. exist. This Day Nursery was established to help the Sterrett Union because it was going down. The help of the Sterrett Union was never required to sustain the Day Nursery, and after a great deal of discouraging work the board has suc-ceeded in placing it on the basis which it occu-pies to-day. The board has done the work, and the Sterrett Union has derived the benefit, both in their county, State and National work. And if the amendment was adopted the nursery would be conducted on a still broader basis, and would get more liberal support."

Mrs. Keifer-Where would the nursery be to-day had it not been for the board of Man-agers? How would you have been able to report $2,000 in your treasury?

Mrs. Orr—Was not a committee appointed by loard of Managers to ask for a release of ursery, and if the union refused that to this amendment? offer this amendment?

To this question cam-a choral reply from the members of the board in the negative. On the contrary, the committee they had appointed to contrary, the committee they and appointed to represent them at the previous meeting was not present, and the board was not heard in the matter at all.

A vote was then taken on the amendment, and it was lost. Mrs. Stevenson fired the second shell, and it fell with a crash. She wanted to snell, and it fell with a crash. She wanted to know where the proxy voters were, and if her side had not the same right to cast proxies as the opposition had at the previous meeting. The President, Mrs. Gemmel, offered as an excuse that proxies had been received in a meeting of the County Union. This brought Mrs. Campbell to her feet. She occupied the county presidency for three years during which had y for three years, during which no

MRS. CAMPBELL'S DENIAL. Mrs. Campbell then explained the meeting of the County Union, to which reference had been made, and denied that proxy votes had been received. An amendment was considered, and some of the members had to leave before final action could be taken. They secured authority from the convention to write their votes and leave them with the Secretary. These could not be considered proxy votes. But the proxy votes cast at the meeting of Sterrett Union had been canvassed and brought in and counted un-authorized. Mrs. Campbell closed by stating that but for a desire to preserve peace and harmony, she would contest the legality of the wote, Mrs. Stevenson then stated that there had been a great deal of misunderstanding about the matter; that some of the members had been led to believe that the resolution provided for the disbandment of the Day Nursery entirely; the disbandment of the Day Sursery cutrerly; others had been told that the fight was between the United Presbyterians and the Covenanters, and that the former were endeavoring to get control. Mrs. Haslett then moved a reconsideration of the resolution, which was ordered, but the final disposition was the same as at the previous meeting.

Mrs. Campbell then tendered her resignation Mrs. Campbell then tendered her resignation as superintendent of the Press department. It was accepted, but not until several members who, though differing widely from Mrs. Campbell in the present trouble, had said they still held her in high regard, and expressed the good feedings and harmony that prevailed in former years were exchanged. The women felt keenly that the associations which had existed for years were to be severed forever, so far as their temperance work was concerned, and when Mrs. Campbell retired, bidding farewell to the women, there was not a dry eye among them. The bitterness and divisions of the past were lost in the farewells and good wishes for the future.

In this connection it may be said that now that a new national temperance organization is about to be formed as the result of strife within the ranks of the old, it turns out that there is to be a hard fight even before that can be accomplished. Countless charges have been made that the new alliance is a child of the Kepublican party, and most vigorously have these charges been denied by the leaders in the movement. When the calls for the State and charges been denied by the leaders in the movement. When the calls for the State and national conferences were sent out, it was claimed by those who opposed the scheme that these documents were signed by wives of Republican leaders, and that sooner or later the women who are now crying down non-partisanship would be found indorsing and working for the Republican party even with greater vigor than does the W. C. T. U. indorse and work in the interest of the Prohibition party.

