WHAT HECKER HAS TO SAY.

Good Prices Realized at the Brasfield Trotting Sale.

THE SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

Manager Hanlon returned from the East, accompanied by his bride. He is expecting to sign two first-class players. Manager Hecker is busy arranging exhibition dates. There were some good sales at the Brasfield trotting sales.

Manager Ed Hanlon, of the new local ball club, returned to the city yesterday, accompanied by his handsome bride. For the last week or two Mr. Hanlon has been dead to the baseball world, but his reappearance in the city means that he is ready to resume his hustling in behalf of the club of which he is in charge.

During a conversation last evening Mr. Hanlon said: "I have not been much interested in baseball matters recently, but in coming through New York I met John Ward. He states that the most encouraging reports from all quarters are arriving regarding the new League. I have heard nothing definitely about Burns yet, but I understand that he has a contract with President Speas, of the Kansas City club.

WANT TO DEAL HONESTLY.

If this is so we don't want to induce him to break it. We don't want any players who have signed contracts elsewhere. I think we will secure two first-class men shortly. Oh, yes? They are old League men, but have signed with the Brotherhood. I think we will get both of them if Burns does not come here.

Mr. Hanlon continued: "I don't think we will play any exhibition games before the championship season opens. They don't pay financially, and I don't think our players will be much in need of them. Exhibition games are all right for teams that have many young players in them or that are made up of players who have not played together much. For instance, such teams as Brooklyn and Chicago need trips to get their players into playing condition. However, our team is made up of players who almost entirely know each other very well. We will get plenty of practice, as I will have the boys playing hard every day. That is what we need. Our grounds will soon be all right. I think the contract for the carpenter work will be let

"At every place in the East that I have visited I have found the Brotherhood to be very popular. In New York it is generally conceded that Ward will win his case next time easier than he did last time."

HECKER'S PROGRAMME.

Manager Hecker, of the old League club, also had something to say last evening about his team. He said: "I have just arranged to have the McKeesport club play our club at reation Park on April 4 and 5. I expect to have the East End Athletics play against us on April I. Wheeling has written for dates, and l am expecting similar requests from various we can get so as to give our youngsters a good show."

Manager Hecker received a letter from Carney, the local player who resides on Troy Hill. Carney wants the manager to give him a try. He is a fielder and pitcher, and as soon as the players commence to practice Manager Hecker will test Carney. It was also stated by a geotleman interested in the club that D. A. Bullivan, of Lowell, has offered first baseman Hamilton and third baseman Shimrick to the Pittsburg club for $2,500. They are left-handed batters and have splendid batting records, Manager Hecker stated last evening that he was not in a position to say anything about whether or not such an offer had been received. However, if there has, it is not likely that $2,500 will be paid for their release.

TEMPTING DANNY.

Mr. Appleton Offers Richardson $15,000 to Desert the Brotherhood. PERSONAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR .

ELMIRA, N. Y., February 12.-W. I. Appleton, a director of the National League, is in this city endeavoring to secure Danny Richardson, the second baseman of last year's New York club, from the Brotherhood. He arrived in the city last evening and was closeted with the baseball player the greater part of the night. Mr. Appleton talked eloquently of the pleasant relations which had always existed between the directors of the National League and Mr. Richardson during the latter's six years' connection with the New York club, and said he thought Richardson ought to stick by the League. Appleton then presented as a more persuasive argument $5,000 in cash, which amount he offered as advance money for his signature to a League contract for three years, and to pay him $15,000 for his work for that length of time.

Richardson declined this offer, and be closed his determination to remain with the Brother.

Richardson declined this offer, and he closed his determination to remain with the Brother-hood. Mr. Appleton is, however, persistent, and will remain here some time yet. To a DIS-PATCH reporter this afternoon he expressed perfect confidence that he would finally secure tichardson's signature. He said this method had been determined upon by the director as had been determined upon by the directors as a cheaper method of killing the Brotherhood than a battle during the season, in which was inevitable financial loss for both leagues. He said they had decided to pay large sums to a few of the best of the Brotherhood players, and if these were secured, he thought the Brotherhood would go under. Rachardson has been one of the most ardent supporters of the been one of the most ardent supporters of the Brotherhood, and Mr. Appleton appears to think that if he can secure him his object will be easily accomplished.

think that if he can secure him his object will be easily accomplished.

