PARK PROPERTY IN VIEW,

That May Sometime be Utilized for Reservoir Purposes.

SYMMETRY ALSO A CONSIDERATION

The meeting of the Councils Committee on Finance yesterday afternoon was very brief, but important business was transacted. The most important thing was the approval of ordinances authorizing Chief Bigelow to buy 361/2 acres of land to add to the park adjoining the Highland Avenue meeting. Only seven of the 17 members were present. Controller Morrow and Chief Bigelow were there.

The first business was a resolution authorizing the City Controller to issue certificates on the Mayor for warrants in favor of the following: John Schmitt, $6,000; Louis Biers, $3,000; Adam Schneider, $1,000; Avenue Hotel toward Smithfield street.

Adam Zender $1,000 in assumant for Adam Zender, $1,000, in payment for re-leases of property in Schenley Park, and to charge the same to appropriation No. 41, with a tight grip, and looking down he saw voirs. The leak into the McCune-Balph property, he says, can be used for the irrigation of the park lawns and flower beds. One of the objectors at City Hall said yesterday: "It seems to me that it would have been a common sense idea to have stopped that leak, instead of paying $420 damages a year, and finally being forced to buy the land at a fancy price."

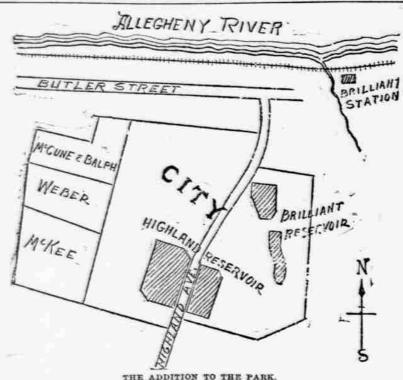

It appears that Chie Bigelow has been the virtual owner of the property for nearly two years. "He bought it," said a friend of his, "for the purpose of holding it for the city. At the time he bought it the present pretty park around the reservoirs had not been made, and the property was secured at a very low figure. The formation of the park was the thing which gave the surrounding land its greatly increased value. Now, I am told, that Mr. Bigelow could sell this land for $80,000, yet he transiers it to the city for just what it has cost him."

THOUGHT THE PRICE LOW. Mr. Holliday said that Mr. Schmitt had at first wanted $18 000. He and Councilman Keating thought the figures very low. The resolution was approved. Controller Morrow then said that he did not believe a resolution of Councils was sufficient to authorize the payment of the $11,000.

Ordinances were then read authorizing Chief Bigelow to buy a lot from John H. McElroy and another lot from Florence C. Miller, both located on Emerson street, in the Twentieth ward. Each lot is 24 by 100 Chief Bigelow said that the two lots adjoin the property on Emerson street owned by the Department of Public Works and used for the keeping of wagons, tools and lumber. The new property was needed, he said. There is a house on each lot, and they would be removed. He thought the city would obtain something from the material in those houses. McCune and R. A. Balph are to be paid $11,495, a rate of $1 154 per nore. The entire 361/2 acres will cost

Councilman Robertson objected to this purchase. He said that the land was not needed, and that at the present time the city could not afford to pay out such a sum of money. There was a heavy deficiency in the city's accounts, and he could not see any excuse for the purchase. He asked: "Why do you want to buy this land?" Chief Bigelow replied: "It will square out the city's property. It is wanted for reservoir purposes. There is a leak from the reservoir into the property of one of these parties. For several years the city has been paying $420 a year for that leak "That is true," said the Controller. "He comes in every year and just gets his money. For three successive years he sued and got judgment, but now he just gets his money as a matter of saving costs." LOOKED AT AS AN INVESTMENT.

"This land," Mr. Bigelow said, "is very cheap. It is bought at the rate of $1,000 an sere. Land adjoining it, which is not so desirable, is held at from $4,000 to $7,000 an These lots will be a good investment. The city can, at any time, dispose of them at a good profit. The other day a gentleman who owned some land down on the side of the hill, came to me and offered me an option on his property. He said he ald make a sort of donation to the city, and his price was $2,500 an acre."

Mr. Keating approved the purchase, saying that the city would lose a great chance if it did not take the land at the price

"But," asked Mr. Robertson, "is the land ceded? Why buy it at all?"

"Well," Chief Bigelow replied, "it will square out the city's property."
Mr. Donahoe moved that the ordinances be recommended for enactment, and the motion was carried. The committee then adjourned. After the adjournment Mr. Robertson said: "This is a great way to do busi ness, blowing in money on all sorts of land achemes, when we haven't got the money to spare." Messrs. Robertson and Binder feel that the East End ought not to have any more park improvement until some-thing in that line is done for the Southside.

WOMEN AND WHISKY

Saved the Life of a Young East Ender Who Skated Into Silver Lake.

A TWENTY-MINUTE PLUNGE BATH

That Rendered the Bather Unconscious for

THE NARROW ESCAPE OF TWO MEN

Fully Half an Hour.

Propped up in a big rocking chair, enreloped in blankets and comfortables, surrounded by anxious and trightened men, women and children, Robert H. Alexander was seen yesterday afternoon, after his impromptu plunge into the icy waters of Silver

Mr. Robert, in company with two other young men, George W. Ackerman and George L. Dawson, all of Bloomfield, went down to Silver Lake shortly after 3 o'clock, cents admission fee and struck out gaily ten minutes had they enjoyed the exhilarating sport, when, with an ominous cracking of the ice and loud shouts of those around, two of the skaters disappeared in a treacherous hole. One of them, very fortunately, and in a manner which no one, in the excitement of the moment, seemed able to explain, pulled himself out and immediately vanished, while his com-panion in the water shouted "A board, a There was a general rush for ropes and boards, and two ladies who live on the banks of the lake were on hand in less time than it takes to tell, with a couple of clothes-lines, while the men drew as near to the edge of the hole as possible with boards, A LONG AND CHILLY WAIT.

