NOTES OF INTEREST TO CHURCH GOERS

The Presbyterian Ministerial Association on Monday had one of the most spirited meetings that has been held by them for many moons, the paper read by Rev. A. E. Linn bringing out a wide divergence of views as to the relation of the pastor of a church to the stranger who may drop in to listen to the presching of the Word. He church to the stranger who may drop in to listen to the preaching of the Word. He

That the paster owes a duty to strangers will be weely admitted by all. The subject is not of equal importance to all fields of labor. What is the duty of pastors of those congregations where strangers come of themselves, are unacquainted with any of the regular worshipers, who, when the congregation is dismissed are lost in the thickly populated districts? Who are they? Whence came they? Do they belong to any church? are thoughts surely worthy of attention.

No doubt pastor and people owe a special duty to the stranger. Not enough to have trimmed ushers show them to an acceptable sent. This can be done when the thermom-eter is away below zero, and it is colder inside than it is outside. The warmth of our hands should convey to theirs the sense of fellowship. Before they leave we should endeavor to know who they are, where they live, whether they have a church home, all done in a kind way, so as to leave the convic-tion that they had met those who are interested tion that they had met those who are interested in their eternal welfare.

We have all heard it said, "I would not go there to church, I was there once and it is the coldest place I was ever in, no one spoke to me." Maybe we have had some frozen experiences of our own. Sabbath morning came we marted to church, feeling quite comfortable, till we got to the vestibule, when more suddenly than a Dakota blixzard could have done its till we got to the vestibule, when more suddenly than a Dakota blizzard could have done its work we were frozen. A few of the ite pillars of the church stood coldly by and looked as we entered the door and walked upstairs. A group stands there to make it still colder. It got no warmer inside, when frowned at because we got into the wrong seat. It was the arctic zone by some freak of nature brought into the temperate. Icebergs were all around, and in this condition we remain till another Sunday we can get into a warmer zone. condition we remain till another Sunday we can get into a warmer zone.

In the days of old Jerusalem and at the times of the great feast when worshipers went there they were the recipients of much hospitality, and thereby angels were entertained unawares. If this were done under the old dispensation should it not be under the new. If they re-ceived them into their homelife should not we receive them into church life. How then can this be accomplished is surely an important question?

The pastor should endeavor to meet these strangers personally. A warm grasp of the hand from him does them a great deal of good. A cold and distant recognition of their presence strangers personally. A warm grasp of the hand from him does them a great deal of good. A cold and distant recognition of their presence will not relieve their emhartassment or satisfy their expectation. Going early to church affords the pastor an opportunity of meeting them. People easing to a church where they are not accustomed to go, usually no early. If the pastor will stand at the door till the hour comes for the service, his own members will be glad to receive a welcome at the first door. He can then learn if they have no regular church home and tell them he will be pleased to call on them. Having met the stranger personally, the pastor should have as many of his people as possible meet them. They may have heard of one another, or they have a mutual friend, someone they both know, or they have been in the same vicinity. This will open a velo of interest which at once relieves the embarrassment and makes the newcomer feel quite at home. Recently we beard of a lady brought up in the Presbyterian faith who moved from Western Pennsylvania to Missouri. She and her daughter went to church, but no one spoke to them, to church the following Sunday and the same cold experience. The mother bowed her head in prayer at the next meeting, paraying that her children might be kept in the faith in which she was brought up, but not one spoke to them, to church the following Sunday and the same cold experience. The mother bowed her head in prayer at the next meeting, praying that her children might be kept in the faith in which she was brought up, but not one spoke to them, some this week some of his people call on them, some this week some next, and so on till they feel they have friends in that church. The result will be they will identify themselves therewith.

Gordon recently be number of new "whale-back" barges for the lake trade. These barges are a novelty in of Duluth, Minn., an old-time lake captain.

It was after years of discouragement that he interested a few capitalists in his device, and his first "whale-back" barge was launched at Duluth in July, 1888. The Captain's idea was to build a boat with a deck like the back of a turtle and a bow like the back of a duck, which should offer the severest storms. After the first barge company was organized. In January, 1889, formed with a capital of $5,000,000, with men as Colgate Hoyt, J. D. Rockefeller,

Henry Villard, and a dozen more great railroad and financial kings interested. An addition was made to the facilities of the shippard of the company and work on the new vessel was hurried. In July last the second barge was launched, and in Septem-ber a third one was placed in the water.