He intimated that, if necessary, he would increase the amount offered to Richardson to $20,000 for the three years. He said he regarded him as one of the best ball players in the country, and if he could be secured he would be made second baseman and captain of the New York club. Richardson yet holds firmly to the Brotherhood, but it is thought that he shows signs of weakening, and may yet be signed by Mr. Appleton.

M'KEAN DENIES IT.

The Man of Many Contracts Forgets a Few Things.

E. J. McKean, the ball player, now visiting in this city, wired Al Johnson, of Cleveland, yesterday to the effect that the statements credited to him (McKean) in yesterday's DISPATCH were false. A denial of this kind coming from McKean is not remarkable; indeed, it is commonplace. Every statement published was made by McKean to a gentleman whose veracity cannot be impeached, and who has not made a business of taking oaths and breaking them and signing contracts and trampling them in the dust. The gentleman to whom McKean talked is a man of honor and truth. McKean talked is a man of honor and truth.

Neither is it surprising that McKean should express opinions and declare intentions diametrically opposed to each other in a hotel talking to newspaper reporters when he has done the same deliberately on legally prepared documents. Whether McKean is a Brotherhood member of whether he is a National League player will probably not affect the earth's motion, but it certainly is to be expected that he will not attempt to drag others down to the same mutability of mind as himself.

McKean also informed Mr. Johnson that Pittsburg is a great Brotherhood town. McKean evidently discovered this after he had unbesomed hunselt as to waiting a little longer before determining which side he would be on. However, let it be emphatically stated that McKean was quoted correctly in vestseriar's Dispartch.

restordary's Dispartch.

Late last evening McKean was seen regarding his telegram to Cleveland. He was confronted by his interviewer, and admitted the truth of the interview. "But," he said, "I think I told you that I was with the Brotherhood, if I did not, I should have done so. I am legally with the Brotherhood, because I think they can hold me by my contract. I've no other treasm."

McKenn in Cleveland. E. J. McKean recently visited Cleveland, and the Leader of that city says: KcKean was in town vesterday, but had very little to say about baseball. He did state that he was waiting now to see what the outcome of the second case against Ward would be. There is going prospe to be a hitch in the Brotherhood about McKean unless Ward has been badly misquoted. In another interview he has again stated strongly another interview he has again stated strongly that he will fight the return of any player blacklisted by the Brotherhood. Ward is one of the big guns in the new League. Nobody will deny that. But he will find that he is sure to come "siap up" against the capitalists of his own organization in this matter, and if they so desire they will overrule him. That's just what they did in the National League, and that was one of the reasons why John got up a League of his own. Has he jumped from the skillet into the coals?

THE HORSEMEN'S CONGRESS.

Some Important Business Transacted by the National Association. BUFFALO, N. Y., February 12.-The thin

The Board of Review is still in secret session on the Alcyron-Nelson case.

Mr. Page, of Philadelphia, moved the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:
Resolved, That the members of the National Trotting Association in Congress assembled at Buffalo, hereby tender their deepest and most tincere sympathy to the Hon. Benjamin F. Tracy, Secretary of the Navy, and the surriving members of his family in their terrible affliction.

Mr. Page, also a member of the Rule Committee, presented the following resolution: mittee, presented the following resolution:
WHEREAS, The Board of Review has been restrained by the court from investigating the charges of frand pending against C. H. Nelson, F. L. Noble and George H. Robins, and the stallions Aleyron and Nelson; therefore, it is resolved by the Congress of the National Trotting Association that the said parties and horses are hereby supended from all privileges on the course, in memberabip in this society until said injunctions are dissolved and the said charges are legally investigated by the Board of Review."

The resolution was presented by the members of the property of the p said injunctions are disolved and the said enarges are legally investigated by the Board of Review."

The resolution was passed by the members and the congress, and although they expressed deep sympathy for Messra. Noble and Nelson, they believed that in serving ar injunction on the Board of Review it was their duty to defend that honorable body.

Mr. Nelson spoke a few words regarding the mistake he had made in serving the injunction and publicly announced that at the next meeting of the Board of Review he hoped to satisfy the board and his friends, who were all members of the National Trotting Association, that he was innocent. Mr. Nelson also said that the injunction would be dissolved immediately. The report of the Committee on Rules was then submitted. Among the important amendments was one that a record to a road wagon is a bar to races of every character. Carried.

