MUST HAVE THE DAMS

Pittsburg Rivermen Backing Up Colonel Merrill's Proposition.

CAPTAIN O'NEIL FAVORS DIKING.

Four Locks in the Ohio River Would Hardly be Sufficient.

A RAILROADER FAVORS WATERWAYS

The recommendation of Colonel Merrill to the River and Harbor Committee, to build four more dams, on the style of the Davis Island dam, between Pittsburg and Wheeling, revives somewhat the drooping hopes of rivermen, who have prayed these many years for a free and navigable river. It was the chief topic of conversation yesterday in the coal offices and along the wharf. The majority of the rivermen have implicit confidence in the ability and integrity of Colonel Merrill, and his latest proposition to the Government meets with their general approval.

The rapid strides made by the railroads in recent years have thrown into the shade the merits of the more snail like canal, but as the rapacity of railroad managers increases, the necessity of inland water navigation becomes more urgent.

WANTS THE RIVER DIKED.

Captain O'Neil has always claimed that the Ohio river could be vastly improved by diking the stream at a number of places. This method would increase the volume of water, but everything depends on the velocity. Other rivermen prefer the dams.

Captain Rodgers said yesterday: "I am glad to see Colonel Merrill make such recommendations. It is what we need, not only between Pittsburg and Wheeling, but further down the river. Not long since, at a meeting where Colonel Merrill made an address to river navigators, he said he knew these dams would not be built in this generation, owing to the red tape and slow movements of the Government, but the time would come when the work would be accomplished. It will be done slowly, and he advised us to take what we could get and wait for the balance. These dams cost large sums and require time to build. Of course with private enterprise they could be constructed in a short time, but the Government doesn't work that way. I think the Colonel will secure an appropriation for the dam at Beaver, and even that would greatly help us. We must have inland navigation as an offset to the railroads.

HAS CONFIDENCE IN MERRILL.

"As to the number of dams needed between Pittsburg and Wheeling, I have confidence in the judgment of Colonel Merrill. He knows the descent of the river, and he wouldn't say that four were required if more were necessary.

Captain Joseph Walton said: "I didn't know that Colonel Merrill had asked for an appropriation for four dams. It is pleasant news to me. We need them badly. I will indorse anything about the river that Colonel Merrill proposes. He understands his business thoroughly. The Government should slack water the entire river and make it free. The success of the floating dams has been demonstrated. What is badly needed is better supervision of our inland streams and their shores. Men have no right to fill up the banks, and make mill sites out of property that doesn't belong to them. Now it would be just as easy for Uncle Sam to build these four dams all at once, as to begin on one and then waste money on it, by delays and petty interferences. I don't understand why the Government can't execute business with the promptness of individuals. But the advantages to Pittsburg of slack water on the entire Ohio are too apparent to be again pointed out."

FOUR DAMS NOT ENOUGH.

Captain James A. Henderson, Superintendent of the Pittsburg and Cincinnati packet line, said: "I wouldn't like to say at what points the dams should be located. That is a question for the engineers, and I suppose Colonel Merrill has figured that out. I am afraid four would be hardly enough between the two points named. Navigation is worse between Pittsburg and Wheeling than anywhere else along the river on account of the heavy fall. It is difficult to maintain a fair stage of water, because it runs away so fast. From Wheeling to Cincinnati the descent is more gradual, and the result is that navigation is open generally to Wheeling from the South during the dry season, from two weeks to a month longer than to Pittsburg. After that the water becomes so low that in going up stream you can't even reach Wheeling, and Pittsburg is out of the swim.

ICE CAUSES THE TROUBLE.

"For the last ten seasons through ice and the dry weather navigation with all kinds of boats has been interrupted about five months out of the year. On an average the ice interferes with us for six weeks, and with dams probably that could not be avoided, but see what we are now losing in the other four months when there is no water. A series of dams would avoid this waste, and maintain communication with the South and West.

"When the dams are built to Wheeling they need to be continued as far as Cairo. Below the West Virginia city they could be located farther apart. Dams are sadly needed between Cincinnati and Cairo. There are points between these two places that cannot be passed over in dry weather. It is surprising how much traffic is carried on the Ohio river. We have built up a large freight business, and our packet lines tend to keep railroad rates at a reasonable figure. If we could run all the year through, our tonnage and receipts would be heavier. Others lose as we do during the dry season, and statisticians can easily estimate just what slips by Pittsburg every year because the rivers are not improved."

