tickets is waging. Look out for No. 10. On Monday evening last, Colonels C. V. Lewis and Staff visited Pittsburg Legion No. 1, and spent a very pleasant evening, and on Tuesday evening, accompanied by Grand Vice Com-mander Kinker, and delegations from several of the legions of Pittsburg and Allegheny, they paid a visit to Humbeldt Legion No. 17. Hum-boldt knew how to do it, and after the meeting the visitors were invited to a neighboring hos-itery, where a splendid repast was in waiting. To say that the boys enjoyed it would be put-ting it mildly. The Colonel intends to visit all the legions in the first regiment. March 24 he will visit No. 27, Mount Washington.

Esthetic Boston is yet to be heard from. The principals of the Pittsburg schools met yesterday to discuss a resolution brought up at a former meeting that purils of the primary and grammar grades be promoted on class rec-ord and not by the test of a final examination. Prof. S. A. Andrews presided, and H. W. Fisher was scoretary. The trend of the discus-sion was that if examination be abolished as the means of determining the fitness of a pupil in the ward schools, the same rule ought to apply for admission to the High school. Superintendent Luckey hoped the time would come when there would be no examination for High School, but the way is not clear yet. Prof. Woods, of the High School, was present and said he hoped the day would come when final examination would be abolished, that we're drifting that way. The resolution was adopted by 13 in favor and 5 against. The res-olution has no binding effect, but shows the views of the principals. It was learned yesterday that the three old buildings, Nos. 416, 418 and 420, corner Grant and Fourth avenue, belonging to the Wilkins estate, are to be torn down to make room for a fine seven or eight-story structure for business and offices. This and the Dalzell building, immediately opposite, will attract attention to a long neglected part of the city. A deal is cooking for about 40 lots fronting on the Braddock road, just beyond Wilkinsburg. If sold, they will be built on the coming summer. The property sold by Samuel W. he, in telling the story. "I was born and brought up over there, and know most of the old citizens and many of the new ones. Here and there I saw groups of people on the street corners evidently discussing something of un-usual interest to them. Approaching one of these groups, 1 asked a man what was up. He replied by asking me if 1 had seen THE DIS-PATCH. This cleared up the mystery at once. They had read the account of the formation of a syndicate to buy up Ohio street property and were swapping opinions about it. Tenants looked rather blue, and expressed fears that the result would be an advance in rents, which they declared they couldn't pay. Owners, however, were cheerful. They wanted to know all about the syndicate, who composed it, the amount of capital, etc. I gave them all the information I could, which was very little, What struck me as remarkable was the moderation of their views. Not the slightest symptom of a boom could be discovered. They hoped the syndicate would push things, as something of the kind was needed to stir up the city. Before I left I had offers of almost half of Madison Square at $500 to $700 a foot front." It was rumored yesterday that Captain J. J. andegrift had resumed negotiations for the purchase of the Fitzsimmons property on Fourth avenue, but his agents denied that there was any truth in it, saying the property was out of the market at anything under $100,-000, or almost $4,000 a foot front. GLEANED FROM THE BANKS.

Comfortable Money Market, With Large Gains Over Last Year.

The local financial situation was comfortable and encouraging yesterday. Checking showed an improvement over the previous day, and depositing was brisk. There was a fair business demand for discounts and plenty of cash to supply it. Disagreeable weather was the only thing complained of.