This was met with emphatic statements that politics was to be most rigorously excluded from the new alliance, and that the new organization would never be allowed to follow in the footsteps of the old and degenerate into a political organization. But yesterday came the information from Cleveland that Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, of Iowa, who has long since been recognized as having a pretty warm feeding for the Republican party, and who is charged with having been in its employ on various occasions, has been in Cleveland since last Friday working among the people who are expected to attend the meeting to-day, with a view to be elected national president of the new alliance. If Mrs. Foster is elected the result is apparent. The arguments of the people who have said all along that the Republicans were at the back of the new organization will apparently be carried out. And her chances for election are considered very good.

sidered very good. FRIENDS IN OTHER STATES.

She will come from Iowa with a solid phalanx of supporters. She has many friends in Penn-sylvania and in the other States to be presented in the Cleveland conference, and she has cer-tainly not been working in vain in Cleveland for a week. She addressed two meetings there on Sunday, and has attended several other meetings.

State alliance, and who expect to attend the Cleveland meeting, are desperate over the matther. They fully appreciate the light they will be placed in if Mrs. Foster is put at the head of their national organization. One of them said yesterday afternoon: "If Mrs. Foster is elected, it will kill our organization at the start. We have certainly worked honestly and earnestly to keep politics out of our alliance, and to think that such an element as this should enter the work at the beginning is, indeed, disheartening." Mrs. Ellen J. Phinney, of Cleveland, is considered the proper person for the office, and she will be put up as a candidate for the Presidency against Mrs. Foster. Up until yesterday the feeling in Pennsylvania was in favor of Mrs. Campbell, but the Keystone delegates will be induced, if possible, to vote for Mrs. Phinney. Mrs. H. C. Campbell, the new Pennsylvania President; Mrs. Ellen M. Watson, the Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Joseph D. Weeks, Mrs. William Miller and Miss Etta L. Clark left last night on the fast line for Cleveland, where the convention will oe called to order at 10 o'clock this morning by Mrs. Phinney. The election of officers will take place to-morrow, and it promises to be exceedingly lively.

THREATENED TO BOLT.

A Lively Meeting of the Monongabela Conclave of the L. O. H. Last Night-An Amendment Raising the Dues to $10, With a Rebate for Attendance, Defeated. There was a very lively meeting of Hepta-sophs at Grand Army Hall, Fourth avenue, last evening, the occasion being the regular meeting of Monongahela Conclave, and the cause of the wordy battle being an amendment to the by-laws relating to the annual dues, The members of Monongahela Conclave have been paying $4 per annum as regular yearly dues. At the first meeting in December an amendment was submitted which provided that the annual dues should be $10 instead of $4, with the proviso that by attendance at at least two-thirds of the regular meetings would secure a rebate so adjusted from quarter to quarter as to maintain the annual dues at the former sum. Those who did not or could not former sum. Those who did not or could not attend regularly, thought that the amendment was in the nature of a fine for non-attendance. Although several very bitter speeches were made when the resolution was offered, it was referred to a committee for action. The committee deemed it an excellent plan, and forthwith reported it back to be acted on at the meeting of last night. The matter came up and there were oratorical fireworks for two mortal hours, when the meeting broke up, with the members still discussing the matter very excitedly. From one of those present it was learned that the amendment had been defeated by a very close vote. Those in favor of the plan threatened to call it up again, hoping that free discussion would commend it to the majority of the members of the Couclave. It was learned also that a number of members threatened to withdraw from the Conclave and join some other, if the amendment obtained. Altogether it was a very lively episode in secret society circles. The fight was a subject of great interest to the various Conclaves of the city, it being generally regarded as a test case on the expediency of heavier dues than now exist.

The heads of the order bave faith in the plan as will be seen from the subjoined interview last evening with the Supreme Archon of the order, S. A. Will, Esq. He said: One of the great features of the society is to secure insurance at net rates. A great many join solely with this object in view, and do not take any active interest in the affairs of the order, imagining that their responsibility ends with the payment of their dues. This is by no means the case. Such reclief there we have continued in the case of the the payment of such neglect throws the entire burden of lodge work on a few. The constitu-tion requires its conclaves to hold 25 meetings per year, two always each month and failure to do this subjects them to fine, and, with re-peated neglect, disfranchisement. In such event, no death policy would be paid on the claim of any member of such conclave. I re gard the plan as a very excellent one, and I think it will be ultimately adopted by the Deserter From the Army After Playing Hide and Seek for Ten Years Gives Himself Up-He Entered Business and Became Prominent.

