MR. HAUGHEY'S SIDE.

His Story of the Baeder Glue Company's Troubles.

MONEY FOR BIG PAY ROLLS.

All Receipts Said to be Taken in at the New York Office.

MR. KERN'S VISIT TO SPRINGDALE

A new phase was given yesterday to the troubles of the W. A. Baeder Glue Company. Thus far the entire blame for the financial entanglement of the company has been laid upon Lou Haughey. Mr. H. R. Kern, the Philadelphia partner, said that he has discovered that Mr. Haughey borrowed startling sums of money in the name of the glue company, and that he has been totally unable to discover what Mr. Haughey did with the money. It appears that over $60,000 has been thus borrowed, and is still unpaid, and Mr. Haughey confesses that he cannot tell what he did with the money. Yesterday the new light was shed on the matter by a close friend to Lou Haughey, who has had many business transactions with him and is well acquainted with Mr. Haughey's affairs. This gentleman said:

BUSINESS DONE IN NEW YORK. "The pay roll of the W. A. Baeder Glue Company has been about $5,000 a month. The company has been in business for about two years. In that time the pay roll has amounted to at least $100,000. Now the settlements with the firm were all made in New York. The product was sold there, and all money was paid at the New York office. In all the time the Company has been in business I do not believe that over $5,000 in cash has been sent to Haughey from New York. I have known of only $2,500 being sent. Consequently, Mr. Haughey has been compelled to meet the pay rolls, and the sum required for that will account for all the required for that will account for all the money he has borrowed.

"Why can't he tell what he did with the money? The fact is, he has been careless in his methods. He kept no books himself, and his book keeper is inexperienced. I looked through his deek yesterday, and found it stuffed with cancelled drafts and paid notes which had not been entered in any account. I believe, however, that they are all legitimate. If he was given time he could straighten the whole thing out and account for every dollar. The trouble is that Haughey broke down. He is suffering from nervous prostration and is unable to do anything now. I think Mr. Kern has been too hasty. If Haughey were given a week he could fix up all his accounts.

HAUGHEY HAD A RIGHT. "Another thing. They claim that Haugher was unauthorized to sign notes or drafts for the company. He had a third interest, just the same that Baeder and Kern had. Kern has signed drafts for the company, What better right had he to do so than Haughey

The gentleman at this point went to his safe and brought out a draft, signed by a rubber stamp, "W. A. Baeder Glue Company," and below that, in ink, "H. R. Kern."

"The law is," he continued, "that unless publication was made, Haughey had a perfect right to sign for the partnership. No such publication was made. I see that Baeder and Kern have protected themselves in the confessions of judgment they made. Last Saturday Mr. Kern confessed judgment against the company for $56.425 in favor of his father, W. H. Kern, the president of the People's National Bank, of Philadelphia. On the same day Mr. Baeder confessed judgment for $27.435 in favor of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bentz. None of the judgments confessed by Mr. Haughey were designed to protect himself. Another thing: Mr. Kern's own bank in Philadelphia has honored drafts signed for the company by Lou Haughey. and brought out a draft, signed by a rubber

THE BANK INVESTIGATING. "Mr. Meyer, the president of the Real Estate Loan and Trust Company, of Allegheny, has been investigating the affair, and within two He said to-day that he would prefer the paper of Mr. Haughey to that of Mr. Kern." Mr. H. R. Kern yesterday visited the office of the company at Springdale, and spent several hours looking over the books. He said that he had not yet got to the bottom of the affair. He has retained Knox & Reed as his affair. He has retained Knox & Reed as his counsel, and they will contest the executions issued in Allegheny county. Mr. Kern flatly charges Mr. Haughey with criminal operations, and it is intimated that he will be placed under arrest to-day or to-morrow. Mr. Kern expresses great surprise at the manner in which President Meyer, of the Real Estate Loan and Trust Company, did business.

The property and leasehold of the Baeder Gine Company, at Springdale, on the West Penn Railroad, is advertised to be sold at Sheriff's sale, on Monday, on executions issued in favor of the following persons: Gregor Meyer, $19,466 53; Acme Tanning Company, $2,958 55; Spiegel & Co., $10,515 77; William Flaccus & Son and William Flaccus, trustee, $24,000; Emily L. Bentz and Emily L. Bentz rustee, $13,650; Emily L. Bentz and Emily L. Beatz, trustee, $13,650; Emily L. Bentz and Emily L. Beatz, trustee, $13,786 50; William H. Kern, $28,058 60. The last four executions are on judgments entered last four executions are on judgments entered in New York last Saturday, confessions of judgment having been made there by H. R. Kern, one of the New York partners. The total amount of these judgment is $143,00 28.

