other remedy has ever accomplished in Curing

Nervousness. It gives sound, refreshing sleep to the wakeful. It has cured the most severe Headaches, and Neuralgia yields to it when all other remedies fail. It nourishes, purifies, and invigor-

AGAINST SHORTSTOP WARD

Ad. Gumbert Presents a Surprising Contract to Mr. Hanlon.

THE SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

Attorney Duyster presents to court the plaintiff's brief in the Ward injunction case. It is an interesting and pointed argument. Ad. Gumbert presents a surprising contract to Manager Hanlon. John M. Ward is coming to Pittsburg to-morrow to arrange for a Southern trip for the Pittsburg and Brooklyn clubs. A special new League meeting has been called to take place here

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE, 1 NEW YORK, January 21 .- The brief of the Metropolitan Exhibition Co., on motion for temporary injunction against John Ward, restraining him from playing with any other club than the New York club was presented to the court by George F. Duysters, counsel for the plaintiff, on Monday. Some of the more important points in brief are as follows: It is contended that paragraph 18 of the contract, exhibit A, upon which the action is based, is clear and unambiguous upon the face of it. The English language is incapable of expressing an idea more clearly than the words "The said right and privilege is hereby accorded." What is accordthe season next ensuing. If, as claimed by defendant the reservation in the contract means no more than it did prior to the formation of the contract, what did the player have to accord and what right to insist upon conditions pre-

RIGHT OF RESERVATION. It is also contended that the right of reservation needs no explanation. To reserve means to hold, to keep for future use. If the word reserve requires explanation as a technical erm, its history given in the affidavit of John M. Ward sufficiently elucidates it. Prior to November, 1887, it meant to hold, to keep for future use as a right agreed to between clubs. It is also contended that all reference to the national agreement, League constitution or any other documents must be excluded in the consideration of this contract by reason of paragraph 19 of the contract itself. The fifth paragraph of the contract confers upon the party of graph of the contract confers upon the party of the first part, in the most solemn and specific manner, the right "to enjoin said party of the second part from performing services for any other person or organization during the period of service herein contracted for." A clear indication of bad faith on the part of the defendant is that when notified of his reservation on the 23d of October, 1889, he did not nor has he since notified the plaintiff that he should refuse to abide by his agreement. Plaintiff denied its information from rumor and newspaper report.

WOULD CAUSE GREAT DAMAGE. That plaintiff would be irreparably damaged by the loss of the services of defendant is proven be ond question by the affidavit of Wendell Goodwin. Again, defendant claims there are innumerable other players whom plaintiff can secure in defendant's place. What, then, prevents the Brooklyns, limited, from se-curing these players, and thus prevent its utter ruln. Goodwin, according to his affidavit, ap-pears to have enticed players under contract with the plaintiff to leave plaintiff's service not affect his enterprise), which is actionable at common law. The defendant assumes the position that this contract "is hard and without, equity." Divested of verbiage, what is that? What is this contract in its attention equity." Divested of verblage, what is that? What is this contract in its utmost extension? An agreement on the part of the defendant to render services as a ball player during seven months of the year 1890 in consideration of a salary of $3.250 lawful money of the United States, $3,000 as per supplemental contract and $2.250 more as per contract introduced by defendant. There is no want of mutuality in this contract, and that amount of money for seven months' work for a ball player can hardly be considered unfair.

CLAIM OF UNFAIRNESS.

It would be strange, indeed, if the Court could find injustice, harshness, or want of mutuality in a contract drawn by the defen dant himself after the fullest consultation with counsel, and possessing (as the defendant evidently did), the fullest knowledge of the business to which it relates.

Point sixth in defendant's brief is completely answered in the second affidavit of Mr. Day, citing defendant's letter to J. B. Billings, manager of the Boston club, corroborating the statements made by Mr. Day. The transfer was not to a rival organization, but to a club was not to a rival organization, but to a club within the League which would play with plantiff, and even that was consented to by the President of plaintiff under threat of defendant that he would not return from Europe. The statement contained in defendant's brief that well-established practice of players leaving National agreement clubs, although reserved by them, and going to clubs and Associations outside of the National agreement is scarcely warranted by the facts, as defendant does not cite a single instance of such an occurrence since the adoption in 1887 of the present form of contract, the first one, admittedly, in which the player accorded the right of reservation.