PILOT SANFORD'S VIEWS.

T. S. Sanford, the pilot of the new Keystone State, the finest packet boat running from Pittsburg to Cincinnati, knows every inch of the Ohio river. He thinks that two dams are required between this city and Beaver. He does not approve entirely of Captain O'Neil's plan to dike the river, though that could be done to good advantage at certain places. Dikes near a dam produce too much slide draught, and boats are drawn into the swift current, swept over the dams and wrecked. This was the fault at Marietta Island, where so much coal was lost some years ago.

Collector Warmcastle, who is an old freight man and thoroughly posted on railways, was caught for a moment at the Duquesne. He said it was a good thing to slack-water the Ohio to keep the railroads in line. The dam scheme is feasible, and they could be easily built—at an enormous outlay, it is true—but the investment would pay. Freight from this territory could be shipped to the Mississippi, and by that river could reach the North and Northwest. If the water was assured all the year around shippers could easily arrange their contracts to have the freight delivered at a certain time. He realized that the railroads would fight hard to prevent inland navigation, and their millions invested in plants and rolling stock would spur them on to great activity in heading off any inroads into their revenues. Mr. Warmcastle believes, however, that the rivers should be utilized and that better transportation by water is needed.

A COMPLETE VICTORY.

An Allegheny gentleman, after years of terrible suffering from kidney disease, finally becomes cured. He says: "I had a constant, dull, aching pain in my back. About every 10 days my head would so pain me that I would frequently go into an unconscious condition, and, falling off my chair, would have to be carried to my bed, where I would be compelled to remain for days. I had rheumatic pains all over my body. As my disease further advanced I had to void my urine very often, which was attended with great pain. My appetite left me. I had belching of gas, and a bad taste in my mouth. My mouth and throat would fill with slimy mucus, and a tight, backing cough set in, with an aching and burning sensation in my breast, night sweats further reduced me, and I became very weak. I had received treatment from several prominent physicians, but received no benefit. Being advised to consult Dr. Shafer, of the Polypathic Medical Institute, in regard to my case, I did so and, finding their charges very reasonable, I began treatment, and am glad to say that I have been entirely cured of my disease. "C. SCOTT CHAMBERS."

MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

The Great Work Performed for Mr. Frederick Raetz.

HIS TESTIMONY GIVEN IN FULL.

"Two years is a long time to suffer from a trouble and not be able to obtain a remedy to check its progress. That was my case exactly," said Mr. Frederick Raetz. "My trouble commenced with a cold at first, caused by exposure at my work. Cold followed cold. My head ached constantly, and my nose discharged a thin, acrid fluid.

"I remained in this condition for some time, then I noticed that the trouble was extending through my whole system. My eyes were weak and watery. I could feel the mucus dropping into my throat. There were constant buzzing and roaring noises in my ears.

Mr. Frederick Raetz, 118 Spring Garden Avenue.

"I could not sleep at night. The mucus would fill up my throat, and I would have to sit up and hawk and raise in order to obtain relief. Night sweats set in and weakened me terribly. Such nights as these left me entirely unfit for work. I would arise in the morning feeling unrefreshed, in fact more tired than when I went to bed. My throat was so inflamed and sore that I could not eat anything in the mornings. I had no desire for food; the very sight of it caused a nausea at my stomach.

"Sharp pains would shoot through my chest, stabbing like a knife, often so severe as to cause me to gasp for breath. There was a feeling in my stomach as of a heavy weight pressing down. My heart would beat rapidly. The palpitation would be followed by a slow, irregular beating and a feeling of faintness. I grew weaker and weaker. The slightest exertion would make me short of breath. When I would stoop over and raise up quickly I would become dizzy, and was often compelled to sit down until this feeling passed away.

"My body was racked with aches and pains, and I despaired of ever getting well. I had read with interest of the wonderful success Drs. Copeland & Blair were having with cases similar to mine, and decided there was the place for me to go. I found their charges lower than the prices of patent medicine, and placed myself under their care.

"My progress was truly marvelous, and I cannot say enough in favor of their treatment. My head is now clear, and no longer aches me. The roaring in my ears, dropping in the throat and pains in my chest have all ceased to bother me. I sleep well and can eat a hearty breakfast. I am now feeling as well as I ever was, and owe this change to Drs. Copeland & Blair."