In the meantime, Mr. Alexander, who was able to swim, and thus, prevented himself from sinking, was calling for "George," which might have meant either of his comrades, and crying: "For God's sake help me—I can't stand it much longer."

For fully 20 minutes the poor mean stand. For fully 20 minutes the poor man strug-gled in the cold water without being able to grasp any of the many ropes or boards by which he could save himself. Just as he was giving up hope and succumbing to the chill of the water, a rope that was thrown him by George Ackerman and the young man in charge of the lake, wrapped around his body, and by it he was saved.

Once out of the water he lost all consciousness, and was carried into the residence of Mrs. Foster, where he was quickly divested of his wet clothing, and Dr. Rugh, with the assistance of Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Black and his two companions, applied the usual remedies and rubbings given to a drowned man. For half an hour no sign of life encouraged them in their efforts; then, gradually the man returned to consciousness, and hot whisky and the careful attention given him by the ladies, coupled with the knowledge of his narrow escape, made him quite con-tented with his lot, and he was a very docile

NOT QUITE THAT OLD. The ladies deserve great credit for their prompt actions while the young man was in the water and their kindness to him in the water and their kindness to him afterward, but one of them, who at the time was engaged in holding his head and feeding him hot Scotch, objected very strongly to having it called "motherly kindness," as suggested to THE DISPATCH reporter by one of the gentlemen present. She preferred not to be considered quite that old, she said.

The physician in charge says that unless pneumonia sets in, Mr. Alexander will suffer no serious effects from his plunge

The skaters-about 15 in number, and and among them some of the fair sex-as soon as the rescue was made struck out for the shore, and one young lady, falling upon the ice, imagined herself about to repeat the drama, and forthwith made the woods resound with her screams of terror. As the water she expected did not close over her, in time she became reassured, and, with as-sistance, made her way home.

Some criticism upon the proprietors of the lake floated round in the breezes for allowing the skaters upon the ice when it was not periectly safe, but one of them was on hand promptly to pay all expenses, whether for a casket or carriage.

COULDN'T STOP THE CAR.

Another Accident on the Central-Lots of Glass Broken, but Luckily No Limbs-A Wagon Badly Broken Up and a Blind Horse Knocked Out.

About 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon as car 59, of the Central traction line, got fairly started down the steep hill on Wylie avenue, above Fulton street, an aged and apparently blind horse emerged from an alley about 100 feet ahead, with a medium-sized empty wagon in tow. The driver had evidently forgotten all about the cable, and was some distance in the rear, leaving the animal to its own devices.

The gripman rang his gong at a furious rate and made every effort possible to stop the car. At this particular part of the road, nowever, the cars run a good deal faster with the grip off and the brake on than they do when the power is attached. Heeding nothing, the horse calmly pursued its journey and the rig was planted fairly across the track when the crash came.

Only one or two passengers in the ear were aware of what was coming, and they just had time to duck their heads to avoid the broken glass, which flew in every direction. Nobody was hurt, but the inmates, mostly ladies, made a wild rush for the door were pacified, however, by the prompt action of the conductor, who held the door shut and shouted that there was no danger. The wagon was shattered by the crash and the horse was dragged some 20 feet, at one time having its head through one of the broken windows of the ear, which was not stopped until some distance below Fulton

The owner of the horse, which was still alive, made an appearance about this time, and at once announced his intention of suing the company for damages. The conductor got even by saying that the company would charge for the broken glass, which was the only injury to the car, and the downward trip was resumed.

FUEL FOR THE FUTURE

The Pittsburg Metallurgy Company Increases Its Capital Stock Tenfold-Fuel Gas to be Made by It at a Cost of Less Than 5 Cents a Thousand Feet.

The Pittsburg Metallurgy Company held meeting at its rooms in the Hamilton building, yesterday afte rnoon, elected offi-cers, and resolved to increase its capital stock from $10,000 to $100,000, as a means of facilitating the largely increasing business of the concern.

Heretolore the company has been composed of M. V. Smith, and several gentlemen interested in Mr. Smith's experiments in a new process of artificial fuel gas. The experiments in question have proved won-derfully successful, and the the various patents have been secured, and the demand for plants of the kind extending beyond the capacity of the old concern, as far as it was then constituted, it was found necessary to organize a company with the capital previ-ously mentioned, and yesterday's meeting marked the conclusive arrangements of the permanent organization.

The following are the names of the directors elected: H. H. Byram, President; W. A. Magee, John A. Wilson, Andrew J. Lennox and C. L. Richardson. The company will confine itself to contracting for the erection and placing of plants coming under the Smith patents. If these will do all that is claimed for them there is likelihood of a revolution in the present fuel gas

Many attempts have been made to manufacture gas cheap enough to be available as a fuel, but without success. Another difficulty was the inability to get sufficient pressure. Both of these obstacles have been overcome—the first by M. V. Smith, the other by the G. Y. Roots Company, of Indianapolis, that has contrived a sort of gas pump that will not only give the pressure desired, but will regulate it at the same

All difficulties being now overcome, the company states that it is now prepared to offer a gas generator which will supply fuel to manufactories and households at a much lutely pure.

The company has already secured large contracts from manufacturing companies in the vicinity, and others in the northern part of the State and Ohio.

M. V. Smith, the patentee, was for 17 years connected with the company operating the Siemens process, and during his connection and experiments made while with that company hit upon the theory which within the last three years only he has had an opportunity to develop. Having perfected the system and at last secured the benefit of a machine that will give the pressure desired, which has always been the prime difficulty in the way, he is now ready to go on and demonstrate the availability of his invention.