Thomas Mack, a deserter from the regular rmy, was taken from this city to the barracks at Columbus, O., after having eluded arrest for nearly ten years. Mack ran away from his home at Buffalo, N. Y., 11 years ago, and joined the regular army. He was sent to the Jefferson barracks at St. Louis, but as he had always been accustomed to a life of ease and luxury, could not stand the life of a soldier, and after a could not stand the life of a soldier, and after a few months made his escape and deserted. The Government officers followed him, and for a couple of years he roamed about the country to avoid arrest.

He settled down in a town in Michigan and engaged in the furniture business with a large company. When he had been in business two years he discovered he was being followed, and he went to a Congressman for advice, latter advised him to give himself up, and he concluded he would. He sold his interest in the business and made every preparation to keep his resolution, but at the last moment his love for freedom got the best of him, and he again started out, a fugitive. Ever since then decision of hers it. parliamentary rulings had ever been questioned, and it grieved her to have such a question raised in the Sterrett Union.

Matters began to get pretty warm. Mrs. Campbell wanted to ventilate the illegal action taken at the previous meeting, and some of the members were determined that she should not. Pinally within a month his money was out, a point of order was raised and sustained. She then moved that the question of proxies be discussed, and although a motion was made to table it, the motion prevailed.

State Artillery. Some time ago a telegraphic statement ap peared in the Pittsburg papers purporting to be an extract from General J. P. S. Gobin's annual report, criticising the artillery of the State. Captain Hunt, of Battery B., yesterday received the following letter from General Gobin denying he ever made such statements.

My Dear Captain: LEBANON, January 12, 1890. My Dear Captain:

I have seen a copy of a Pittsburg paper containing an interview with you relative to my report, I am gratified to know that you did not credit the tolegram asserting that I had reflected on the artillery. Why such a report should have been circulated, I cannot imagine. It was, as you doubtless know by this time, without any foundation whatever. It was simply false. I do criticise the guns and equipments, as we all know they deserve to be. We want better ones. I write this to thank you for your expression of confidence in the denial of somebody's falsehood.

THE FRENCH NUNS WON.

The Pope Orders the Diocese to Pay the Sisters $60,000. On Monday, a conference was held between Bishop Phelan, Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, George Wilson and C. F. McKenna representing the Diocese, and J. Scott Ferguson and John M. Kennedy, counsel for the French nuns, with reference to the Ursuline property The decision of the Pope was that the nuns should be paid $60,000. Mr. Ferguson stated after the conference that the only question now was how to raise the money. There is a mortgage on the building of $100,000, and Mr. was how to raise the money. There is a mortgage on the building of $100,000, and Mr.

in a few days, but it is not probable the property will be sold. There is also a proposition to divide up part of the 14 acres of land into lots, and sell them to raise the money. Bishop Phelan hasn't decided how he will raise the money or what he will do.

of the Strike.

A special meeting of the Pittsburg and Southern Coal Company was held yesterday in their offices in the Iron Exchange. The meeting was a gathering of the stockholders, and it was the liveliest one held in the exchange. Everybody was excited, and one of the stockholders and members of the company, Mr. William Rodgers, left the meeting in an angry mood before it was half through. Why he left he would not say, but judging from his actions something important had ruffled his temper.

The object of the meeting was to take action toward winding up the affairs of the corporation and cease doing business as an organized company. As one of the operators remarked who was at the meeting, that the "company had gone up the spout." They have about 4,000,000 bushels of coal on hand, and as soon as this is disposed of the company will dishand.

