year. Judge Ewing severely criticized the man who took Mr. Kanna's name.

A MATTER OF ACCOMMODATION.

Robert Lewis applied for a permit to hang up in the house at the corner of Webster and Crawford streets. He had one in 1888, but Judge Ewing said: "There is no earthly use for a saloon there."

John Barbara Mangis applied for the somewhat well-known place at the corner of Fifth and Center avenues. She was asked by Judge Ewing: "What did you do with your old stock of liquor?"

"Put in the cellar. There is very little of it," "You mean there is very little of it left now?" This the judge did not answer. She averred that she had not sold liquor during the past year.

JOHNSON ON THE CONCERTS.

He Says the Exposition Managers Have Not Given Up the Idea—The Scotch-Irish Congress Will Settle the Question of a Hall.

Manager H. M. Johnson, of the Exposition Society, was a passenger to New York last evening, whether he was bound upon the project, and it seems a pity that he should be given at the Point next fall.

He was pitted with several questions as to the feasibility of summer concerts and the attitude of the Exposition managers upon the matter as agitated in THE DISPATCH very recently. Mr. Johnson said: "The Board of Managers has by no means given up the project, and it seems a pity that the decided action cannot be taken."

The transformation of Mechanical Hall into an auditorium, which has been undertaken by the Scotch-Irish Congress and the International Brotherhood of Music, should very materially simplify the question. The hall will be adjusted to concert uses without any cost to the Exposition Society. It will be remembered that the International Brotherhood of Music proposed for concert purposes was considered in a way that a dramatic play originally proposed. But here would be an adequate hall ready at hand.

The Exposition Society is in just this position: The contract for a musical attraction of great value to the city has been made. It is absolutely essential that a positive guarantee be given for the contract, which would amount to a guarantee to the Scotch-Irish Congress. The board of managers could hardly be expected to turn aside from a course already mapped out. We have been expecting to see a plan to execute a contract, but Mr. Carnegie has his own method of expending his money, and he is not inclined to give up the amount of money he has already expended.

There are no real difficulties here, however, and it would be a grand thing if some one would come forward and guarantee the amount required to do some thing to divide the amount between them without feeling it, and might not be called upon to guarantee a cent. In this way the public would be kept ahead, and the public would be kept ahead, and the public would be kept ahead.

Harry J. Mellon, No. 450 Fifth avenue, at the corner of Marion, was told by Judge Ewing that he could not keep a music restaurant than any in his neighborhood. He desires to sell at No. 281 Fifth avenue, near the Pittsburgh Traction Company's power house. For four years he has been a bookkeeper for Austin Brown, who the wholesale liquor dealer. Mr. McCaffrey said it would be a good idea to sell at No. 281 Fifth avenue, near the Pittsburgh Traction Company's power house.

SMITH IS RESPITED.

The Pardon Board Will Postpone His Execution.

HE RECEIVES THE NEWS.

Attorney Moore's Graphic Presentation of the Negro's Case.

A FULL EXAMINATION TO BE MADE.

The case of Smith, the condemned murderer, at present under sentence in the Allegheny County Jail, was considered by the Pardon Board yesterday. W. D. Moore represented the case of the defendant. He said he was unexpectedly and unwillingly in the case. Thomas M. Marshall having requested him to represent the prisoner.

In describing Smith's position, he said becoming infatuated with a bad woman was like a mouse in the paws of a designing feline. Smith was madly attached to his wife and for a while his insane love for her led him to condone her repeated offenses. Finally his affection and her wrongdoings produced a tempest in his mind which led to a determination to kill his wife and himself.

HE WAS NOT RESPONSIBLE. When he formed the purpose, and when he fired the fatal shot, he had not the responsibility which should be sent a murderer to the gallows. Judge White was censured for his charge, which Mr. Moore said, was not a proper one. The defendant will stand to the power of the jury to judge of the meaning of the law, and caused a verdict of murder in the first degree to be returned.

Wm. McElroy presented the facts of the murder to the board, sketch of the trial and read the letters asking for clemency. The board was asked to grant a reprieve for 30 days, which the Governor will grant in order that a full and complete investigation be made into his case.

HOW HE RECEIVED THE NEWS. Convict Smith received the news of the pardon in his cell yesterday with the same jubilation as if he were a free man. He was so glad that he had been pardoned that he was almost overcome by emotion.

A KENTUCKY OIL BOOM.

The Southern Field Proves a Big Surprise to the Operators.

SAID TO BE SUPERIOR TO HOME OIL.

Thousands of Acres Leased and Wells Drilled by the Score.

PITTSBURGH SUPPLYING MATERIAL.

Isaac Richey, representing a number of Pittsburgh capitalists who have 5,000 acres of land leased in the new Kentucky oil field, returned to the city yesterday, after a several weeks' stay in Kentucky. He brought several samples of the oil with him, which he pronounced to be of an excellent quality.

A great deal of excitement prevails among the citizens of Barren county over the valuable discovery. Everybody talks oil by day and dreams about it at night. Mr. Richey brought samples of the oil product in its crude state as well as samples of it after being refined. He is enthusiastic, and thinks Southern Kentucky will exceed the oil fields of Pennsylvania both in the amount and quality of her oil in a few years.

SUDDENLY STRUCK THE GREASE. THE DISPATCH has contained several favorable reports of the oil discovery in the development of the Barren county field. There had been a well successfully operated in the field, and the operators had been drilling within the last few years did not amount to much, and many people had about given up the idea of striking oil in the field. Recently it has been discovered that oil can be secured in sufficient quantities to supply the entire demand of the state.