Dr. Day, of Waterloo, N. Y., offered a resolution designed to prevent "ringers." It was to the effect that there must be furnished by the nominator, a certificate from his county clerk of the description, color, pedigree and marks of the hears antered. Defeated. of the description, color pedigree and marks of the horse entered. Defeated. the horse entered. Defeated.

The following officers were elected: President, P. P. Johnston, of Lexington: First Vice President, David Bonner, of New York: Second Vice President, W. W. Stowe, of San Francisco. New York was selected as the place of meeting in 1892, and the Murray Hill Hotel will probably be the specific seat of the congress.

FOUGHT A DRAW. Reddy Strauss and Mike Coburn Have a

Rattling Battle. BUFFALO, N. Y., February 12-A terrific slugging match occurred early yesterday morning at Barney Fossett's roadhouse in Cheektowaga, outside of the city limits, between Reddy Strauss and Mike Coburn, a relative of Joe Strauss and Mike Coburn, a relative of Joe Coburn. The purse was only $50, but the men gave the spectators a fight that they have rarely seen. Two-cunce gloves were worn. The men were evenly matched and in good condition. Prof. James Haley, of New York, was the referce. Jack Hanley seconded Coburn, while Joe V anderbush held the sponges for the Buffale boy. Thirty rounds altogether were fought. When it became evident that the scrap was going to be red-hot considerable money was wagered. Terrific slugging and some science characterized the first five rounds, and Strauss had much the best of it, but Coburn quickly recovered and fought like a buildog. He continued to get the worst of the hammering, but did considerable damage to Strauss, who failed to follow up a knock-out chance. The men pounded each other hard, and fought until they were exhausted. The match was decided to be a draw, neither man being able to come up for the thirty-first round.

Miss Coyle, a maiden lady of Sharon, claims that she holds a judgment note of $10,000 against the Sankey estate, given her for saving the life of the late Mr. Sankey. Indians at Devil's Lake. The fight over the Oil City postmastership settled.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. 1 NEW CASTLE, PA., February 12 .- Mattie Coyle, a maiden lady of Sharon, who will shortly bring suit against the estate of David Sankey, father of Ira D. Sankey, the celebrated evangelist, for the recovery of $10,000 on a judgment which she holds, and alleged to have been given to her for saving Mr. Sankey's life, related the following strange story to your correspondent to-night: 'One day during the year 1880-I was then residing in New Castle-while I was passing down the Westside hill I saw Mr. Sankey slip and fall. A team of horses, hauling a load of coal, were approaching toward him, and would have run over him had I not, at the risk of my own lite, dragged

Miss Coyle further stated that she presented the note to Mr. Ira D. Sankey, and that he only looked at it, saying that it resembled his father's writing. The note was drawn with an indelible lead pencil, and bore the date of November 2, 1882. Miss Coyle states that Mr. Sankey's beirs pronounced the note a forgery, and Ira D. Sankey claims that his father never ransacted business with a lead pencil.

David Sankey, who Miss Coyle claims signed the note, died early in January, 1884, in the winter before Miss Coyle received the note. She says she will collect the amount the note calls for if there is any possible means of doing so.

BOOM IN COKE TRADE. No Duliness Anticipated, and Heavy Shipments Looked For. INPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

SCOTTDALE, February 12.—The boom in the toke trade may be considered at an end for a few weeks to come and the market may be unsettled and depressed. Many operators hold that there will be no duliness in trade, and that shipments will be nearly as heavy as they have been the last few weeks. A dullness may be caused by the high prices demanded for coke caused by the high prices demanded for coke and consumers filling up well on account of apprehensior: of the strike. The satisfactory solution of the wage question may have been the cause of some firms to renew their contracts, but the companies who order in lots are cutting down orders decidedly.

The operators are compelled to ask a sligh: advance for coke on account of the increased cost of production and there is fear on account of the forcible kick of iron dealers that some of the orders will be taken to the West Virginia and Reynoldsville fields, where coke, although inferior in quality, may be gotten at a much lower figure.

though inferior in quality, may be gotten at a much lower figure.

The shipments for the week under review were not as large as usual, although they were quite heavy. The signs for this week are that shipments will be up to the average if the consignments to Western points on Monday are any indication. They will sum up to 900 cars.