Bank clearings for the week were nearly $2,-500,000 greater than those for the same time last year. If business was good then, as was claimed at the time, and with no small degree of pride, it must be better now. The gain can be explained no other way. Signs of an active spring trade are multiplying, and preparations for it are well under way. The Clearing House report for the day and week, as prepared by Manager Chaplin, is ap-pended: Vesterierts 500,000 greater than those for the same time past two or three days, having become some-what uneasy on account of the cold weather and numerous reports received of damage to growing crop from various winter wheat sec-tions. Advices from Kentucky report the ground full of water and freezing weather in that vicinity. Kausas and Missourn reported cold weather. A letter from Michigan was re-ceived from reliable sources claiming wheat looking bad and that millers in some sections had difficulty in getting all the wheat they wanted to grind. Weather Bureau predicted cold weather for to-day, followed by rising temperature Sunday. Cable advices noted firmer feeling. Corn was fairly active within narrow limits, the market ruling somewhat stronger. The firmer tone was due as much as anything to the rather free purchases of May by a large shipping house, though the advance in wheat had some influence. The market opened at ½c better than the closing prices of yesterday, was firm, and advanced a triffe, changed but little, and closed a shade better than yesterday. That prices remain strong with so little doing would convince investors of the futility of holding out for more favorable terms.

There was fairly active trade, but the feeling was unsettled and nervous, and prices fluctu-tated considerably. Buying to fill orders caused an advance of 557% cat the opening, but some pressure to sell caused a weaker feeling, and prices rallied 155700c, but settled back again 75600c, and closed rather easy. Lard-A fair tuniness was transacted early in the day; the feeling was easy, and prices gradually declined There were no surprises during the week. Oil moved on a higher level yesterday, and trading was brisk for the short time it lasted. The best price was reached about 11 o'clock, and the lowest just before the close. Two c three good-sized blocks were absorbed by the local crowd. The financial support came from Griffith on the William Whitesell farm, a mile or two southwest of Wildwood, on the Pitts-burg and Western Railroad, in Allegheny i county, took a surprising turn yesterday, spray-ing oil quite heavily and giving every indica-tion of developing into a big oil gusher. Instead of being the biggest gas well ever struck in Allegheny county, it will not be at all surpris-ing to see this strike result in the biggest oil gusher ever struck in this county. The Intest Chartiers Valley wells are nearly all good ones. Several others are about due. Dry wells are scree in that field. of the Coal Trade-Vanderbilt Stocks Going Up-Little Outside Inquiry for Stocks, but a Generally

Hopeful Feeling. NEW YORK, March 15.-The general market to-day has been steady and dull, with a notable absence of outside inquiry for stocks. The sentiment at large is ballish rather than bearish, but it does not manifest itself in any im portant buying. While such shares as Atchison, the Grangers, Louisville and Nashville and Missouri Pacific were practically unchanged, a good rise took place in the Vanderbilts. Lake Shore, New York Central and Michigan Central are closely held for investment, and a little Manhattan Elevated was a feature among the specialties, and it rose 1½ per cent on lim-ited business. Reading was strong throughout and the pros-pect is that it will go still higher on Monday. The worst feature is the deadly apathy of professionals and outsiders. The Post says: The encouraging report of the New York Central earuings for the first quarter of the year was accepted as indicative of the business of all the trunk lines to the At-lantic seaboard, and had an apparent effect in the increased trading in and higher prices for all the Vanderbill stock. The advance of this week was therefore well maintained, and leaves all the increased trading in and higher prices for all the Vanderbilt stock. The advance of this week was therefore well maintained, and leaves Reading, New York Central, Michigan Central, Lake Shore, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, St. Paul, Rock Island, Burlington and Manhattan all from 13/4022/ points higher than a week ago and from 42/9 points higher than the lowest prices for this year, made from February 21 to 27. The general expectation was that the bank statement would be a decided improvement over last week. When it was announced it showed an increase of $339,450 in the surplus reserve, concurrent with an increase of $761,400 in the legal tender and specie, and a decrease of $1,548,000 in the loans, without much change in the other items. This was guite as favorable a statement as could reasonably be expected, considering that the collections of customs and revenue by the New York sub-Treasury were $3,343,000 for the week, and the total collections at all the United States Treasuries for the same period were $9,135,200, as reported from Washington, the bond purchases to the extent of $3,274,050 for the week, have therefore only about offset the Treasury collections at New York alone.
