. THE STING OF THE ADDER.

A Question as to Whether the Bites Are Necessarily Fatal.

The question as to whether adder bites are or are not necessarily fatal is one over which doctors and scientific people have long differed. While on one hand it is dogmatically averred that the bite of these reptiles is in all cases attended with fatal nsequences, instances are given on the other of complete and in some cases speedy recovery from the poisoning.
In the current number of Hardwicke's They were William Misner, a laborer,

MORE SMALL HOUSES A Local Syndicate Almost Ready to

Fairmount Avenue to be Ornamented With Fourteen Fine Dwellings.

It was stated in THE DISPATCH a short time ago that a syndicate of local capitalists had been formed for the purpose of building a large number of small houses. Additional information was obtained yesterday. The scheme is making satisfactory progress The syndicate is headed by the President of one of the street railway companies, and the other members are all prominent in business. The capital is $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each. Of this amount $80,000

Young men just starting out in business for themselves should bear in mind that perseverance is the only certain road to success. Said one of the oldest bank officers in the city yesterday: "When I see men changing from one thing to another I at once conclude that they will never set the world on fire. They may succeed, but the chances are largely against them. There is no sentiment in business. It cannot be coaxed or bribed. It is governed by immutable law. Hard, persevering work counts for everything. Let me relate a little of my own experience. When I started this bank I met with many discouragements. For days together I didn't receive a dollar on deposit. Discounting was equally slow. The first loan I made was of $75. I persevered, however, and finally succeeded in establishing about as large a banking business as there is in the city. If I had given up the struggle I would probably be working on a salary to-day. I felt that it was

An offer of about $3,000 a foot front, or $70,000, was made for a business property on one of the principal downtown streets. The owner responded by saying he would not take $100,000 for it—it was not in the market. He owns a large amount of property, much of which was purchased several years ago at very low figures. He thinks it a good investment, and proposes to hold on to it. There is no objection to this-it is legitimate and business. like. But other owners who are disposed to

STOCKS PARALYZED. Six Months' Record for Duliness Broken-Sugar the Only Feature, But Some

Fairly Strong Spots-The Money Rusubac. NEW YORK, March 22.-The duliness in the stock market, which has been such a feature for the past week, was still more pronounced to-day and the transactions were the smallest for the morning hours for more than six

The strong tone of yesterday remained, however, as the impression that the bank statement was to be a good one was most universal and the selling was very cautious, while covering of shorts was indulged in to a marked extent, considering the limitations of the market. The general list remained within the narrowest limits, and the stocks among the usually active list which fluctuated over a range of more than & per cent could be counted upon the fingers of one hand. Sugar was again a feature for one half the Sugar was again a feature for one half the session, but the traders sold it on the theory that the dividend news having come out the stock would be a sale. Tennessee Coal was the strong feature, rising to 57, against 54%, but it reacted late in the last hour to 58. Hocking Coal and Iron sympathized with it and scored a net rise of 1½ per cent, closing at 21. In the railroad list the Flint and Pere Marquette stocks were specially strong and the common at 34% is up 1¾ and the preferred at 100% is up 2½ per cent. Among the other specialties which showed considerable strength. specialties which showed considerable strength, the Wheeling and Lake Erie shares and Louisville, New Albany and Chicago were promi nent. The other movements were entirely without significance. The market closed dull nent. The other movements were entirely without significance. The market closed dull and strong at the best prices.

Railroad bonds showed the same dullness and steadiness which has marked the declines throughout the week, and on a very limited business only slight changes were recorded.

The Post says: Almost the only active stock that is not lower than last week is Union Pacific, though there are larger declines on a few of the specialties, such as Oregon Short Line and Louisville, New Albany and Chicago, which are respectively two and eight points lower. Everything seemed to indicate during the week that the apprehensions of tight money were the chief obstacle to a further advance in prices of stocks. And yer, when the bank statement was announced, it did not have the immediate expected effect on the stock market, for in the 20 minutes before the close of business prices fell off ½ to % for the majority of the active stocks.

The fact that the early prices in London were lower than the closing prices here last night may have had some effect to induce selling here for the time being. But all things considered, the entire situation, both as regards the prospects of the railroads for good carnings, and also as regards the money market, have improved so much that it can scarcely fall to have

Next to these came Sugar Trust and Tennessee Coal and Iron. Lead Trust was slow, possibly on account of Senator Sherman's trust bill, and Sugar hesitated to go up with a 2½ per cent quarterly dividend pending, because the public distrust the whole outfit on account of the trust legislation and litigation, and further because of the proposed reduction of duties on sugar. sngar.

The market was very stubborn and strong, but no one seems to be willing to venture in or to try to get out. Bulls are confident of higher prices next week and are gratified at the bank statement, which showed a gain in reserves of about $2,500,000. There was a fractional reaction after its appearance, and the market closed with firmness and duliness as its only characteristics.