The latter vessel took as her initial cargo 86,000 bushels of wheat, on a draft of 14 feet 8 inches, and unloaded it at the clevator in Buffalo in less than 68 days after the capstans and the steam steering apparatus. The boat is supplied with cabins, etc., below the deck for her crew. There are 12 hatches which traverse the turtle back, beside four, two on either side, which can be used in pouring the grain or ore into the barge until she is in proper position for the use of the hatches on deck. The boat has double bot-so arranged that they can be used to pump water into the compartments as well as out. There are 1,000 tons of steel in the tons, but she will carry a load of 3,000 tons of ore or coal, or 100,000 bushels of wheat, on a draft of but little over 15 feet, something no other craft of anything like the dimensions of this boat, on the lake, can do.

Those now building will be of the same size.

The cost of one of these barges, without steam, is about $75,000, just about one-third the cost of the steamers of the Northern line, which carry the same sized loads. Steam can be put in the boats, and it is the intention of the company to fit one of the new vessels of the coming year as a steamer, to demonstrate that the "whale-shaped" will be as much of a success as a steamer as

CHEAPER AND SAFER.

The advantages of this new style vessel over the old craft, as claimed by the in-ventor and demonstrated by those already in commission, to a great extent, are the great saving in the cost of construction, increased carrying capacity on the same amount of water, and greater ability to resist the wind and waves in a storm. As to the smaller cost, there seems little doubt, as any one can see, by an examination of the simple construction of McDougali's boats with that of the majority of the lake craft.

tainly move through the water behind ves-sels towing them far easier than the ordinary craft, and the masters of the big steamships are all anxious to tow these barges, when they are to tow any boats, claiming they can make better time with them. Weeks ago a hard storm arose on the lower end of Lake Superior, which drove nearly every craft to shelter. The only tow-barge which ventured out in that storm was one of those vessels towed by the propeller Sitka. She pulled through the monster waves without diffi-culty, and, as her master says, without a jar, emonstrating fully the claims of her inventor as to what she would do in storms.

LARGE FUTURE PLANS.

first of which will be launched in a few days, and the other one early in the spring. It is probable that two more will be put on the stocks when these are off, so that soon after the opening of navigation next year there will be seven of these vessels affoat, with a combined capacity of 20,000 tons. After that one boat will be turned out completed, according to the present intentions of the company, every 30 days, and it may be every 15 days after awhile. From this the magnitude of the plans of the American Steel Barge Company can be imagined. The amount of capital represented by the stock-holders is said to be upward of $500,000,-

000. The company will sell none of the boats, but controls all of them itself, building just as fast as it shall be necessary. As an advantage such a powerful organization as this one may have in the future. The vessels can make money on one-half or onefourth the rates that any other craft can run on. It is whispered that when there are enough of these boats on the lakes something like the fast freight line on railroads will be established. One steamer can tow two or three of them. It will start out with a tow destined to different ports, drop a vessel at one place, and picking up another will pro-ceed, not having to wait for the barges to be loaded, and so on.

not be confined to the lake marine alone, however. The same advantages that fit them to so successfully compete for busi-ness on the lakes, also, Captain McDougall claims, fit them for success on the ocean, in NOT PRETTY BUT CHEAPER AND SAFER the coast trade, or even in trips across the deep. Already the building of two or three of them for the coast coal trade, between the ports from the Delaware to the James and Homestead mill, for the construction of the steel plates and other metal equipment for a number of new "whale-back" harges for the the fullest faith that this boat is in a great measure to revolutionize modern marine the lake carrying business. They were in- truffic, and there seems much reason for their

Important Meeting of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs-The Millions That Are Needed to Build

Mammoth Battle Shipe. WASHINGTON, January 24.-The Senate Committee on Naval Affairs held an imlittle resistance to the water and weather portant meeting, to-day, at which, after considerable discussion, the committee dedecided upon the policy which will govern it during this Congress in the work of buildthe American Steel Barge Company was ing up the navy. This is, in brief, that great line-of-battle ships like the English Charles L. Colby as President, and such Ben Bow should be constructed at once. Senators Chandler and McPherson, however, are not in accord with the decision reached, and majority and minority reports will be submitted to the Senate. Senator Stanford is also not wholly committed to the decision reached. The Naval Policy Board which Secretary Tracy appointed made the following recommendations:

ber a third one was placed in the water.