The cause of the dissolution is because of too many inimical interests in the company. The company is composed of 13 of the most prominent coal operators on the Monongahela river. The firms represented are as tollows:

Joseph Walton & Co., John A. Wood & Co., O'Neil & Co., Horner & Roberts, William Rodgers, Lylse & Sons, Fawcett & Co., Marmett & Co., Charles Jutte, J. S. Neal, S. S. Crump, J. M. Risher and W. H. Brown & Sons,

TO PREVENT CUTTING. The company was organized over three years ago for the purpose of preventing ruinous competition and the betterment of the business. The company was chartered under the laws of Virginia, with a capital stock of $100,000, which has been paid up. Each firm in the combination sold his coal to the company, and the lat-ter sold it in New Orleans. Nothing was sent to the other markets, and on account of the gigantic operations of the concern they practi-cally had no competition in the New Orleans market. The coal was sold to the bestadvantage, and each firm got its pro rata share of the earnings each month.

The demand for coal by the ocean steamers

For the past few months there have been so many conflicting interests in the company that considerable trouble was caused, and it was decided to quit doing business. The board of directors mixet every morning, but have been unable to devise ways and means to wind up the concert. The stockholders' meeting was called for this purpose, but they could see no tangible way out of the dilemma.

SENDING NO COAL. The coal is there but they cannot dispose of it advantageously, and every run adds to the number of boats. It is probable that no more coal will be sent South by the company, and as soon as they dispose of what they have on hand

Although every firm in the combination, with the exception of Rishers', was represented at the meeting, and as everybody was excited they would give but little information for publication. Although the company is a pool the operators claim that thei, business is as private as any small firm, and would say nothing. Captain O'Nell when asked if the company had wound up its affairs said:
"No, we have not done so yet, but we are working to that end. I think after we have sunk in a hurricane and part of it was recovered. The company stood this loss bravely, but is without doubt on the verge of dissolution now. The board of directors will hold another meeting this morning.

A History of the Trouble Between the Tile Lovers' Organizations.

As stated in yesterday's DISPATCH, the members of the Marble and Slate Workers and Tile Lavers' Union will meet this evening to consider the advisability of withdrawing from the Federation of Labor. If they pull out they will go into the Knights of Labor. An effort was made yesterday by several members of the union to see President Gompers, of the Federation, and have him present at the meeting to-night. He could not be seen. and it was learned that he intended to leave on ing. Mr. Gompers has done nothing yet about giving an explanation why a charter was granted the men who struck at Herrick's withgranted the men who struck at Herrick's without first asking the Marble and Slate Workers and Tile Layers' Union if it was all right.

The men who struck were former members of the Tile Layers' Local Assembly of the Knights of Labor in New York. They were suspended and fined $50. They then formed a new organization, and a charter was secured from the Federation. The new association was called the Progressive Tile Layers' Union, and when they came to Pittsburg the members of the marble cutters' organization of the city made a protest. The new men afterward went into the National Tile Layers' Union. It is said the position of Mr. Mclver, the President of the national organization, in the matter is due to the fact that he was defeated by Organizer A. R. Smythe, who did not sanction the strike at Herrick's. Herrick's.

STRIKERS NOT SATISFIED. Only Eight of the Electricians to be Taken

The proposition made by Mr. Gompers was that they take back eight of the strikers and give them employment Mr. Blaxter agreed to do this, and said the men would be paid as good wages as they had received before the strike. The agreement also stipulated that the company would not interfere with any at-tempt made to organize the non-union men in their employ.

It was stated last night that the settlement of the strike did not give satisfaction to the ma-jority of the men. A number of them who had congregated on Fifth avenue said only about one-third of them would be benefited. The other two-thirds were accordingly displeased because they could not be taken back. The company only has room for eight of the men. A meeting may be held to-day to take some action on the matter.