CUTS BOTH WAYS. seem that the denial of a preliminary injunction upon technical grounds, which would not apply to a final injunction, ought to be as fatal to him as the plaintiff. If a preliminary injunction would utterly ruin the corporations referred to by Wendell Goodwin how much more damaging would it be to them, a final inmore damaging would it be to them, a final injunction after all their contracts are filled, larger sums of money expended and many innocent stockholders had further subscribed to their stock. The insistance of the defendant in opposing a preliminary injunction can only be explained by the supposition that he intends to delay the trial of this action until after the playing season of 1890, until plaintiff had been irreparably damaged. The force of res judicata claimed by the defendant for the case cited, "the Allegheny Baseball Club versus Bennett," is not apparent upon examination. This was a is not apparent upon examination. This was a bill for specific performance of an agreement to make an agreement. The demurrer was sus-tained. Why it was sustained, however, cannot be determined, as no opinion was given. The settled law of England and America au-thorizes the granting of an injunction in this case as follows:

THE LAW OF INJUNCTION.

Where a person has entered lute a contract to render service to another of such a nature as not be easily replaced, and the loss to the entermination of the distribution of the contract to the entermination of the Glenwood club at this office to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock to make a match to shoot for a stake, and the contract to the co to be easily replaced, and the loss to the em-ployer would be a loss not to be compensated for ployer would be a loss not to be compensated for in damages, a breach, or a threatened breach, of such contract may be restrained by injunction.

It is not evident that, as the defendant says, there is a very broad distinction between a star actress and a star baseball player. It is untrue to state, as the defendant does, that such a star player occupies a position in which the work to be done is precisely similar to that required of several other men on his team. It is untrue to imply, as the defermant does, that there are 20 or 30 men in the country who could play shortstop as well as Mr. Ward does. A num-ber of cases are then cited to strengthen the position of the plaintiff in the case.

THE LEAGUE MEETING.

Secretary Scandrett and Mr. Brown Will Attend the Important Convention. Secretary Scandrett and Director Brown, of the local National League club, will leave the city for New York on Sunday, to attend the National League meeting. President Nimick least, almost all of the parties are composed of National League makes annual meeting of the cannot attend, as the annual meeting of the Western Cattle Ranch, with which he is connected, is on the same date. President Nimick states that the local club has no need of any of the young players whose names have been forwarded to President Young. Mr. Nimick still contends that the local new League club will contend the local club has no need of any of the very strength of attending the theaver.

It looks as if Guy Hecker's chances for manager are getting better. An official of the club yesterday stated that Hecker is in all respects a capable man for the position.

There are several communications which have been received in the sporting department of this paper and which lack of space forbids us to notice for a day or two,

If there are eight clubs, the Southside Reds and the are eight clubs. the Southside Reds and the Oaklands will likely be the additional two. The idea of having a county club at McKeesport is for fear the Tri-State league is not a success. The McKeesport Club officials are willing to organize a county club. Greensburg is out of the county, but the rules will be changed so as to admit a club from that city.

GUMBERT'S CONTRACT.

It Startles Manager Hanlon by Its Very Strong Demands.

Ad Gumbert signed a contract yesterday to play with the local Brotherhood club. Manage Hanlon received it last evening, and was as onished at its demands. Gumbert wants absolute security for his salary of $3,000 per season for three seasons, and if Chicago finishes ahead of Pittsburg in the race he wants his prize money made up to what he would have had in money made up to what he would have had in Chicago. He also wants the privilege of leaving the club by giving five days' notice. There are other interesting demands. Manager Hanlon cannot and says he will not concede them. Doubtless the demands are strong and contrast to an extraordinary degree with the contracts of other players who have signed. Manager Hanlon will confer with Gumbert on the matter to-day, when the former thinks Gumbert will see the utter unreasonableness of making such extraordinary demands. of making such extraordinary demands.

JOHN M. WARD COMING.

He Will Be Here To-Morrow to Confer With Manager Hanlon.

John M. Ward will leave New York for this city to-day to attend a special meeting of the new League officials to be held here probably o-morrow. Mr. Ward will also have a conference with Manager Hanlon relative to taking ed? The right and privilege of reservation for the Brooklyn and Pittsburg teams on a Southern trip. Ward favors the idea strongly and Manager Hanlon is not opposed to it. Secretary Brunell has sent out notices of the special meeting referred to above. The meet-ing is announced to be held at the Hotel Anderson. The chief business will be to consider the report of the Committee on Schedule and The directors of the new local club will hold a meeting this afternoon to discuss the plans for the new grounds and other matters relating to the visit of Brotherhood officials.
