SATURDAY FEBRUARY 15, 1890. DISPATCH, PITTSBURG THE versely reported, was passed by the Senate yesterday. The error was discovered, and the measure reconsidered. The House clerks of the discovery of America by Christopher Cowere reprimanded for carelessness in another instance. A large number of minor bills of arts, industries, manufactures and the instance. A large number of minor bills passed the Senate.

WASHINGTON, February 14 .- Two clerical errors were discovered in the Senate today which show how such mistakes may have a very important bearing upon legislation. One of the pension bills (for a man named David Peterson) having been passed without discussion with the usual rapidity of procedure, Mr. Cockrell subsequently inquired what had been done with it, and having been informed by the Vice President that the bill had been passed, he said dent that the bill had been passed, he said that it was a remarkable circumstance that hibition is to be held is left to the decision the bill appeared on the calendar as being favorably reported; whereas, the fact was that the report was an adverse one, with the recommendation that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

A SUDDEN CHANGE.

The report was read, and it showed that Mr. Cockrell's statement was correct. The notion of the Senate in passing the bill was therefore reconsidered, and the bill was in-definitely postponed.

This was not the only instance. Mr. West offered a concurrent resolution to amend an error in the enrollment of the Senate joint resolution for the removal of obstructions to navigation in the Mississippi river. The error had been committed by one of the clerks of the House, and consisted in the omission after the word "Resolved," of the words "by the Senste and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled."

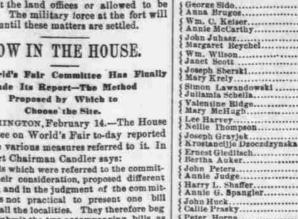

Mr. Ingalls commented severely upon the blunder, speaking of it as a case of "legis-lation being tampered with by inefficient clerks." He was opposed to the repetition of such disgraceful performances. He moved (instead of Mr. West's concurrent resolution) that the joint resolution in ques-tion be returned to the House of Representatives, with the request that the House send to the Senate a copy correctly engrossed, as it had passed that body.

THE HOUSE BEPRIMANDED.

He remarked that that was the way to get rid of the difficulty, and to admonish the House and its clerks and employes that there must be more osre, more scrutiny and more attention paid to such matters. Mr. army nurses during the late war, and who Vest assented to that disposal of the matter, rendered six months' services in camp on and remarked that the House had changed all its clerical torce, and now had a lot of new men who knew nothing about their business. Mr. Ingalls' motion was agreed to.

Mr. Sherman's resolution, offered yester-day, to proceed to-day, after the morning business, to the consideration of bills on the calendar under rule 8, was agreed to. House bill for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamers Treaton and Vandalia and the stranding of the United States steamer Nipsic, at Apia, Samoan Islands, was passed. A bill appro-pristing $25,000 for the relief of the Sloux Indians at Devil's Lake Agency, North

Dakots, was passed ANY NUMBER OF MEASURES.

TO DEFEND THE PACIFIC.

Adequate Const Defenses and a Gun Foundry Are Badly Needed.

WASHINGTON, February 14 .- The Senate Committee on Const Defenses had before it to-day General Miles, commander of the Division of the Pacific, and General Benet, Chief of Ordnance, who gave their views upon some matters in connection with the subject of coast detenses. General Miles said that the ports of Puget Sound, the mouth of the Columbia river, San Francisco and San Diego ought to be protected. He said that the recommendations of the Board of Fortifications and other defenses, if carried out, would be sufficient. One of the recommendations of that board was that a gun factory be established on the Pacific coast.