In Armstrong's factory yesterday a piece of belting broke. This caused a stoppage of 45 minutes. The foreman said he could not allow them for the lost time. At the meeting of the Board of School Con trol of Allegheny last night, the library ques tion was brought up by a report on the organization of the present public library, submitted by Mr. A. C. Beside the funds above alluded to over 50 life members were constituted at $50 each, as well as a considerable list of yearly members at $4 each. They made, at the close of the first year, the following creditable record:

Duquesne Heights People Want Lower Incline Fares-A Committee Appointed to Collect Money for Steps-A Denial That Politics is in the Scheme.

The demand for coal by the ocean steamers at New Orleans has been unusually light this winter and the past fall. The company now has 160 some boatloads of coal in the New Orleans harbor, and there is no immediate prospect of getting rid of it. There are about 4,000,000 bushels altogether, and a number of those in the company would like to see it disposed of at once. The coal is worth 24 or 25 cents per barrel.

For the past few months there have been so many conflicting interests in the company that John Moren, Captain Ward and S. McCombs, Mr. Halliday's opponent for Common Council. Mr. Robertson stated the object of the meeting and then called for a discussion of the matter. Several persons spoke, including Mr. Gordon, Captain Ward, Mr. Bigham, S. Mc-Combs, Anton Harper, George Love and Bernard Cavanaugh. The Duquesne Incline Company came in for a considerable amount of criidism, and the meeting clearly showed that the scheme to put up the steps was instituted for the purpose of forcing the company to lower the rate of fare, and to extend the time of operations. The presence of Mr. Holliday, the superintendent of the company, and Mr. Bigham, the secretary and treasurer, did not in-timidate the speakers in the least. When the timidate the speakers in the least. When the matter of location was discussed a feeling in favor of a route crossing under the incline seemed to prevail. The other operators evaded the subject when questioned about the meeting. It will be remembered that the company lost about $450,000 by the sinking of 160 boats leaded with coal at New Orleans, August 18, 1888. The coal was sunk in a hurricane and nart of it was some in a hurricane and nart of it was some in the meeting and $255 pledged. This, with the amount previously subscribed, makes about $600 already raised. It is thought the steps will cost about $800 or $800. The committees were instructed to commence work, and if Politics are said to have considerable to do with the movement to erect the steps. S. McCombs has been indorsed by the citizens as a candidate for Select Gouncil in opposition to the present incumbent, Mr. Halliday. He and his friends deny that the agitation is being exercised in his behalf. He was present last night, however, and started the subscription list with $50.

The last property reported purchased is that of J. C. Riethmuller, a machine shop and lot on the corner of Cherry and Strawberry alleys. The price seems to be about $500 a foot, as the price paid is $16,500, and the lot, as near as can be told by stepping, is something over 30 feet front on Cherry alley, the alley on which values are assessed. It is about 60 feet in depth. This doesn't look like much of a price, but as it isn't likely that Cherry alley will be widened during the life of this generation, and things at the corner of Cherry and Strawberry are greatly cramped, the price is considered fair, beside it is about double what Riethmuller paid for it some years ago. MBS. H. E. COLLINS, MISS CARNAHAN, MES. R. W. PATTERSON, SHE GAVE THE WATCH

An Allegheny Woman Reposed Too Much Trust in a Friend.

WANTED HER INITIALS ENGRAVED. Instead of Having the Work Done He Raised

the Dust on it. SHORT STROLL ENDED AT THE JAIL

A pretty little romance of a pretty little watch, and told by a pretty little maiden, was related to a crowd of detectives at the Allegheny Mayor's office last night. It was another case of too much faith in human nature, and the nature was weak. Mrs. T. H. Kemp is the little girl referred to. She lives with her husband on Fayette street, Allegheny, and for a number of years has wanted to be the owner of a gold watch. Her heart was so set upon securing the watch that her husband, to whom she has been married five months, promised to buy her one for a Christmas gift. He did so, and Mrs. Kemp, who is very young, was as proud of her watch as a child with a new toy gun.

