Sherman's Anti-Trust Bill Radically Amended in the Senate.

REAGAN'S PROVISIONS ADOPTED.

A Final Vote on the Subject May be Reached Some Time To-Day.

FEATURES OF THE LIVELY DEBATE

Washington, March 25.—In the Senate to-day the principal subject under discussion was the anti-trust bill. Senator George moved that the bill and amendments be referred to the Judiciary Committee. Mr. Morgan moved, as an amendment, that the Judiciary Committee be instructed to report back within 20 days. Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, Judge Thomas M Cooley Chairman of the Judge Tho back within 20 days. Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, declared himself in favor of legislation on the subject of trusts; and he desired to reach a result at the earliest practicable moment. Mr. Sherman opposed reference to the Ju-diciary Committee. He asked that the bill should be voted on now. Then, if the Sen-ate passed it, there would be a bill which, while it might not be perfect, would be a tangible proposition that could be sent to the House for consideration. In that way the controversy about trusts and combinations would be dismissed from the Senate for CONGRESS NOT VERY RAPID. Congress had now been in session nearly four months, and had not dealt with any of the great questions awaiting consideration and action. If the pension bill was to be sent to another committee, and then to come back again and to be debated for three or four days more, what was to become of the tariff, the silver question legislation and other important matters? He thought it much better to dispose of the bill at once, to vote upon it before Senators went to dinner to-day and to end it.

Mr. Platt spoke of the bill as a sham and sent to another committee, and then to come back again and to be debated for three or

Mr. Platt spoke of the bill as a sham and a delusion, and a nothing more or less than a humbugging of the people. Mr. Morgan said the protective tariff was the great nursery and breeding ground of monopolies, trusts, combinations and conspiracies. He characterized the bill as a tub to the

THE SENATORIAL MORGUE.

Mr. Vance made a humorous speech against the reference of the bill to the Judi-ciary Committee, which he regarded as the grand mausoleum of Senatorial bantlings. If the bill was referred and ever came back to the Senate, it would be so mutilated that it would not be worth the paper on which it would be written. The country knew, by this time, the receptacle where the Senate deposited its dead and there was no longer any hope of concealing it.

The discussion having come to a close, the question was taken on Mr. George's motion question was taken on Mr. George's motion to refer the bill to the Judiciary Committee. The motion was rejected: Yeas, 15; nays, 28.

The question was then taken on Mr. Resgan's amendment (adding to the bill his auti-trust bill, as sections 3, 4 and 5), and it was agreed to: Yeas, 34; nays, 12.

Mr. Reagan's amendment provides: All persons engaged in the creating of any trust, in any capacity employed in any business carried on with any foreign country, or be-tween any of the States or Territories of the Union using its powers for either of the follow-Union using its powers for either of the following purposes, shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine of not more than $10,000, or imprisonment not exceeding five years or both, viz.: To create or carry out any restrictions in trade; to limit production or to increase or reduce the price of merchandise or commodities; to

PREVENT COMPETITION in merchandise, produce or comodities; to fix a standard of figure whereby the price of any article, commodity, merchandise or produce

George:
Provided that this act shall not be construed to apply to any arrangement, agreement or combination between laborers, made with a view to lessening the number of hours of their labor, or of increasing their wages; nor to any arrangement, agreement, association or combination among persons engaged in horticulture or personstern, made with a view of appropriate the made with a view of appropriate construction. or agriculture, made with a view of enhancing the price of their own agricultural or horticulcluded the wool men of Ohio.

"Yes," said Mr. Sherman, "I think it would include their own wool." And the answer raised a laugh. The amendment was agreed to. Mr. Hoar moved to strike out of the first section the words "of different States, or between two or more citizens or corporations, or both, of the United States and foreign States, or citizens or corporations thereof," and it was

The question was then taken on Mr. Ingalls' smeadment (aiming at dealings in "futures" and "options") and it was agreed to without division. A number of minor amendments were offered, pending which the Senate adjourned till to-morrow, Mr. Sherman giving notice that he would ask a vote on the passing of the bill after the morning business to-morrow.

A BINDING CONTRACT.

A Divorced Wife Obliged to Contribute $1.800 Per Year to the Support of a Former Husband-A Peculinr State of Affairs.

PERCIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. Boston, March 25 .- A mighty interesting state of affairs was brought to light in a suit before Judge Charles Allen, of the Supreme Court, to-day. A divorced wife, who has since married, sought to be relieved from the support of her former husband. but Judge Allen ruled that a contract which she had made was binding, and she must continue to give the man from whom she is divorced $1,800 a year. Miss Jennie Phillips, daughter of the late Eben Phillips, of Swampscott, in 1882 was about 20 years old and possessed of a fortune of $400,000, which she inherited from her parents. In that year she married against the wishes of her brother, William H. Culliton, of Salem, and soon after her troubles began.

During the early months of her married life she nad transferred to her husband about $100,000 worth of stock and bonds but one day, after a visit the her brother in Swampscott, she made up her mind that she wanted the property back again. Mr. Culliton refused to give it up and a bill in equity was brought to force him to do so on the ground that it was obtained by coercion and fraud. Counsel appeared for the parties, who were not living together as hus-band and wife, and it was finally agreed that in consideration of the husband giving back the property he should have $20,000 in cash, and a trust deed should be executed by which $60,000 would be put in the hands of trustees to secure to the husband an annual income of $1,800 for life. The deed was executed, the money paid over and Mrs. Culliton, who procured a di-verce, married Horace Chase, a well-known physician of this city. Mrs. Chase paid the money to her former husband several years ago, then she grew sick of her bargain and sought counsel, who appeared in the Su-preme Court and asked that it be set aside on the ground that it was obtained by coercion and fraud. Judge Alien decided that the deed was legally procured, and that the money must continue to be paid to Mr. Cul-liten. It is understood that Mrs. Chase will appeal to the full bench.

Governor Hill, of New York, has sent a message to the Legislature recommending that both Houses pass a concurrent resolution asking the Court of Appeals to give an opinion as to the constitutionality of the Saxton reform bill. The Governor states that he cannot sign the bill in its present shape, as he has a deep-seated conviction that certain of its provisions are in violation of the State Constitution. He says that he has no mere pride of opinion in this matter, and will cheerfully acquiesce when convinced that his views are unsound.

My disease (psoriasia) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost covering my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my cyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was entirely baid-headed: It then broke out on my arms and shoulders, until my arms were just one sore. It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The while scabs fell constantly from my head, shoulders and arms: the skin would thicken and be red and very itch), and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars. I was pronounced incurable. I heard of the CUT CURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles I was almost cared; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles I was almost cared; and when I had used six bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, I could see a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA KENOLVENT and one box of CUTICURA, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I thought the disease would leave a very deep scar, but the CUTICURA KENDLES cured it without any scars. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the CUTICURA RESIDES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight. I know of others who have received great benefit from their use.

The Catarrh and Dyspepsia Institute has been located in Pittsburg for nearly two years, and during that time no patients have been accepted for treatment except those suffering from the diseases of their specialty. Please remember that this is the only institution in Pittsburg where only catarrh, dyspepsia and diseases of women are treated. A specialist in the true sense of the term is a physician who treats a disease, or class of diseases, and nothing else. The physicians of the Catarrh and Dyspepsia Institute point with pride to their success in curing the diseases of their specialty, preferring to be masters of a few diseases rather than commonplace in all.
