Rev. E. R. Donehoo Preaches Apropos to Revision Agitation.

A SHORT SERMON ON BAPTISM,

Pollowed by the Immersion of Six Ladies and Two Gentlemen.

Rev. E. R. Donehoo, pastor of the Eighth Presbyterian Church, yesterday preached on "John Calvin." The sermon was a very timely one, in view of the discussion now going on regarding revision. In his address, which

of a more orthodox faith

FIXED IN HIS FAITH.

"Driven from city to city, imprisoned and threatened with death, he at last sought temporary sojourn at Geneva, despite the threat openly made by Calvin that he should never leave that town alive if he could prevent it. August 3, 1553, he was recognized in Geneva by Calvin and promptly arraigned for his heretical beliefs. On the 26th day of October he was prosecuted before the council by Calvin and promptly convicted and condemned to death at the stake, and executed on the day fol-lowing. While pleading for that mercy which might well have been granted and promising to leave, on his release, for Spain, he was bound to the stake, spain, he was bound to the stake, utterly refusing to recant his opinions, and dying with these words upon his lips, 'Jesus, thou Son of the eternal God, have mercy on me.' The odium which attaches to this inhuman deed of Calvin in putting to death the defenseless person in his hands is not to be justified by the condition of the times in which he lived, and is especially deserving of our unqualified condemnation as coming from one who professed such profound acquaintance with the principles of our holy religi . The man who knew so much about the divine purposes ought to have known that his duty was to do justice and love mercy and walk humbly before his God. With this example of his methods one is well justified in carefully examining the iron logic with which he fortified his beliefs before they accept them with

LEADS TO PROTESTS. "The more we admire him for his profound researches into the mysteries of the divine government, and for his unselfish labors in the interests of truth and godliness, the more earnestly does it become us to protest against that intolerant spirit which led him to bring upon himself the guilt of mur-dering one who was answerable alone to his Creator for his religious beliefs. "Taking John Calvia all in all, he was a most remarkable character and deserving of would not, even though the fate of Servetus was threatened against me if I dared to protest against any of his opinions. So far as his doctrines commend themselves to my enlightened judgment, as founded on the plain word of God, I assent to them, but not hers' weaknesses, impairs one's faith in his doctrines, even though they may be strengthened by the iron-bound logic which he was wont to yield so adroitly, and which, doubtless, often led him unconsciously to harmonize God's character to his own un-charitable and unyielding views of right and justice."

CHRISTIANITY'S HERITAGE.

Rev. Locke Declares Christ's Power Has Descended to His Church.

The Rev. Charles E. Locke, of the Smithfield Street M. E. Church, preached last night on the subject: "Christianity Not Afraid of Its Foes." He first told how the village carpenter at Nazareth had created a sensation by declaring that he fulfilled the prophesies of the Bible. He followed this with Christ's escape from the power which saved Christ from His enemies had been conferred upon the Church and upon the individuals. To prove this be granted. cited the triumphs of the Church during the persecutions, and described the trials under Nero, Titus, Decius Julian, the Apos-tate, and during the persecutions of the Huguenots and Luther. He then referred mad fight infidelity was at present making, and then proved that the Church was advancing in the race of all. Mr. Locke also spoke of victories won by an earnest appeal to the people to accept Christianity. In response to his appeal eight persons united themselves with the At the close of the services Mr. M. D. Delchoff, a native of Bulgaria, who wants to return to his country to do mission work,

PITTSFURG AND NINEVEH.

Rev. Barnett Compares the Wickedness of the Two Cities.

Rev. J. H. Barnett, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, in Allegheny, preached last evening on the subject, "A City of Ancient Sinners Compared With Our Own; or, Repentance Needful," The ancient city referred to was Neneveh, which, the pastor said, was a place of vice and wickedness. He told the story of Jonah and the whale. After Jonah had carried out God's instructions and warned the people of the town, the latter put on sackcloth and ashes of repentance. He jokingly questioned whether Jonah had on his best suit of clothes when he was swallowed by the whale.

He then spoke of the old pictures in the Royal Museum in London, portraying historical reminiscences of the town, which tallied exactly to the descriptions in the Bible. This he said showed how accurately the good book was. He advocated the establishment of missions in this city, to work among the rich and fashionable as well as the poor people.

RIGHT PERSONS IMMERSED.

The Sacrament of Baptism for Members of the Shady Avenue Church.