The operators generally express themselves The operators generally express themselves as being well pleased at the outcome of the recent conference, and everything points to a year of peace in the Connellsville region. The railroad companies are not bothered in the least with any scarcity of cars, hands or motive power, and this year will, if nothing interferes, show the largest shipments of coke. The foreign trade in coke will materially aid this region.

The Mahoning and Mayer works are still idle.
Last week the shipments averaged 1,257 cars falling off of 85 cars. In tons they amounted to 136,890. The shipments were distributed thus: To points west of Pittsburg,

4,500 cars; to Pittsburg, 1,680 cars; total, 7,605.
As will be seen, shipments to points west of Pittsburg fell off 335 cars, while shipments to Pittsburg increased 120 cars.

Pittsburg increased 120 cars.
As predicted by THE DISPATCH not long since that by an amicable settlement of wage troubles coke would take a jump to $2, and even higher. It has demonstrated itself, and to-day it is reliably stated that $2 15 is being asked. This will make a decided change this week for coke prices at principal points of con-sumption. Last week the old prices, $1.75, $2.65 and $2.55 were still being used. Prices were then quoted at large cities as follows: Place. | Furnace. | Foundry | Crushed ated.

They had been spending the day with relatives, and were driving home when the accident occurred. As the top of the carriage was up, it is supposed that they did not hear the approaching train. Five children are made orphans by this accident. Marsteller was a thriving farmer and well thought of by all who traw him.

WESTERN CUT NAIL ASSOCIATION

Make a Cut in the Card to Compare Mor Nearly With Wire Nail Prices.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. WHEELING, February 12.—At a meeting of the Western Cut Nail Association, held here o-day, the card for nails was so changed as to make the lease from 12 penny to 40 penny; the 50 penny to 60 penny. They made the card rate $2 25 instead of $2 50. Forty penny were then advanced 5 cents per keg, making them $2 30; 30 penny advanced 10 cents per keg, making them $2 35: 20, 15 and 12 penny advanced 15 cents per keg, making them $2 40, and 10 penny advanced 20 cents per keg, making the price $2 45.

The remainder of the card is as at present. The idea of the association in making the change is to make the cut in the nail card compare more nearly with wire nail prices.

CLAMOR FOR A CODE

A Spirited Debate in the House on the Question of New Rules.

By Democratic Orators, While Republicans Warmly Defend Him.

NO SATISFACTION FROM HARRISON To be Obtained by Pennsylvania Congressmen Who

Visit the White House.

A protracted and somewhat bitter debate on the new code of rules took place in the House yesterday. A test vote was made on the reading of the journal. Only one Democrat voted, although 72 were counted as present and not voting. A protest was

WASHINGTON, February 12 .- The House met at 11 o'clock this morning in continuation of yesterday's session. The debate on the proposed code of rules was continued by Mr. Dockery of Missouri in the vein of earnest criticism. The proposed rules, he said, would relieve Congress of the necessity of repealing taxation, at least as far as the surplus was concerned. He predicted that at the end of the session the surplus would have disappeared, by reason of the prodigality which the rules invited. Discussing the question of permitting the Speaker to count a quorum, he expressed his profound regret that any conceivable party interest could have induced the Republicans, to abandon constitutional grounds for the unexplored region either of parliamentary law or of the new power sought to be conferred upon the Speaker.

THE SPEAKER'S POWER TOO GREAT. The proposition to allow the Speaker to decide what dilatory motions were, was based upon the idea of the infallibility, incorruptibility and impartiality of the Speaker. Such powers were more in harmony with the character of the Czar of all the Russias than with the spirit and genius of our free Mr. Morse, of Massachusetts, defended the proposed code, and then said: It has been repeatedly stated on the other side during this debate that the present Republican President did not receive a majority of the popular vote of the country. What that has to do with the question under consideration I am not able to discover, but how would it have been if there had been a free and fair election and an honest count in the Southern States of and an honest count in the Southern States of the Union? Away with this nonsense about Cleveland having a majority of the popular vote of the country when there is no such thing as a free and fair election in several of the great States of the Union.