Mr. Raetz lives at No. 118 Spring Garden avenue, Allegheny. He is employed as a glass blower at the works of Messrs. J. T. & A. Hamilton, Twenty-sixth and Railroad streets, Pittsburg, and this statement can be easily verified.

HOME TREATMENT.

Mr. William Barnes, of Hickman, Pa., in speaking of his catarrhal trouble, said: My head was stopped up. My throat, chest and lungs affected, and I had lost all sense of taste and smell, when I was advised to try Drs. Copeland & Blair. The result was a surprise to me. I am now perfectly well, and owe my recovery to their treatment.

Some time ago Mr. Harry Phillips, of Hulton, Allegheny county, Pa., commenced a course of home treatment for his catarrhal trouble, under the care of Drs. Copeland & Blair.

At that time his trouble had assumed a very aggravated form. He stated to the writer as follows:

"My nostrils would clog up. My head ached constantly. I had severe pains in my chest. There was a dropping of mucus from my head to my throat. I had night sweats. My heart would palpitate rapidly, and be followed by a slow, irregular beating and feeling of faintness. I was daily growing weaker. The slightest exertion tired me and I was unfit for work."

"How do you feel now?"

"Like another being. All the symptoms I have described to you have disappeared, and I feel as well as I ever did in my life."

CORRECT FIT.

In the matter of Shoes, nothing is so important as a correct fit. Many dealers have a one-sided idea that a certain shape of shoe will fit everybody, because they think so; but no one style or shape of shoes will fit all the different shapes of feet. One person requires a broad, flat shoe, another needs one with an arched instep; another needs one with both these principles combined in one shoe. It is just here that the experienced shoe dealer, who understands the wants of the different shapes of feet, is the one you want to patronize and insure yourself ease, comfort and perfect footwear.

It is just these kinds of shoes we sell, and employ only experienced salesmen to fit the foot.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

March 11, 1890.

LADIES who would enjoy a stroll through a veritable flower garden of lovely new spring styles, should call at Kaufmanns' Cloak Deparment

When, in the face of sharp competition, a merchant succeeds in building up, within a few years, a larger trade than other houses enjoy as the result of a lifetime's endeavors, IT MEANS SOMETHING. That something may be better goods, handsomer styles or lower prices. In our case it is a combination of these three causes to which our truly phenomenal success in the Cloak Trade must be attributed.

Come in at present, for instance.

What do you see? A few new spring styles and a big lot of superannuated affairs?

Not much!

The truth is, ours is the only house in this city showing a brand new and complete stock of new spring garments.

Take Ladies' Suits and Dresses for an example This is the first season of our handling these goods. Couldn't very well show anything old then—could we? And yet, although we are entire novices in the Ladies' Suit and Dress business, we already have made a record for ourselves of which any old house might well be proud.

We commenced the business several weeks ago by introducing the now celebrated Ladies' Jersey Suits at $2.75 and $4. We have sold thousands of them since, and yet the demand steadily increases. In finer and finest dresses we are showing all the latest novelties of the season. Woolen Flannel Dresses at $3.50 and $4.50. Cashmere Dresses from $7 up. Heavy French Ottoman Silk Dresses proportionately low.

SPRING JACKETS, CAPES AND WRAPS.

See our great specialty: Fine Tailor-made Jackets, with high shoulder cap sleeves, Marie Antoinette and Marie Stuart collars, fine all-wool materials, at only $5. At this same price of $5, we have a beautiful variety of five-fold London Capes in exquisite light and dark materials. In Lace, Silk and Cloth Wraps, also Wraps for elderly Ladies, our new spring stock is marvelously large.

SPRING GARMENTS FOR MISSES AND CHILDREN.

Girls' beautiful White Lawn and Swiss Easter Dresses for Confirmation or First Communion. Girls' Reefer Jackets. Children's Spring Wraps, Cloaks and Coats. Infants' Undergarments and Bootees; Christening Slips, Gowns and Caps. A large stock of White and Colored Dresses.

ABOUT 150 MORE PLUSH SACQUES

Are still left from our recent half-price sale. We shan't pack them away. We'd rather close them out at one-third of their regular prices. Can you be induced to buy at any price?
