

QUAY AND THE SHARK.

The Senator Tells of a Thrilling Experience Which He Had

WHILE TRYING TO LAND A TARPON.

A Long Battle, Fought Scientifically, Results in a Draw.

THE COLONEL GETTING THE FISH'S HEAD

Spring of words as Senator Quay was when approached on the subject of politics, he had a whole host of interesting experiences to relate of his recent fishing excursion in Florida.

DELIGHTS OF THE SPORT.

"The abundance of this fish, the desperate fights they make, their taking the still bait, and the magnificent response the silver king gives when securely hooked by immediately leaping many feet into the water, his own running between leaps, his beautiful shape, and his bright and superb metallic luster, added to his magnificent power and sport, all this kind of fishing a delight to the fortunate sportsman."

HOW TO KILL MOSQUITOES.

A Philadelphia Woman Wins a Prize for the Best Essay on This Subject.

THE LARGEST HE EVER CAUGHT.

"The last tarpon I caught in March, with Ben Sooy, weighed 112 pounds. I hooked him with a fresh mullet for bait (the best bait known) and dragged the boat for three miles up Indian river, and jumped two feet out of water, his silver scale shining like the metallic roof of the Quebec houses in the morning sun."

A MOMENT OF ANXIETY.

"I carefully put on the mullet myself and made the cast from the sail-boat far out on the river. Not six minutes had elapsed when, not ten feet from my boat above the glassy surface of the sluggish river, the tail of a magnificent tarpon appeared directly above the mullet bait. Then I knew the fun was about to begin. There was a sudden swirl in the water, and Ben Sooy and the negro came rushing into the river from sheer excitement. Seizing my supple and bending rod I pulled off and gave the running fish some 20 feet of slack line, then when my line was taut I gave a shallow twist to my wrist and made a good strike. There was a mighty leap, the sheen of silver was in the air, and the head like that of a wild Texas steer, and "whizz" went my big reel.