The Diamond National Bank yesterday filed a judgment for $1,163 79 against the Baeder Glue Company.

THERE IS TALK OF CHARGES.

A Member of the Board of Viewers Said to be in Danger.

Talk was rife in the City Hall yesterday afternoon about charges which might or would be brought against a member of the Board of Viewers. T. J. O'Leary, Jr., one of the members, said last night that he knew nothing of the subject, but would be glad to have his record investigated since his connection with the board by the courts or any other competent authority.

It seemed rather improbable he said, as the only way a member of the Board could act dishonestly was to assess benefits or allow dam-ages in favor of friends. But as this would re-quire the collusion of the whole Board, the scheme could not very well be carried through, as anyone would know who was acquainted with the members of the Board. He said there were delays in the work which were unavoidable, as the law did not allow the Board to rush business, as the people should be allowed sufficient time to prepare for any assessments

The delay in the work of the Viewers is understood by others to be the cause of the trouble as a contractor last week called the Board down for what he considered unnecessary delay in work waiten should be in the hands of the men before the time it came out of the Viewers' office.

It is understood that the report on the Diamond street widening report will be ready by Monday next, and that the Board is unanimously agreed on the Cecil alley and Wylie avenue matters also.

TO BE DONE IN SIX WEEKS.

The Stone Work on the Government Building Will be Quickly Completed. It was stated yesterday that the entire stone work on the Government building will be completed within six weeks, the Third avenue towers being now well under way. The work on the main tower may stretch out a little beyond the given time, but its completion will not interfere with the work upon the roof.

The Pennsylvania Construction Company is hustling the iron work. All of the material is now on the ground but the three heavy trusses.
Some heavy beams are being made by Carnegie Bres. & Co. to expedite matters. The company is aware that the rushing of the work depends upon the progress made in the iron work.

THUSE HUNGARIANS.

The Immigrants Falled to Arrive in This City as Expected. Watchers were at the Union depot all day yesterday and until late in the evening, looking for the large party of 600 Hungarians, reported from New York to be coming in this direction. It was supposed at the depot that the party was destined for Punxsutawney, and had left the Pennsylvania Railroad at Bellwood, going thence over the Bell's Gap Railroad. About 60 Hungarians arrived in this city yesterday afternoon, some 20 of them stopping in this A LOWER LEVEL.

Mr. Goodwin's Important Discovery Imparted to the Canal Commission-Crossing the Divide One Hundred Feet Below the Old Capal Altitude.

The State Canal Commission held its March meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of the Engineers' Society, in the Penn Building. All members were present. Colonel T. P. Roberts read a long report on the Allegheny river route. Those who propose this route suggest the use of the Allegheny to Franklin, and thence by French creek to Conneaut Lake, the summit level. Colonel Roberts read an exhaustive statemen concerning the Allegheny, its fall, its rapids and riffles, its volume of water and drainage secured through Colonel Merrill from Government surveys of former years. There are 23 rapids between Pittsburg and Franklin, and the Colonel gave an estimate on the number of dams that would be necessary. He gave no opinion as to the feasibility of this route.

Colonel Roberts and Mr. Goodwin reported on their visit to Harrisburg. They have ordered copies made of the State surveys and maps of the old Beaver canal.

Mr. Goodwin presented an important matter. He said that his examinations and investigations had satisfied him that there was a practicable line across the summit, running about six or seven miles west of the old canal line, which had an altitude from 80 to 100 feet lower than the old line. A part of it runs through the Conneaut marshes, now covered by six feet of Conneaut marshes, now covered by six feet of water. He hopes to begin the field work next week, if the weather will allow. No surveys will be necessary south of New Castle, as all that part of the route down the Beaver Valley that part of the route down the Beaver Valley is completely covered by surveys made by the State and by railroad companies, in recent years. The first field work done will be to establish the basis for Mr. Goodwin's belief that a much lower summit crossing can be located. The members of the commission regard this as a very importont point, as the chief criticisms directed against the project have been applied to the altitude of the summit. Eighty feet in the matter will be very important, not only for the saving of a number of locks, but for the increasing of the available water supply. water supply.

The next meeting of the commission will be held in this city on April 9. At that time it is expected that some definite work by the surveyors will be reported.

A FAKE OR A MYSTERY.