The latter vessel took as her initial carge $6,000 bushels of wheat, on a draft of 14 feet 8 inches, and unloaded it at the elevator in Buffalo in less than 68 days after the first stroke of work was done on her, the best record ever made in shipbuilding in this country. Quite a number of improvements were adopted in the model of the last two bosts, and they represent fully the original idea of Captain McDougall.

WHAT ONE IS LIKE.

It is the model of the third one, which will be the pattern for all future vessels of this style, and a description of her will give an idea as to her shape and wonderful capacity. She is 250 test long over all, 36 feet beam and 22 feet depth of hold. Her bottom is shaped like that of the ordinary lake or ocean-going craft, but the bow is rounded off a great deal more, not presenting that sharp surface to the water. It runs out in the shape of a cone, but with the sape of a cone of the con issue was raised as to whether or not it would be advisable at this time to begin with the construction of the immense line of battle ships, as proposed by the Policy Board. Including the harbor defense monitors, there are 44 of these vessels, and they would cost $202,490,000, while the other 183 vessels, including 101 torpedo boats at an aggregate cost of $6,565,000, would cost only toms, and eight water-tight compartments, each connected by 6-inch pipes with two of the Wellington pumps, which have a capacity of 700 tons of water an hour, and are Senators Chandler and McPherson opposed that part of the Policy Board's recommendations proposing that these vessels should first be constructed. They said that, in their opinion, the United States should continue its present policy of building fast cruisers like the Baltimore, Boston, Charleston and San Francisco, and gunboats and torpedo vessels. The cost of these ves was comparatively small, and they would form an unequaled fleet of commerce de-stroyers. The building of the huge lineof-battle ships should be deferred until we had a larger number of cruisers, or there was some exigency calling for their con-

On the same day came a lady who had taken 14 doses for tapeworm, but all failed. I cured her in a few hours. On December 15 I treated Chas. Lampus and a small child of Mrs. Gross, of Spring Garden ave., Allegheny, for tapeworm, being successful in both cases; and on December 29 I removed a large tapeworm from Charles Maeder, of Bennett station, Pa. They will all testify to the mildness of my treatment.
In reference toathe head of a tapeworm I will state that it is no cure unless the head is removed. Come to my office and I will show you hundreds that I have removed, head and all. Since I am here I have cured hundreds of cases of catarrh, stomach, kidney and liver troubles, and many of rhoumatism, falling fits, paralysis, eczema, hemorrhoids and secret diseases. I also cure cancer without the aid of

The Fall of the Christians:

BY PROF. W. C. KITCHIN, Ph. D., of CAMBRIDGE,

"The Fall of the Christians" is a history of the desperate struggle of Christianity against Paganism in Japan over 250 years ago. There were many thousands of Christians in Japan, and the attempt to exterminate them led to one of the most sanguinary struggles recorded in history. The heroism of the Christians, both men and women, and their fortitude under the most appalling dangers, as portrayed by Prof. Kitchin, will enlist the sympathics of the civilized world.

"The Fall of the Christians" begins in the New York Ledger dated and issued January 25.

DR. SHAFER. and he would often feel very stiff and sore in the morning. His urine was high-colored, his appetite poor, and he had beighing of gas after eating. His aches and pains continued to grow worse until there was hardly a spot in his body free from pain. He says: "I had four doctors, but all failed to give me any relief. When I began treating with the physicians of the Polypathic Institute I had not been able to work for five months, and often was not able to walk or get around in the house, except by crawling on my hands and knees. 'After taking their medicines for four weeks I became greatly improved, and at the end of two months was entirely cured. I could not ask to feel better than I now do. "WILLIAM HURLEY."
