James McDermott Says Naughty Things About the Land League.

LONDON, January 25.—James McDermott is temporarily living at the Hotel Victoria, under the name of a cavalier. He wears a big fur overcoat, and looks as if he were at peace with the world.

His business here is with Labouchere, with whom he has had one or two interviews this week.

He declines to state the nature of his business, but hints that it has something to do with a movement Labouchere contemplates making in Parliament.

McDermott is much changed by his varied wanderings over the face of the earth since he left Brooklyn. His hair and mustache are almost perfectly white, but he otherwise shows no trace of age.

He told me that he has been the most toiling wronged man on earth, but that the time was almost ripe for his complete vindication and the discomfiture of his enemies.

He asserts that he knows of his own knowledge, that the Land League friends in America are $30,000 short.