Welrd Story From Minersville About a

Buried Child. Yesterday morning a gentleman of known veracity while driving up Thirty-third street, below Minersville, was attracted by a large crowd in a field near the road, and went to investigate the cause of the gathering. He was told that a woman named Coulters, living nearby, had seen a man with a bundle under his arm climb over a fence in the rear of her nome about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. She hought nothing of it at the time, but after daylight she noticed that the tracks made by the man led to a spot in the field where the the man led to a spot in the field where the earth had been dug up. The appearance of the ground led her to believe that something had been buried. A crowd gathered and a policeman was sent for. The officer took a pick and began to dig, and had turned to view what appeared to be a baby's dress, when he suddenly decided that it was not his business to attend to such matters, and, throwing down the pick, he said he would go and report the case to the Coroner. The bystanders thought that if the officer dare not dig up the remains, or whatever might be buried, they had no right to do so, and thus the matter up the remains, or whatever might be buried, they had no right to do so, and thus the matter stood when our informant left the scene.

The story was heard late last night, but the Coroner said no such case had been reported to him. He will look it up this morning. Inquiry was made at all the police stations last night, but nothing had been reported about the case.

TO CONSOLIDATE THE ROADS.

The State Line and Wheeling-Wellsbu People to Ratify the Deal. Bowman, have organized the Yankee Girl Oil and Gas Company, with a capital stock of $5,000. The company has leased the Peterman farm of 13 acres. It is a half mile from the Ivory well, and adjoins the Heuks farm, and is directly on the oil belt. SWINDLED THE NUNS

The Benedictine Sisters Cheated Out of $1,400 by a Sharper.

OTHER CONVENTS ALSO VICTIMIZED A Chicago Man Sells Worthless Decoctions

for Artists' Oils. HE IS NOW OPERATING IN TORONTO

A rather sensational series of swindling operations, having Chicago as its headquarters and extending all over the country, has just been brought to light in this city. Its victims in every case so far as known are Catholic Conventual Schools, etc., several of which are Pittsburg institutions.

Last November, an individual neatly and cleanly dressed, and from all outward appearance a gentleman of refined tastes and education, called at the convent school of the Benedictine Sisters, on Canal street, Allegheny. He stated that he was the representative of an art goods firm in Chicago, who manufactured a number of specialties, which he not only sold but gave lessons in their handling. A contract was made by the sisters with him for a consideration of $900. The new ideas were contained in the method of painting and doing ornamental work on plush silk and hair goods. The man proved himself to be an adept.

Among his little tricks was one by which he offered to learn the sisters a new way of painting in combination with inlaid pearl work. The idea is not by any means new, but the "professor," as he was called, claimed that his method was an entirely original one. He was to learn them the method for the sum of $50.

DISCOVERED A SWINDLE. The process was gone through with, and the sisters found that an article had been the sisters found that an article had been palmed off on them that was not nearly as good as they were capable of making themselves. To add to their discomfort "the professor" insisted that they had a right to purchase the alleged painting from him, and they were prevailed upon to pay him $35 in addition. Taking all his charges of extras, materials, etc., while teaching, he received in all $1,400.

During the time he was teaching he expatiated on the merits of the art materials manufactured by his firm. The name of the concern was the Jarvis-Mitchell Art Goods Company, or some such title. Jarvis was the President. Mitchell occupied some other important office, and a string of other individuals who occupied greater or lesser positions of importance were greater or lesser positions of importance were named.

The sisters gave him a large order, which was to be filled as soon as possible. When his contract for teaching was finished he was lost sight of for a time, but returned to be present when the invoice of goods ordered by the Benedictine Sisters arrived. He then immediately presented his bill, which to the Sisters' astonishment amounted to something like $1,700. They refused to pay it until they had made an examination of the goods and made some other inquiries concerning them, as their suspicions were aroused.

THE ARTICLES WERE WORTHLESS The examination developed the fact that many of the articles sent were worthless. For some of them which could be purchased in the city for 5 cents, a charge of as high as a dollar was made. Bottles supposed to contain Russian, French and Roman medium oil for decorating purposes, really contained nothing but old greasy decoctions of not the slightest value. The same was the case of nearly everything realized.

The sisters immediately sent word to their counsel, Attorney Murphy, in Chicago, who put detectives to work. It was found that nearly all the compounds were manufactured in a little third-story room on State street in that city, and that the company so highly indorsed with titles was merely nothing more than "the professor.