The Rev. W. A. Stanton, who has just taken charge of the Shady Avenue Baptist Church, preached last night in the Fourth Avenue Baptist Church. His sermon was on the subject of baptism, and he took as his text, "As many as receive him are saved." He argued that the men of the world do not realize what God offers them. They keep their eyes on the ground and do not see the glory beyond. He then pictured the glories of the future and made a call for all to come to Christ.

At the close of the service eight persons were baptized by immersion and received into the church. They were Sarah H. Lytton, Marguerite H. Lytton, Charles L. Lytton, Birdie M. Drum, Birdie H. Cosgrove, Laura A. Cosgrove, Clara Wassell

A TALK ON CALVIN. and Joseph M. Garris. The ceremony was performed in the Fourth avenue church because the baptistry in the Shady avenue church was not completed.

CREED AND CONDUCT.

The Subject of Rev. Dr. Cowan's Sermo Last Evening.

"Creed and Conduct," was the subject of the evening sermon of Rev. Dr. E. P. Cowan, at the Third Presbyterian Church. His text was from St. John's Gospel, xii., 46: "I am come a light into this world, EXTRACTS OF SOME OTHER SERMONS that whosever believeth on me should not abide in darkness." Dr. Cowan said: "This text carries with the the idea that it does make some difference what a man believes. A man's belief, in the man, influences his conduct. Sometimes men seem to act contrary to their belief, because we do not know what their real belief is. What a man believes is his creed. was a lengthy one, Mr. Donehoo said:
"The one dark spot in the character of Calvin, which centuries will not obliterate, and have been considered. The control of the contr was his harsh, unchristian and barbarous lief on that question will never be in dan-treatment of Servetus. The more the case is studied the more cruel and indefensible does his conduct appear. Servetus was a man of varied attainments, much given to controversy, a man of considerable medical skill, and a sincere believer in the doctrines for which he at last laid down his life. Persecuted by both Catholic and Protestant, Lutheran and Zwinglian, he maintained his opinions with a courage that was worthy of a more orthodox faith.

ger from train tevel. that the onght not to believe anything, that it has concerning God and religion can be systematized and put into definite form. Thus the apostolic creed is the belief of the whole Christian world. The most condensed statement of the doctrines of the gospel is that of St. Paul, "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ." That is a creed in an acorn shell. The man who believes that much, must belief in all that it carries with it. It means belief in all that Jesus taught. belief in all that Jesus taught.

"Because the mind of man is logical it is absolutely essential to form these beliefs into systems. It is the spreading out of the mighty oak from the acorn shell. I believe that many of the minuter distinctions of creeds, which have no influence upon character, are not worth quarreling about. The division between the old school and the new school Presbyterians was so fine that it was possible that it should influence charac-I have heard that a church in this city divided on the momentous issue whether the clergy should read one or two lines, in giving out the hymn.

"Great systems of theology have modified character and produced certain types. Cal-vin's old system of theology need not be ashamed of the type of character it has formed. I deprecate change of these sys-tems in our day of doubt and unbelief—even the change of what might be called infelicities of expression, since they are not essen-tial and do not affect character. I deprecate the spectacle that some of our brethren are exhibiting to a criticising and skeptical world. The essentials are The existence of God, the responsibility of man, the heinousness of sin, the accountability at the judgment, the reward of those who are Christ's own and the punishment of those who are not. The real question of to-day is: Shall the Christian religion live?"

TEN GREAT RELIGIONS.

Universalist Prencher Declares the Old Testament to be Obsolete.

At Christ Universalist Church, Sixth avenue, last night, Rev. W. S. Williams talked on "The Ten Great Religions." He said the masses do not think for themselves, and especially is this so in religious matters. They accept what is offered to them without a question. Every man should know more than one religion. His religious belief is but the outgrowth of other religions, and he cannot understand his own if he does not know what others belasting honors for his deep researches into the mysteries of God's character and purposes, but that the oracles of God were committed to him exclusively I do not believe, nor ligion. Ever since time was man has been making himsel! known to men through the medium of many religions. Even to-day there are religions more powerful than Christianity, although that is the supreme one.

Then there are dead religions. That one one inch farther can I go. His harsh and intolerant spirit, so lacking in sympathy for ion, and we have no more authority to base our religious beliefs on the teachings of the Old Testament than on the doctrines of Chinese on the ancient idols of the Nile. The Old Testament made up the religion known as Judaism, and it is no more associated with Christianity than the teachings of Mohammed.

The speaker then described the ten relig-ions of the world and showed where Christianity-the eleventh-was superior to them
