

THE MUSIC WORLD.

Second Concert of the Season by the Popular Mozart Club.

A PRAISEWORTHY PERFORMANCE.

The Handel Charity Concert and the Beethoven Quartet Club.

OTTO HEGNER'S WONDERFUL GIFTS

The size and quality of the audience that gathered in Old City Hall on Tuesday evening, to hear the Mozart Club in the second concert of its twelfth season, betokens a growing public appreciation of Pittsburgh's foremost musical organization.

Except for the glints of light in Cherubini's brilliant overture and in the sunny "Italian" symphony, the entire evening was given over to glorious melodies.

At the Monday popular concert, Glasgow, a fortnight ago last Monday, Miss Zelle de Lussan made her first appearance in Scotland. She met with great success.

The orchestra, in spite of its ridiculously wasteful expenditure of money, is an excellent one. The soloists, in general, are of a high standard.

The Vienna Imperial Opera House celebrated a festival performance, on the 20th ult., the centenary anniversary of the first production of Mozart's opera "Così fan Tutti."

The Art Society held its one hundred and thirty-first reception at the Pittsburgh Club Theater last Thursday evening, when several choice paintings were on exhibition.