DELAYING PUBLIC BUSINESS. Mr. Allen, of Michigan, supported the rules, and especially that which permits the Speaker to refuse to recognize dilatory motions, and culogized the recent action of Speaker Reed in this respect. The dilatory motions had not been made to further public business, not to prevent raids on the Treasury, not for the purpose of settling some great question, but had been made for the purpose of preventing the consideration of the question whether Jackson had a right to a seat on this floor. He ridiculed the excitement which had prevailed on the Demo-cratic side, but said that it had quieted down when the Democrats and the country had seen that the Speaker was not a reed to be shaken by the wind.

The House adjourned at 11:55 and at noon the House adjourned at 11:35 and at noon the session of Wednesday began. The journal having been read, Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, asked unanimous consent for its approval, but objections came from the Democratic side and a roll call was made necessary. The journal was approved—yeas 119, nave 1 (Mr. Ruckelsw)—the Snaaker count. 1 (Mr. Buckalew)-the Speaker count ing 72 Democrats as present and not voting.

PRECEDENTS SET AT NAUGHT. Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky, entered his emphatic protest against the new code, and criticised the recent decisions of the Speaker. That officer had defied all precedents and had reversed the parliamentary decisions of nearly all the Speakers who had presided over the House. He had not only overruled Blaine, Garfield, Hawley and Conger, but he had overruled his own utterances when on the floor of the House. The time had come when the House needed rules instead of a ruler and dictator; fairness and justice instead of communism and Cæsarism. Mr. Cutcheon, of Michigan, supported the proposed rules, declaring that they tended to facilitate business instead of to obstruct it, and to give the control of the business of the House into the hands of the majority, and not leave it at the mercy of the minority. The rules substituted action for inaction, legislation for obstruction. And to that extent, and that extent only, they were revolutionary. A SOLITARY DEMOCRATIC VOTER. Mr. Buckalew, of Pennsylvania, the one Democrat who has voted when present upon every question, criticised the proposed rules because they tended to stifle adequate and necessary debate. Mr. Kerr, of Iowa, presented an argument in support of the proposed code and Mr. Hooker, of Mississippi, made a constitutional argument against it.

Arguments in support of the proposed code were made by Anderson, of Kansas; Henderson, of Iowa; Buchanan, of New Jersey; Walker, of Massachusetts: Moore, of New Hampshire: Dunnell, of Minnesota Houck, of Tennessee, and J. D. Taylor, of Ohio, and against it by Cummings, of New York; Carruth, of Kentucky; Mansur, of Missouri; Lane, of Illinois; Rogers, of Ar-kansas. Springer, of Illinois; Snively, of Indiana; Wike, of Illinois; Brookshire, of Indiana, and Pierce, of Tenness

BOTH SIDES OF THE QUESTION.

Mr. Carruth had discovered that "genand a tyrant. He had come to the conclusion that the Speaker should be dosed with Colonel Mulberry Sellers' eye water externally, internally and eternally. [Laughter] He had seen the same Speaker recognize a Republican before he had risen from his chair or had raised his voice; and he had been reminded of the Lieutenant Governor of a Western state, who, calling to the door-keeper said, "Go out and find Senator Gunson. He is somewhere about the Capitol; tell him he is recognized and has the floor. He (Mr. Caruth) had become anxious that the arbitrary General should be superseded.

Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, said that for the list lew weeks the country had witnessed scenes unequaled in the history of the Gov-ernment. The Speaker of the House, backed by every Republican member on the floor, had been making a stand for the rights and liberties of the people. That bat le had brought on scenes exceeding in monstrous proportions (in all except brutality) any that had ever occurred in the national Capitol. Only one picture stood out stronger in history, and that was when a Democratic club laid the immortal Sumner on the floor of the Senate

CONGRESS A SPECTACLE.

The ridicule and the rantings of a mob had been represented to 65,000,000 people. Epithets had been hurled broadcast from the Epithets had been hurled broadcast from the other side of the Chamber at the presiding officer. Language which should have expelled its users had been uttered and flashed over the wires. "Tyrant," "usurper," "corruptionist," were the speeches to which the country had been treated. Gentlemen could not be called to account for this language. The Speaker, rising to the situation like a constitution of the country had been treated. granite mountain, had met the occasion, and calmiy, grandly done the duty of the hour.

The House did not adjourn until 11 o'clock. Hundreds of spectators filled the alleries in the evening.

A REPUBLICAN CRUSHED.