In the meantime the man obtained an inkling had clearly proven the crookedness of the man's operations. The police, she said, have as yet been unable to locate him. The last heard of him was in London, Ont., from which place he is said to have departed a week or two since. During the past week she had received a number of letters from convents and schools in different portions of the country, detailing the rascal's operations at the different places.

THE JO BOATS MUST GO.

Mayor Pearson Orders the Arrest of All Occupants After To-Day.

Yesterday was the last day of grace for the shanty boat residents of the Allegheny wharf, and to-day the officers will attempt to evict them Some of them declare they will not leave, and will fight for their habitations and their squatter rights.

The ordinance requiring them to move, however, will be put into execution to-day, and Ordinance Officer Copeland will swear out warrants for the arrest of owners and occupants of the boats this morning by stayor Pearson's order. The Mayor said last night that he introduced the officer of the said last night that he introduced the officer of the said last night that he introduced the officer of the said last night that he introduced the officer of the said last night that he introduced the said la order. The Mayor said last night that he intended to enforce the ordinance.

Ed Rafferty, who has a joboat about midway between the Union and the Sixth street bridges, says he will give the officers a little seance if they attempt to evict him. He claims his house is his castle, even if it be a shanty-boat, and that the officers cannot make him leave. He has a Winehester and a brace of revolvers, and threatens to use them if he is disturbed. Mr. Rafferty would not tell what his business was, and said that did not concern anybody.

BIG WITH PROMISES.

Secretary Kimberland Favors the Chesapenke Canal Scheme.

Secretary Kimberland, of the Marion Improvement Company, of Marion county, W. Va., says their ten-inch test well is down 600 feet and is big with promises. The company has no stock to sell for either love or money. Mr. Kimberland is in favor of uniting the waters of the Chesapeake and Monougahela by waters of the Chesapeake and Monougabela by a canal. He was raised in West Virginia and knows the topography of the country. Hesaps the canal is not only feasible, but the materials necessary in its construction lie and stand all along the route, so that the cost of transporting would be nominal.

At the same time Mr. Kimberland does not want the canal project from Beaver to Lake Erie lost sight of, with its tens of millions of tons of freight now awaiting shipment each tons of freight now awaiting shipment each way. He says Ohio river navigation would be quite good with a dam at Beaver, and that there is no imperative need for any below that Mr. Carnegie Meets the Trustees to Discuss the Library Project - Mr. Scott Made Permanent Chairman-Sub-Committees Appointed and the Site Considered.

There has rarely been so much capital represented in Select Council Chamber as yesterday afternoon when Andrew Carnegie met the Library Trustees to discuss the met the Library Trustees to discuss the project and organize. The following were the gentlemen present: Messrs. James B. Scott, David McCargo, George A. Macbeth, John B. Jackson, Robert Pitcairn, Reuben Miller, J. F. Hudson, Dr. W. H. McKelvey, H. C. Frick, William N. Frew, Rev. W. J. Holland, E. M. Ferguson, Mayor McCallin, Councilmen George L. Holliday, H. P. Ford, A. F. Keating, John S. Lambie, R. B. Carnahan, Kirk Q. Bigham and Smith Shannon.

Upon Mr. Carnahan's suggestion the meeting was conducted in executive session and all but members of the Board of Directors excluded. Mr. Carnegie then called the board to order and made a short address, in which he alluded in complimentary terms to the personnel of the board and called attention to the inconsistency existing between the letters to Councils making the offer and the ordinance which was passed accepting it. He suggested that in case a vacancy should occur in the board from death or any other cause it should be filled in the case of a Councilman by the remaining members of Council, and if from the citizens appointed by himself, those who were left should have the elective or appointive power. As the ordinance stands such power is vested in the whole Board of Trustees.

To this Mr. Lambie replied that Councils were perfectly willing to conform to Mr. Carnegie's wishes in the matter, and immediate steps would be taken to adjust the differences.

The election of permanent officers was next in order, and James B. Scott was elected Chairman; W. N. Frew, Secretary, and H. C. Frick, Treasurer, by a unanimous vote. J. B. Scott then assumed the chair, and the following committees were appointed. project and organize. The following were

The question of determining a site was relegated to the judgment of the Executive Committee, with the understanding that no deals should be made or ground obtained unless by vote of the full Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors then adjourned to the Councilmanic reception room and sat upon a city map much as a Coroner's jury would sit upon a victim of accident, dissecting it carefully. There were many suggestions, but the gross weight of opinion, backed by Mr. Carnegie, showed that at present, at least, the East End had the call as the future center of population.

