The Largest Gusher in this County Sponting in the Hundred-Foot.

FOREST GROVE PRESBYTERIANS

Floating in Oil Like Sardines, and They

Keep Their Temper Well. PORTY DOLLARS AN HOUR GOING TO POT.

The largest oil gusher yet struck in this county came in during Thursday night within a few rods of the parsonage of the Forest Grove Presbyterian Church, in Robinson township, a mile and a half south of Groveton, on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railway. There is no doubt of what it was doing yesterday, and though it may slow doing yesterday, and though it may slow down in a day or two, some people think it J. W. The well is on the Andrew Young farm, above Montour run, and extends the territory to the south from the Depp farm graph.

Meantime the golden fluid is streaming down the hill at the rate of more than 40 barrels an hour, making the hearts of even non-owners sick. COVERED WITH OIL

Montour run is covered with iridescence, and its big bends suggest horizontal rain-bows, and oh, how it smells. It is so loud that it fills the nostrils of people as far down as Coraopolis. When the astonished villagers awoke yesterday morning they thought the pipe line up the run had burst. The Young well is in the 100-foot sand, and is only a little over 1,700 feet deep. This sand is quite uniform in that section, and contains much oil, but must be handled very carefully, or the salt water ruins the wells. Mr. McNall tells of several good oil wells that were destroyed by allowing the frill to penetrate a foot or two too far. The first well on the Knopf farm, a mile further south, was thus destroyed. It was flowing 20 barrels a day without help, but a little more punching let in the salt water and the oil disappeared. The same late met the Moore well, but she had gas enough to pay. Mr. W. H. Ewing, whose experience an oil operator extends over more than 25 years, observed the working of the Young well for some hours yesterday, and stated

Dr. Beacom some months ago handled oil drillers without gloves, and seemed to think, if correctly reported, that KEENAN, 1267 Second ave., Pitts. ap5-98 their morals were poisonous to the community. Now while his neighbors are down on their marrow-bones, praying for an oil strike on their farms, the atrikes persist in getting closer to Dr. Beacom. However, there ought to be some Beacom. However, there ought to be some consolation in the hope that a strike on the parsonage ground will float the church for years, and the members' stipend can all be petent men.
