Views of Steel Rail Manufacturers on the Tariff Situation.

OPPOSITION TO A REDUCTION.

The Present Rate Must be Retained to Insure Prosperity.

WORKMEN HAVE DECIDED OPINIONS.

Prices in Europe Are Very Likely to Take a Big Brop at Any Moment,

The steel rail manufacturers in Scranton join with those of Pittsburg in opposing prisoner at the new station. any reduction of the present rate of duty. The workmen express similar views.

SCRANTON, February 27 .- The proposition of the Ways and Means Committee of the Senate to reduce the tariff on steel rails to $10 per ton of course meets general disfavor among the managers of the two great steel Industries here, the Lackawanna Iron and Company and the Scranton Steel Works, and the matter has been thoroughly inquired into by them in what way the reduction could possibly be of any benefit to the steel industry of the country. General Manager Edward T. Moffatt, of the Lackawanna Company, said: "The Senate Committee's proposed action is unwise; and if put into force under conditions likely to occur, would work considerable injury to our steel industry."

CAUSE OF THE AGITATION.

This agitation he regarded as the outcome of the present high price for rails in England, which was due to an unusual demand and the advanced rate for the searcity of coke, and so long as those factors remained, the American industries could well compete with England, but when demand and cost of coke come down, the English rail will drop also, and if the tariff is reduced to the amount proposed, there will be nothing to stop English steel from crowding out the home product unless the wages of American workers are brought to the foreign level. The home manufacturers of steel rails should be given no reason to tear in-

W. W. Scranton, the President of the Scranton Steel Works, was even more out-spoken. He said: "If the depate Ways and Means Committee wants to shut down all the steel plants in the Eastern part of America, or force the well-paid steel workers down to the same level of wages as are paid to English mill hands in the same line of work, let them reduce the tariff on steel rails to $10 per ton. Nothing would serve to more thoroughly demoralize the steel industry in Penusyivania, in which there are now millions of dollars invested and tens of thousands of men employed. Just at present, however, there isn't much to fear, but the high prices in England for rails is liable to drop at any time to the point when rails were put on board ship in London for $18 50.

THE CERTAIN BESULT. "This $10 tariff would not bring rails up to the present American price when they would be landed in New York, the ocean freight being no more than is the railroad freight from New York to Scranton. The Western mills, however, would have the benefit of the protection which the heavy railroad charges for freight would secure them, but for the Eastern mills there would be nothing whatever except to reduce wages to about one-half what they now are, and the unusual wage distribution through the country would only tend to dishearten workmen, provoke disturbances, and every way tend to a demoralization of an industry that has advanced to grand proportions, and is really one of the foremost in America, "Wages are the foundation of the price of every marketable commodity, and the prices at which these articles sell in different countries are a measure of the wages paid for the of circumstances has forced English steel rails way beyond their usual prices, but these are liable to sudden change, and this would undoubtedly be precipitated the mo-

QUALITY THE SAME. "There is no use in talking about the superiority of our rails, as any claim for superiority of our rails, as any claim for better workmanship is nonsense. There is very little difference in the quality of the English and the American rail. If a new process is uncarthed in England, it does not remain a secret long, and the same way in the steel mills of the United States, for all the steel mills of the United States, for all steel manufacturers have expert chemists at all manufacturers have expert chemists.

At Berlin, Germany, Emil Neumann, well teries of new discoveries, and mechanics who study closely the workings of steel machinery and appliances. These experts are constantly on the go from mill to mill. I think it would be a very bad thing for Sezanton and every other Eastern city that has extensive steel plants for the tariff on rails to be reduced in any sum from the present rate."

The two steel mills have a constant on the present rate. The mills have been present rate. The mills have been present rate. The present rate of the crime is supposed to be the son's discovery of his father's systematic criminal conduct with many of his pupils, who belong to the best families.

At Berlin, Germany, Emil Neumann, well known to musiclans all over the world by his "History of Music," was arrested on a charge of murdering his son, aged 21, who was found to be the son's discovery of his father's systematic criminal conduct with many of his pupils, who belong to the best families.

The two steel mills here produced onethird of the steel output of States last year, and one-sixth of the product of the world. They give employment to over 7,000 men and boys in the mills and in the mines that provide them with coal, and when the coal trade is stagnant, as is the case just now, they are the life of the Lackswanna Valley.
One of the most progressive Board of Trade men said this afternoon that the Senate Committee has made a great mistake in attempting to meddle with this important item of tariff duty, and that the proposition must certainly come from a misunderstandng of the causes that have raised English rails to their present high price.

CONDEMNED BY WORKMEN.

The rollers in the mills and the pitmen and other leading workers, through their foreman, this evening, looked at the propo-sition with horror, and regarded it as one that would bring untold hardships upon the American steel rail producer. They condemn the measure from every standpoint and say the committee's action, if presented to Congress and made a law, would be the means of breaking down what is now one of the best branches of employment in the country—one that requires manhood's best strength and endurance, and which now, tion that insures good wages, soon wears | broidered cloths.

There was an earnest hope that the Senate Committee would let well enough alone and memorials praying them to let the steel rail duty untouched will be signed among the mill hands and forwarded to Washington sefore the close of the week.

In order to save Heubler it is said the case of grand largeny against the woman has been dismissed in Omaha and she will be sent back here. The chief could not produce her on the date named in the writ, but hopes to mitigate his punishment by producing her now. Heubler has discovered that old habeas corpus is a bigger man than the shief of police of St. Louis.

DEDICATED AND OCCUPIED.

The New Thirty-Sixth Ward Pollon Patro Station Put to Use. The new police patrol station of the Thirty sixth ward was informally opened yesterday. Five months since the building was commenced, and, as now completed, presents an appearance as handsome as that of any station in the city. Superintendent of Police Gamble Weir and several other police officials arrived about 3 o'clock in the afterneon and dedicated the new station to the use of the West End. The day sergeant will be W. F. McCurry. Sergeant Vaughn will preside at night. The patroluen are Joseph Barr, Ernest Lucka, Frederick Wills and Patrick Welch.

A short time after the departure of Super-intendent Weir the natrol wagon was called out and Martin Griffith, arrested for drunk-cunoss at the Lake Eric depot by Officer Kinney, had the honor of being the first Henrd From for Six Weeks. Mary Kiawasky, a 14-year-old girl of Oakland, has been missing from her home since the 18th of January, and the matter of finding her has been placed in the hands of Superintendent Dean, of the Anti-Cruelty Society. He will begin at once, and will ask the assistance of Inspector McAleese.

The only cause thought of for the girl's leaving home is given by her father, who states that she was stage-struck, and had, in all probability, left town with some barnstorming combination. She is described as being about five feet five inches in height, weighs about 120 pounds, has prominent nose, blue eyes and anbarn hair.

United States Deputy Marshai Chambers went to the place last Saturday, but Mohney was not there. To be sure of their man, a registered letter had been sent to Mohney. Deputy Chambers soon learned that the letter had been received by C. C. Mohney, a school teacher, near Red Bank, and at once hunted him up and arrested him. Mohney denied all knowledge of the matter, but when searched the opened letter was found in his pocket. He was brought to the city, and at the hearing yesterday was held in $1,000 balt for the May term of the United States Court. He is but ill years of age, and is believed to have been the tool of a gang of sharpers.