In support of this Ray, W. J. Holland said least End had the call as the future center of population.

In support of this Rev. W. J. Holland said we were not building for 20 years hence, but probably for 200 years to come, and that had to be taken into consideration. To this Mr. Carnegie replied that before that time we would have mansions without his co-operation. J. F. Hudson spoke in favor of the Bedford avenue basin, as it could be seen from all sides. The ground could be obtained from the city, and the position was one of the most conveniently placed for travel. This idea was received with favor by several of the practical men present, A. F. Keating saying that he thought the site one of the best that could be chosen.

James B. Scott thought that the centers of population were the places to be looked to, and said at least five branch libraries would be established, two on the Southside, Birmingham and Temperanceville; one at Frankstown, one at Lawrenceville, and whether the main building or the branch one went to East Laberty he at Lawrenceville, and whether the main building or the branch one went to East Laberty he could not say nor would he predicate.

Mr. Carnegie said he was particularly pleased to see that such interest was taken in the matter as evinced by the different views entertained by the directors. This he regarded as a good sign and expected as in his firm discussions with his partners that a conclusion would be reached for the best interests of all, as a thorough discussion would bring out the points in favor of the various localities to such an extent that the right plan would eventually be chosen.

NEW BRIDGE PLANS

An Asphalt Pavement Structure Across the Allegheny River.

THE FINEST CROSSING IN AMERICA It Will be a Continuation of the Streets it Connects.

THE LATTER'S GRADE TO BE CHANGED

Messrs. George Shiras, John Harper, Jr. and John B. Jackson, composing the bridge committee, appointed at the last meeting of the directors of the Sixth Street Bridge Company, received yesterday a unique plan for the new bridge over the Allegheny river. It is now assured that a magnificent structure will replace the present relic of a past era in bridge building.

The possibility of a new bridge has been frequently mooted in these columns, and the certainty that the bridge company directors intend to keep abreast of the times in providing the main artery of traffic between the sister cities with the finest bridge in the United States will be agreeable news to the public. Prior to the recent annual meeting of the stockholders there was talk of deferring the erection of a new bridge for another year but the sentiment in favor of improvement was so strong that the above commit was appointed and instructed to ask for planfrom men of recognized experience.

MANY NOVEL FEATURES. The plan submitted yesterday was received with great favor, and has many novel features to commend it to the public. A meeting of the committee will be held shortly, and it is con-sidered certain that it will be accepted. From an interested party the following description of the general features of the plan was secured: The bridge will be of the same width as Sixth and Federal streets, and will be a practical continuation of the roadway. The structure will be of the strongest possible character and its designer assures the committee that it will be so solid that a railway train at full speed could pass over it without a jar or tremor. There will be three spans with two piers, this necessitating the removal of the present piers. Im-mense arches will spring from each pier, and it may be possible to secure a slight elevation over the present bridge. The method of con truction will cause but a temporary suspension of traffic, an item of much importance when the large receipts of the company are considered. There will not be a particle of wood-work about the bridge.

PAVED WITH ASPHALT. The entire width of the structure will be paved with asphalt block, laid upon from plates of great thickness. There will be four tracks, two for fast and two for slow travel. The footways will be much wider than at present, and the absolute durability of the work will receive careful consideration. The requirements for rapid transit are fully met in every respect. The general feeling among the stockholders is that it is time that the future growth of the two cities be met in a thorough and progressive manner.

In consideration of the fact that the plan submitted comprehends two stately stone portals, one at either end of the bridge, forming the entrances from the respective streets, the Councils of both cities will be asked to make the appreaches of the bridge conform to the appearances of things. Allegheny Councils will be asked to raise Federal street to a mean level based on the Fort Wayne tracks, and the north portal of the bridge with repaying of course included. Federal street would then be the finest street in Allegheny. On the Pittsburg side not so much is necessary in the way of improvement, but the bridge directors feel that the cities ought to show a substantial appreciation of so imposing a bridge as that now projected. It is recognized that in adopting the plan of a new bridge of a character in keeping with the future of the two cities, the chances for a parallel bridge for rapid transit or any other purposes are rendered very nebulous.

Work will be commenced this morning on travel. The footways will be much wider than nebulous.