ADMIRED THE TIMEPIECE.

A few evenings after Christmas, Mrs. Kemp, accompanied by a lady friend was at the Union station. Her friend met two gentlemen acquaintances to whom she inoduced Mrs. Kemp. While sitting upon one of the settees in the station their minds turned o Christmas gifts, and Mrs. Kemp showed her acquaintances her watch. To examine it more closely, one of the men, whose name is Horace White and who resides at No. 242 Arch street, took it off the fob. He admired the timepiece, which must indeed be a combination of rare jewels, and said the chased work on the watch was the finest he had ever seen. Mrs. Kemp said she intended to get her ini-tials engraved on the watch. Her new friend,

Mr. White, said he would be but too glad to have the work done for her, and put the watch in his pocket. She thought he had a friend in the business, and after warning him to have it done within a few days, she turned it over to him.

Mrs. Kemp waited several days, but Mr.

White did not appear with the Christmas present, so she claims. She saw him several days later, and he said it was not done yet. A few more days elapsed, and no watch appeared. White, she says, kept putting her off from day to day, saying that he would get it the following day, etc.

LOOKING FOR THE WATCH. Mrs. Kemp says that her lady friend told her that she had been informed by Mr. White's ger tleman friend that White had pawned the watch with a Smithfield street broker. She met him on the street and accused him of awning the timepiece. He denied it, and said he would get it the next day. Mrs. Kemp notified her husband, and the two set a trap for Mr. White. She wrote him a note asking him to meet her at the corner of Ohio and Federal streets last evening. He did so, and her hus-band, who was on the other side of the street, kept his eye on Mr. White. Mrs. Kemp wanted White to walk down Federal street. He con-sented, and at the Fort Wayne station they ran into her husband and a policeman. The latter into her husband and a policeman. The latter was Officer Blakely, who collared Mr. White and placed him behind the bars, where he passed the night.

Mr. White claims to be advance agent of the United States Comedy and Specialty Company. He has a number of stage names, and plays the part of Lawyer Marks in "Uncle Tom"s Cabin."

When arrested he confessed to having pawned the watch, and turned the ticket over to Mr. Kemp. The latter does not desire to prosecute him, but wants his wife's watch recovered.

The Zolian Bobo Attachment. The faintest echo tones can be produced by means of this grand improvement—the Æolian Echo Attachment. It is worked by a third pedal, and can be successfully operated by any child player, while in the hands of a skillful performer it is capable of the most enchanting musical expression and effects. In playing, for instance, "Nearer My God to Thee," with the full power and then repeating the strain on the Æolian Echo Attachment it would take but little imagination to fancy that a choir of angels from the ethereal regions were responding to the touching melody. It is the latest invention of the manufacturers of the popular Opera pianos, Messrs. Peek & Son, and can be seen and heard at H. Kleber &

PENN AVENUE STORES.

PITTSBURG, Wednesday, January 22, 1890, SEAL SKIN:

Interest in Seal Skins aroused-business rousing. People by scores learning how they can save many times the interest on their money by buying now instead of putting off until next year, and the months of wear this season will be thrown in. If you ever expect to buy a Seal Skin garment buy it now. We would rather sell it to you next season but for this reason: We have a very large stock, in actual numbers well up in 3 figures and representing many thousands of dollars, and it is manifestly to our interest to dispose of the entire stook as soon as possible. The peculiarities of the season, which may never ocour again, make it necessary to reduce prices in order to make the goods go, This we have done, the price on each garment being marked down with one idea-what price will be sure to sell it to the first customer. We know what that price is, and you will only find such prices on these Seals now. Can prices for genuine quality be lower? How can they? We cannot be "underbought," so how can we be "undersold." When it comes to a question of pushing off the goods by the sharpest price stick we have no peer, and the reasons are plain. Prices cannot be lower for quality.
