one that has a champion aggregation.

President M. B. Mills, of the wrecked International Association, declared: "If I was a League man I think I would look at this matter as if Washington had no team and no grounds. Detroit has elegant grounds and a strong team. Washington is anxious to get out without further loss. Detroit is just as anxious to come in, feeling that the champions of the International are clever enough to come in not worse than fifth in this year's race. The League ought to be glad to have the assistance of such club and such a city. I do not think it has been treated exactly right. We might at least be granted a hearing. If we fail to get into the League I intend to go at once to Buffalo and try to place an International Association club One thing you may be sure of, Detroit will have a ball club this year. If we fail to revive the International I will certainly offer the Brotherhadtonal will certainly direct the Brotherhadtoned people our grounds and stands rent free if they will give as baseball. Detroit is not after money; if we can scratch along and make both ends meet we are satisfied, for we do love the game. I have had little or no en-couragement while here. A man would think that the League would throw its arms open to embrace such a chance. All we want is a fram-bles. There is not a planer Waller Hewitt emonace such a chance. All we want is a that chise. There is not a player Walter Hewitt has that we would care about. Give us a place in the Leagne, that is all we ask. We will pay for that. A LITTLE TOO BUSY.

The League people were too busy with this eight club preblem to listen to the pleadings of the Michiganders, who were discouraged and not a bit backward about acknowledging that to be the case. President Mills asserted that Indianapolis wanted $75,000 for its franchise and that the League would not give it. His threat to go into the Brotherhood was received with a show of humor, although Albert I. Johnson, who has stuck to the Leaguers as close as a hurr to a farmer's pants received the news with gladness. Detroit's game is for the Players' League to put Buffalo in the bag. They would enjoy revenge on their former In-ternational conferees if such a slaughter occurred. Manager Leadly, of the Detroit club, unwit-tingly betrayed the secret of Brush's anxiety when asked if there was any probability of a transfer of the Washington franchise to the City of the Straits, by saying: 'I am afraid not. It looks to me as if there would be only eight clubs in the League this year. Washington wasts read and was treasyion to how but ly wants to sell and we are anxious to buy, but I've made a good many inquiries during the last 12 hours, and I am constrained to believe that we have not much hope of getting in. The general desire is for an eight club League, and in spite of all that has been said to the contrary about convinced that Indianapolis and Wash-ington will go out."

AL SCANDRETT TALKS.

Secretary Scandrett, of the Pittsburg club, seemed to think that the Schedule Committee anticipated the sale of Washington's franchise to Detroit, when it drew up the recommendation providing for an equal division of the mileage expenses of the several clubs. "You see," he said, "if Detroit were to take Washington's place Pittsburg would be thrown into ington's place Pittsburg would be thrown into the Eastern group, and the consequence would be a greatly increased mileage expense. Under the present division of the cluis, Pittsburg has much the best of it, for when the Western cluis go East we have a shorter distance than any of them to travel. But if we were put in the Eastern division, we would have to do some wery lively hustling to jump around with Hos-ton, Brooklyn and New York, and our mileage would be much larger than that of any other club. This equal division of the mileage ex-penses will, of course, do away with the objec-tions that we would otherwise be compelled to raise against being transferred to the Eastern group. However, I think this scheme to divide the mileage expenses equally is a very good one, no matter whether Detroit takes Wash-ington's place or not, and I'm surprised that something like it was not thought of long ago." At 9 o'clock, half an hour after the evening session had commenced, the little President of the League came down the stairway and ap-proached the waiting newspaper delegation. the Eastern group, and the consequence would proached the waiting newspaper delegation. "The League," said he, "has referred the schedule back to the committee and aujourned until 16 o'clock to-morrow morning. It will be rearranged on the basis of ten clubs, and one thing the committee will do is to avoid race week here." Then Mr. Young retraced his steps to where the "adjournment" had taken place. Not a League delegate withdrew, and an all night debate is doubtless on.

BALTINORE, March 5 .- The Players' League Club of Philadelphia is evidently very anxious to have pitcher Frank Foreman, who deserted them and signed a personal contract with President Stern, of the Cincinnati League Club, a few weeks ago. As already stated, President Wagner, of the Philadelphia Players' League Club, visited Foreman at his home near Balti-more on last Sunday, and offered him $2,000 cash as advance money to jump, which offer Foreman says he received a let-ter, marked private and personal, and signed by President Warner, offering him $3,000 ad-vance mouey, a jump of $1,000 over that of Sunday, and $500 increase in salars, which would jump the figures to $4,500. It was de-clined by letter. Foreman says he will not get into any more hot water. President Wagner, he says, argued that he would be the star pitcher, and Forman says he knows this, be-cause be had but two.
