THE ATTACK FOR LICENSES.

An Ominous Quiet in the Cump of the Remoustrants-Only McKeesport and the Niseteenth Ward Heard From.

A very pious, and at the same time a very lazy man-piety and laziness being some-times united in the same character, strange s it may seem-is said to have written out a very ample and well-composed prayer, had it framed and hung over the footboard of his bed. Then, when feeling unusually sleepy, or when the air was chilly, he would point to the engrossed copy, on retiring, and address the Throne of Grace thus:

"Those, Lord, are my sentiments." Whether the temperance people of this county think they have sufficiently borne testimony, have fought the good fight, and have made their calling and election sure, or are lying in ambush with intent to throw would-be booze dispensers off their guard and take them napping, is not disclosed by any general movement, so far on record in the Clerk of Courts' office. Mrs. McConnell, of McKeesport, has been down, and has secured a list of names of applieants for license from that city, supposedly with intent to strew thoras in their path. Remonstrances have also been filed against H. B. Luchsinger, --- McDowell and Frank Ganb, of the Nineteenth ward, but so far as officially known these are the only objections recorded.

Philadelphia Judges begin the work earlier than their brethren in this county, and here is one of the nuts the anti-whisky people have offered Their Honors to crack, Psain aciv.:20: "Shall the throne of iniquity have fellowship with thee, which traineth mischief by a law?" They are also informed that if they grant licenses to sell liquor they are no better than Pontius Pilate, whom they hold to be justly chargeable with crime of the crucifixion of the Savior, as it was by his (Pilate's) permission that it was done.

As wholesalers may, under the law, furnish their customers with glasses so that they can divide a quart pro rata, where people are neighborly and democratic and gen erally get thirsty about the same time, enough of them at least to get away with quart of coffin varnish, the deprivation of saloons is not felt so badly as it was before they knew their precise latitude and longi-

The circus will begin on St. Patrick's Day; at least, it is expected to commence before noon of that day.

Great Crowds.

On yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, a large crowd of people were noticed about the entrance to building No. 516 Smithfield st., occupied by the well-known china and art goods dealers, French, Kendrick & Co., the cause of which was from the announcement of their removal sale and the great bargains advertised in consequence. Several times during the day it was found necessary to close the doors to give the throng of people on every floor an op-portunity to make their purchases.

Extra help had been engaged in anticipation of a large crowd, but not enough, how-ever, to handle the crowds that came. More-help has been engaged for the remainder of the sale, and all may be sure of prompt attention. To customers who bought goods to be sent, we would say that they will be de-livered as promised. An extra force of packers are working night and day. All those who may be desirous of securing any of the great bargains now being offered must come early, as the quantity is limited, and will soon be gone. Don't wait, but come as soon as you read this, and get your share of the good things at French, Ken-drick & Co.'s China Store, 516 Smithfield st., opp. City Hall.

Their First Brenkfast.

Mr. Justwed -Why, my dear, I didn't know you were such a famous little baker. This bread is simply superb. Mrs. Justwed-O, I-that is I'm glad you like it, darling.

She was just on the point of telling him that her own attempts at baking had been signal failures, and that at the last moment she had sent out for a couple of Marvin's delightful Royal loaves, and he, simple confiding man, thinks to-day that she's the best baker in seven counties. TTSSu