Speaker Reed Refuses to Entertain s Friend's Motion to Adjourn. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1

WASHINGTON, February 12 .- Speaker

Reed astonished one of his Republican colleagues this morning by turning the tables upon him, and refusing to entertain his motion to adjourn. The venerable Mr. Walker, of Massachusetts, who is one of the Speaker's most persistent and enthusiastic admirers, was the victim, and all the Republicans are wondering whom Reed will turn upon next. When the House met at 11 o'clock there was a very slim attendance. The Chaplain invoked divine counsel upon the meeting, and the clerk read the journal. Following the usual tactics, the Democrats demanded a roll call on its approval. The Republican side of the chamber was especially thin, and some of the Republicans feared that a march was about to be stolen upon them. Mr. Walker saw a chance for distinction, and at once moved an adjournment, which motion the Speaker promptly decided to be out of order. That such a ruling would apply to a Re-publican motion had never entered Mr. Walker's head. He was astounded, and when he had recovered his breath he exclaimed in agonizing terms: "What! Mr Speaker, a motion to adjourn not in order?" His distress was great and so evidently real that every man present laughed at him. There was no appeal from the decision, however, and Mr. Walker sat down in confusion, utterly crushed.

PENNSYLVANIA'S WAR CLAIMS.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Favorable Committee Action Probable or the Reimbursement Bill.

WASHINGTON, February 12.-It is expected that a favorable report will be made some time next week by the House Committee on War Claims on Mr. Maish's bill for the repayment of the claims occasioned by the border raids during the late war. A member of the committee said to-day that from a careful canvass of his fellow members he was of the opinion that the committee would be nearly unanimous in recommending the passage of the bill. The bill calls for an appropriation of $3,447,-945, of which $900,000 will go to reimburse the State of Pennsylvania for disbursements made for the immediate relief of sufferers from these raids, and the bulk of the remainder will go to the citizens of Chambers-burg, who lost heavily by the destruction of that town by fire during the early raid. The bill provides that the money be paid to the Governor of Pennsylvania for the use of the claimants whose claims have been ad-judicated and filed with the Auditor General of the State.

eral of the State.

The House Committee on War Claims has ordered a favorable report on the bill to pay $30,000 to certain families in the county of Schuylkill, Pa., due them as the pay of soldiers provided by said families to the general army during the late war.

POSTOFFICE FIGHTS SETTLED. tendations for Appointees at Oil City and Homestend. PROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT, 1 WASHINGTON, February 12 .- This was a fruitful day for the settlement of postoffice contests in Western Pennsylvania. No less than three of them were disposed of, two by Representative Watson and one by Congressman Ray. The most important of the cases settled to-day was that of Oil City. For a long time there has been a lively fight over this office among the six or seven candidates. Mr. Watson decided the matter to-day, however, by recommending the ap-pointment of Mr. William M. McKim. Mr. McKim has bad a good deal of experience in postoffice matters, having been for several years in the railway mail service. Mr. Watson has also settled the contest over the Tidioute postoffice, by recommending the appointment of Henry Harrison Evans. Mr. Evans is an old resident, and a very capable man, in Mr. Watson's estimation. If Congressman Ray's recommendations ave any effect with this administration, Robert McWhinney will sell stamps at Homestead, Allegheny county, for the next four years. The recommendation was made this atternoon. The other candidates were Messrs. Rolfe, Izenour and Morton.

MAKING NO PROMISES.

Harrison Gives No Satisfactory Answers to Ray and Dalzell.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] WASHINGTON, February 12.-Representatives Ray and Dalzell to-day went to the White House and had a long talk with the President about the McKeesport postoffice. Mr. Ray protested against the delay caused by the Postoffice Department in holding up Captain Thompson's nomination, and he laid before the President all the facts in the case so far as he knew them. He declared that Captain Thompson was the choice of the people of McKeesport, and that there was no good reason why the nomina-tion should be withdrawn. The President, however, made no positive tatement in reply, and Mr. Ray left the White House just as uncertain as to what action would be taken as when he went there. Incidentally during the conversation he mentioned the case of the Washington postoffice, where the man nominated by Mr. Ray is opposed by Mr. Ewing, a rela tive of Secretary Blaine, but could get no satisfaction from the President as to what his intentions are in the matter. MORE CENSUS SUPERVISORS.