Work will be commenced this morning of the sketch plans of the structure. The designer withholds his name, it is understood pending the further canvassing of the situa

An Editorial Puff. From the Lewis, Iowa, Independent]. We have advertised a great many differ ent patent medicines, but have never taken the pains to editorially "puff" one. We are going to do so now for the first time. Chamberlain & Co., Des Moines, Iowa, manufacture a cough remedy which is absolutely the best thing we have ever seen. We have used it in our family for the past year, and consider it indispensable. Its effects are almost instantaneous, and there is no use talking, it is a dead shot on a cough or a cold. We don't say this for pay, but be cause we consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best made, and we want the

A MINIATURE FAC-SIMILE Of the Simplest Life Insurance Policy

Issued. The Equitable Society issues an exact re-production, on a small scale, of one of its new free tontine policies. Aside from its use in showing the simplicity and liberality of the society's latest contract of insurance, this miniature policy is quite a curiosity, and an interesting example of the perfection to which the art of the engraver and printer has been carried. It is printed in red and black, and is complete in every respect, including a miniature of the exquisite en-graved heading of the original policy, and -similes of the signatures of the president and secretary. Any one who would like one of these little policies, will be sent one upon applica-tion to Edward A. Woods, Manager, 516 Market street, Pittsburg, Pa., and by sending your age, an illustration of the results of such a policy on the basis of your present age will also be sent.

AN ILLEGAL STRIKE.

The Pinsterers of Chicago Will Not be Supported by the International Associatio -The Miners' Convention Closed-A New Glass Factory-General Labor News. Robert S. Tenary, of Allegheny, Presipent of the Operative Plasterers' International Association, returned yesterday from Chicago, where he had been endeavor ing to settle the strike in that city. He declared the strike illegal and tried to have it straightened out, but he left matters in confusion, and the strike is not likely to be settled for some time. The cause of the trouble, as given by President Tenary, is as follows: The association had granted an increase of 50 cents in wages all over the country. The wages were $3 00 per day, when the advance was granted, but by some when the advance was granted, but by some special arrangement the plasterers of Chicago had been allowed 50 cents per day extra, above the card rate. When the advance of 50 cents was allowed, making the wages all around $3 50 per day, the Chicago people wanted their extra 50 cents continued. That would have made their wages $4 00 per day.

This was objected to, and a meeting was called. It was decided by a small majority not to grant the special advance to Chicago. The people who were in favor of the advance were greatly dissatisfied at the action of the meeting and very cleverly called a special meeting, and it is said secured the attendance of a sufficient number of their friends to reconsider and reverse the action of the former meeting.

The strike followed; but President Tenary says the men went out in a very irregular and illegal manner. They failed to notify the employers. They endeavored to get the Detroit plasterers out also. The latter people, however, will not strike. The strike is still on, but President Tenary says it will not be supported by the association. Felly 500 places are height filled in dent Tenary says it will not be supported by the association. Fully 500 places are being filled in Chicago by non-union men.

A LITTLE GIRL GORED.

Mad Cow Knocked Her Over and Inflicted Ugly Wounds. Florence Swason, the 3-year-old daughter of Benjamin Swason, a shoemaker living at No. 285 Webster avenue, was gored and severely injured by a cow yesterday afternoon. About 2:30 o'clock two boys were driving a cow and a calf belonging to August Fougen, a resident of the Thirteenth ward, along Webster avenue. The Swason child and a boy front of their homes when the cow made a dash at them, attracted, it is said, by a red dress worn by the girl. They ran onto the sidewalk, but the cow followed them. The O'Brien boy was knocked down, but escaped unburt and the was knocked down, but escaped unhurt and the cow next struck the little girl. Its horn struck her under the left ear, tearing open her neck and cheek and throwing her several feet. The cow was driven off before further mischief was done and the children picked up. Dr. Murdoch was summoned and dressed the girl's wound. He pronounced the linjury dangerous. Mr. Swason, it was stated, made a formal demand on Mr. Fougen for damages. Fougen refused to agree to pay anything and Swason, it was said, announced his intention of prosecuting him to-day for damages and for violating the ordinance regulating the driving of cattle through the streets.

An Advertisement. In another column of the Dispatch is published an item headed "strong language." It is an advertisement, but is worth reading. Chamberlain's cough remedy, of which it speaks, has become very popular in Pittsburg and vicinity. The advertising in the Dispatch has produced a demand for it, and those who bought it were so much pleased with the results that they recommended it to others. Messrs. F. H. Eggers & Son, Druggists of Allegheny City, say that two-thirds of their sales of this remedy are now to persons of this class, and they sell twice as much of it as of any other one medicine they handle.
