

KINCAID A CRIMINAL.

His Bullet at Last Ends the Life of Ex-Congressman Taubee.

PROSTRATED IN A PRISON CELL.

The Young Man May Not Survive to be Tried for His Deed.

SOME PERSONS BLAME THE DOCTORS.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Ex-Representative Taubee, of Kentucky, died at 5 o'clock this morning from the effects of the bullet fired into his face and neck a week ago by Judge Charles Kincaid, also of Kentucky, and correspondent of the Louisville Times. A very short time after the death of Taubee, a policeman, who had been shadowing Kincaid ever since he was released on bail, arrested the correspondent and lodged him in the station house.

It will be remembered that the matter which led to the shooting was the publication by Kincaid in his newspaper, of an account of a scandalous occurrence in the Patent Office. Taubee claimed that this publication resulted in the separation of his wife from him, and ever since that time, near two years ago, he has been persecuting Kincaid. On the day of the shooting Kincaid was in waiting at one of the entrances to the House of Representatives for a member to whom he had sent his card. Taubee made his appearance, and as the best authenticated story goes, said:

"Kincaid, I want to see you." "I am waiting to see a gentleman," replied Kincaid, with suggestive emphasis on the word "gentleman." Thereupon Taubee caught Kincaid by the ear, and whirled him about.

"Taubee, I am not able to cope with you, I am not armed," exclaimed Kincaid. "Then you had better be," he replied, and he pointed to Taubee, who then left the scene.

Kincaid possessed himself of a pistol, and met Taubee a short time after, on a stairway leading to the hall of Representatives. There is no clear account of what occurred here previous to the shooting. Sam DeWolfe, third party present, who was with Taubee descending the stairs, has hitherto refused to say one word of what he saw. Kincaid tells in a vague way that Taubee assaulted him, or that he thought that he was about to assault him.

SHOT WITHOUT WARNING.

Taubee soon after he was shot muttered that Kincaid had shot him without warning, but he has always been unable to make a formal ante-mortem statement. Many think that in his delicate physical condition Kincaid was hardly responsible for his action at the time of the shooting. Certainly he has been acting strangely ever since for a couple of years. Kincaid, who had shot and probably killed the man who had insulted and assaulted him, often weeping when speaking of the occurrence, and now in his cell he is a pitiable victim of nervous prostration, with dead staring eyes, and the face almost as surely as the specter appeared to Taubee who had a bullet in his head. Few think he will live to stand trial.

An autopsy will be held tomorrow to find the immediate cause of death. As in the case of Maurice Adler, the young man who was shot by Frank Ward, the noted dairyman, some months ago, surgeons not in attendance on the patient severely criticize those in attendance for not cutting at once for the bullet. In Adler's case the autopsy showed that the patient might possibly have been saved had the spinal process been at once relieved of the pressure of the bullet and splinters of the bone. Some loudly charged and surgeons seem to think that Taubee's is even a plainer case of mismanagement.

AN AGREEMENT VIOLATED.

The Bill Admitting Wyoming Suddenly Called Up in the House.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—In the House Mr. Baker, of New York, from the Committee on Territories, reported the bill for the admission of Wyoming. He asked for the immediate consideration of the bill, which, under the new rules, is a privileged measure. Mr. Springer, of Illinois, was pressed against this action. It had been agreed Tuesday in the Committee on Territories, that this bill should not be called up until the consideration of the Oklahoma bill was completed. He was taken completely by surprise, and had made no preparation for the immediate discussion of the Wyoming bill.

LIVELY IN THE SENATE.

One Senator Charged With Accusing Another of Murder by Implication—No Decision Reached in the Chamber of Deputies.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—In the Senate today Mr. Hear called up the resolution reported by him yesterday for the exclusion from the record of the sentences interpolated by Mr. Call in the report of his remarks in the discussion, with Mr. Chandler some weeks ago. Mr. George opposed the resolution as being (so far as his experience in the Senate went) without a precedent. While it did not expressly contain a censure, it was certainly capable of that interpretation.

In the course of his remarks upon the Chandler-Call controversy, Senator Edmunds used an expression which Senator Daniel, of Virginia, construed to impute the crime of murder to Senator Rustin, of Louisiana. Senator Daniel demanded that the words of the Senator from Mr. Edmunds be taken down. Mr. George went on to speak of the time when personalities in the Senate led to personal conflicts, but said that now there was no safer place in all God's creation for a man who desired to insult another with impunity than the American Senate. Everybody knew that. And it was no evidence of spirit, no evidence of courage, for a Senator to get up and use insulting language to another Senator. Nor was it an evidence of a want of spirit or of a want of courage that the Senator about whom such insulting personal language was used did not call the other Senator to a personal account. The duello was clearly out of the question now. Personal conflict on the street was equally out of the question.

After a further debate Mr. Call submitted some remarks in his own vindication, and quoted some of Mr. Chandler's expressions in the same debate, imputing to him the possibility of provoking homicide and of adding to "the silent voters of Florida," and assured the Senate that he had no idea of violating its rules. The vote was taken and resulted: Yeas 27, nays 11—no quorum. Among the affirmative votes were those of Messrs. Gray, Pugh, Turpie and Vance. Without disposing of the matter the Senate adjourned.

SOLDIERS AND THE CENSUS.

Superintendent Porter Desires the Assistance of the Regimental Associations.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Many of the thousands of regimental associations of surviving soldiers of the War of the Rebellion keep, as nearly as possible, correct records of their living comrades, and to that end they revise the lists at each recurring annual meeting of their organizations. The Superintendent of the Census is very desirous that the officers of these associations should forward to him at once the latest copies of the roster referred to, which he believes will be efficient aids in the preliminary work of the enumeration, in connection with the best authenticated story goes, said:
