TILT BETWEEN EVARTS AND GRAY.

Congressman Phelan Talks About the Challenge to a Duel.

HE MAKES A CHARGE OF COWARDICE

Against the Man Who Declined to Meet Bim on the Field of Honor.

It is the intention to press the Montana Senatorial contest to a vote on Monday. Evarts and Gray took a leading part in the debate yesterday, and a flat contradiction on a statement of fact occurred. Congressman Phelan intimates that the man who refused to fight a duel with him is a coward.

WASHINGTON, April 11 .- In the Senate to-day the consideration of the Montana election case was resumed, and, as no Senator sought the floor, the yeas and nays were ordered in the first resolution, and the vote was about being taken when Mr. Evarts rose and suggested that if no Senator | 15.6. on the other side desired to speak he would proceed to make the closing argument in support of the committee's report.

Mr. Morgan said that he did not care to address the Senate, but, after hearing the very able and distinguished lawver from New York, he might feel himself required to say something, either in approval or dis-approval, and so he did not wish to be understood as being embraced within any agreement that the Senator from New York should now close the debate in the case.

TALKING ALWAYS IN ORDER. Mr Evarts said that there was always understood the right of any Senator to make any remarks before the vote was taken. It had been wisely said by the Senator from Ohio (Mr. Sherman) that the matter lay in a nutshell, but it sometimes took time to find out whether the nut contained the meat or only the worm. Therefore an effort on the one side and on the other to arrive at the true proposition, which was to affect and turn the vote of the Senate, could not be dispensed with.

He then proceeded to state, in detail, the facts and circumstances of the Montana election, and to discuss the powers of the Territorial Canvassing Board, on which he said there were no limitations imposed by the statute in words. By that he meant that its powers were unlimited within the sense that belonged to the phrase to which it was applied, and to the subject to which it was

THE IDEAS OF EVARTS.

After a long dissertation on duties and doings of the county canvassers, and of the Territorial canvassers, in the course of which he criticised the Governor of the State for placing a janitor at the door of the Court House assembly, to admit only such persons as were entitled to go in (thus mak-ing him for the occasion the judge of who were and who were not elected as representatives), Mr. Evarts be a canvassing board higher than the Territorial canvassing board, while the proposition on the Republican side was that the Senate had no such power of revision.

The latter, he said, was the proposition of the Constitution, of the safety of the Senate

Ward New York City.

As soon as Kelly and Feeny had disap and of the equality of the States. Having sat around a baize table in the committee room with four eminent lawyers on the Democratic side and heard the whole mathe had heard in the Senate chamber from Senators on the other side, but he had learned that it was quite a different thing to speak in a committee room and to speak where the voice resounded beyond the walls. It was another case of Counsellor Puff, with his two voices.

TO VOTE ON MONDAY.

Mr. Gray replied to the point made by Mr. Evarts. He defended the Governor of Montana from the criticism made upon him on account of his instructions given to the asserted that the only direction given to the jaultor by the Governor was a letter of instructions that he should admit everyone who claimed to be a member of the House of Representatives.

After further debate Mr. Hoar gave notice that on Monday he should ask the Senate to remain in session until the Montana case was disposed of. He would not call it up to-morrow, as there might be an implied understanding that Saturday's sessions were to be devoted to the calendar.

CALLS HIM A COWARD.

Congressman Phelan Shows Himself Exper-With the Pen as Well as the Sword-He Justifice His Warlike Challenge.

WASHINGTON, April 11 .- Representa tive Phelan has written a card for publication in which, after giving a history of the origin of the trouble between himself and Colonel Fleming, he says:

It struck me when I read Colonel Fleming's letter to the Memphis paper that he said one of the two ideas in his mind, either that my scrupulous politeness was founded upon fear of him or that he was determined to force a difficulty. He spoke of my apology as having "all the outward seeming of a manly apology," He says, however, that "read according to its true inwardness, it is quite as insulting and dishonest as the one for what it is offered as an apology. He says: "You must pardon me for saying that I regard this latter note as but a crafts device," etc. As soon as I read this letter I sent him a message which it seemed to me his letter was intended to provoke. I addressed this personally to him. I expected a reply which would be a challenge to me or enable me to send him a challenge, for my message was not a challenge. Colonel Fleming, however, held my message for two days and then published it.

held my message for two days and then published it.

From one who had seemed so anxious to force me to the wall I did not expect the plea that he ignored "the code." Now I do not undertake to defend the so-called code. Its barbarity is still an issue between England and the entire continent of Europe. I frankly confess I can find no more excuse for "the code" than for anything else which leads to violence or personal injury. But I have never been able to see the moral distinction between doing another a malicious mischief forbidden by the laws of God and effering an expiation forbidden also by the laws of man. But I do regard its laws as purely conventional, and only binding on those who voluntarily assume them. I have the highest admiration for the moral courage of a man whose whole life of justice to others and upright intercourse with his fellow men justify him in repudiating a resort to violence. But when repudiation of "the code" is used as a shield to protect one who is anything but just to others, and when the overbearing, the malicious and the domineering, unexpectedly checked in the roll of bully, cry out against it. I naturally imagine that the fear of injury to the person and the impulse of cowardice invest the so-called "code" with a degree of barbarity which is convenient if not admirable.

That I acted hastily in sending a message designed to elleit a challenge to a man who ignores the code, I readily admit. But having been warned to "handle him carefully," I assume that the ballying tone of his refusal to accept a hearty apology was the result, among other contingencies, of overwhelming personal courage. The refusal to accept my apology on the part of a man whom I supposed to be brave, filled me with inexpressible humiliation, at which I now smile. Colonel Fleming, in his answer, says I have made myself ridiculous. This is true. But then I did not know Fleming as I do now. He refers to fact that denunciation follows the refusal to accept a challenge. I did not challenge him believed and insulting om one who had seemed so anxious to and in view of the scornful and insulting re-fusal to accept an unequivocal and frank apology. I think I can safely leave to that por-tion of the world which is brave, just and gen-erous, to say whether what I did was without

The Inter-State Commission Strikes a Balance Between the Contestants.

WASHINGTON, April 11 .- The Inter-State Commerce Commission, by Mr. Bragg, Commissioner, to-day decided two cases of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange versus the Illinois Central Railroad Company and 17 others and the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Companies and others, involving relative reasonable basis of rates on cotton from interior points in the cotton growing country, and on compressed and uncompressed to Northern and Eastern mills, and relative methods of transportation and competition of different lines in opposite directions lines in opposite directions.

Desperate Attack of Sing Sing Convicts Upon Their Guard-Armed Men Sent in Pursuit - The Prisoners Recaptured in the Woods,

SING SING, N. Y., April 11 .- One of the most desperate and successful escapes ever made from Sing Sing prison occurred this atternoon. At about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon Keeper See took James Kelly and Michael Feeny, two convicts, to the old female prison to clean the place, prior to locking up the prisoners for the night. As the trio entered the building, Kelly saw August Clint, a con-vict, cleaning lamps, he being the only person in the large prison. Kelly grabbed Clint and pushing him into a vacant cell, locked him in. Feeny grappled with his guard, and a desperate struggle ensued. Before he could draw his revolver, See was felled to the floor by a blow on the forehead with a hammer which Kelly car-ried. As See started to get

FEELING AGAINST STANLEY.

Germans Assert That the Explorer Had Deluded Emin With Promises. LONDON, April 12 .- The Times correspondent at Berlin says he notes a growing anti-Stanley feeling there. Herr Reichard, while lecturing recently, declared that Stanley, while on his search for Livingstone, learned from Arabs at Zanzibar Livingstone's location, but concealed his discovery in order to enhance his feat. The lecturer further declared that Stanley, by threats, had induced Emin to leave Wadelai, because he himself had failed in commercial land grabbing and speculation, utterly unredeemed by man purpose or a feeling for Emin. lecturer read a letter from Count Stallaire, whose son, the Zanzibar agent of the German East Africa Company, had been informed that Stanley's proposition to Emin was to collect forces and go and estab-lish himself and found stations in Kavirondo, while Stanley would bring two steamers from Mombasa and join him in an expedition to conquer Uganda and Unyoro, and create them provinces of an equatorial dominion, of which Emin, with a princely salary, should be ruler, in the service of the British East Africa Company. Railways would be built from the coast through the dominion, connecting with the sources of the Nile. This scheme, the writer said, would prove the grave of the commercial hopes of Ger-

A THOUSAND STRIKE.

Work on a Dozen Large Unfinished Buildings in New York City

STOPPED BY WALKING DELEGATES

To Compel the Employment of Union Men at Hecla Iron Works.

ULTIMATUM OF THE CHICAGO STRIKERS The Journeymen Reiterate Their Demand for Eight-Hour Day.

A strike among the building trades in New York has been precipitated by the refusal of an architectural iron firm to employ union men. The Chicago strikers issue will not recede. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, April 11 .- The trouble beween the Housesmiths' Union and Poulson & Eger, proprietors of the Hecla Architectural Bronze and Iron Works, in Williamseurg, culminated this afternoon in a general strike of the workmen employed on buildings in which the iron work is being done by that firm. During the noon recess the Board of Walking Delegates informed the union men employed on half a dozen large buildings in this city that a strike had been ordered, and at 1 o'clock more than 1,000 men refused to resume their work. and, for the most part, left the buildings where they were employed. Few of them ousesmiths were directly interested in it. ONLY UNION MEN WANTED.

The strikers in New York were at work on the Pulitzer, Union Trust Company, Lancashire, Brown Bros., Mechanics Bank and Oriental Insurance buildings, and on the buildings that are being erected on Eighty-first street and Ninth avenue. They comprise housesmiths, plumbers, gas fitters, steam fitters, carpenters, stair builders, painters, varnishers, marble cutters, hod hoisting engineers, electric house wiremen, tile layers and framers.

Last week a strike was ordered on several of Poulson & Eger's buildings in this city, to compel the firm to employ union men in the Hecla Iron Works. Only the house-smiths stopped work, and the Board of Walking Delegates threatened then that a general strike would be ordered if an attenty was made to fill the places of the empt was made to fill the places of the housesmiths with non-union men, Charles Hardy, the shop delegate of the Housesmiths' Union, says that Mr. Poulson smiths' Union, says that Mr. Poulson signed an agreement with him and the out-side delegates of Brooklyn and New York on Thursday afternoon.

AN AGREEMENT SIGNED. By this agreement the firm was to employ none but union men, under the nine-hour rule; that the walking delegates of the housesmiths' unions of Brooklyn and this city should have the privilege of visiting the company's shops to learn whether the workmen were in good standing in their

In accordance with this agreement the strides were ordered off, and Shop Delegate Hardy intended this morning to organize the Hecla Iron Works as a union shop. Delegate Hardy says that he and two outside delegates called at the Hecla Iron Works this morning and asked to be permitted to go through the shops. Mr. Paulson, he says, called in his foreman, and pointing out the delegate, said: "These are the mea who want to go through our shops." Then he ordered the delegates to leave the office. The delegates returned to this city and laid Delegates, which was then in session. Board ordered a general strike in all the buildings where the Heels Iron Company is doing work.

WILL FORCE A FIGHT. Shop Delegate Hardy said to-day that the Housesmiths' Union would force Paulson & Eger to comply with union rules or forfeit their contracts on the buildings where other than union men are employed. There are about 500 men employed in the Pulitzer building and about the same number in the Union Trust Company's building on Broadway, near Wall street.

Meetings were held to-night of the different branches of the housesmith workers of Williamsburg, and committees were ap-Union and to ask the co-operation of the Central Labor Union, of Brooklyn, and the District Assembly of the Knights of Labor, which will hold their meetings on Sunday.

THE CARPENTERS' ULTIMATUM.

An Eight-Hour Day and Fixed Wages is What They Demand. CHICAGO April 11 -It is now stated that each side to the carpenters' strike has issued its ultimatum. It has now settled down to a question of endurance and the general impression is that the fight will be a protracted one. The boss carpenters say places on Monday next.

About 50 employers, who are not members of the Master Carpenters' Association, held a meeting to-night, and, after forming an organization, appointed an Arbitration Committee to meet a similar committee from the Journeymen. The new organization is composed of the smaller bosses, each of whom employs from three to five workmen. The Journeymen's Executive Council to night issued another address to the public eiterating the demands for a fixed minimum rate of wages and an eight-hour day. A vig-orous denial is entered to the pleas that the Masters' Association is a purely social affair and that the council could not entorce its side of an agreement. Cigarmakers Returning to Work.

CHICAGO, April 11 .- About 70 cigarnakers were at work in the Columbia factory to-day, most of them new hands, though a few of yesterday's strikers re-turned to work this morning.

JAMES BULGER DEAD.

Mr. Buiger was 33 years of age and was married. He was born in the Twelfth ward February 25, 1857, and has been living in that district all his life. He received the rudiments of an education in the Twelfth ward school, but had to forego his studies at a tender age. He went to work in a glass house, and soon learned the trade. For several years up until 1888 he had been keeping a saloon, and his place was the headquarters of the politicians in that vicinity. At the first term of the License Court he applied for a retail license but was refused. He then consented to become a candidate for the Legislature against Fred Heil, the well-known ex-detective. Mr. Bulger was elected by a big majority, and when he went to Harrisburg he had the honor of being the only Democrat among 16 representatives from Allegheny county.

Prior to his election to the Legislature, he knew the reason for the strike, as only the

had been a school director, and served sev-eral terms in Councils. He was quiet and unassuming in his manner, and was always found on the Democratic side of any question. He was considered the best Demo-cratic worker in the Twelfth ward. He applied for license at the present sitting of the court, but was again refused. Since that time the action of the court seemed to have depressed him in spirits. The funeral services will be held in St. Patrick's Church, corner Penn avenue and Seventeenth street, Monday morning.

Sphere Twirlers Will Enter the Field for the Newsies. The Allegheny League Baseball Club, being prevented by the national agreement from playing the Pittsburg Brotherhood club for the benefit of the Newsboys' Home fund, has arranged a game for the above object with the Climax club, a crack Alle-gheny amateur team. The game will come off at Recreation Park on Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and the entire proceeds will go to the Newsboys' Home fund. The ama-teurs will even things up somewhat by taking Miller and Sowders, the crack bat-tery of the Alleghenys. They will also place one or two professionals in the field.

This will be one of the last opportunities to see a professional game in this vicinity for 25 cents. Popular prices coupled with the good object to which the receipts are to be devoted, will draw a large crowd. Tickets are on sale at the different newspaper offices McClurg's store, corner Fifth avenue and Wood street; the Press branch office, No. 93 federal street, Allegheny, and Frank Cury's, Ohio street, Allegheny.

FIREBUGS AGAIN IN OAKLAND. another Very Mysterious Fire Occurs on

Ward Street. Another mysterious fire occurred in Oakland at 10 o'clock last night. This time it was the new residence of John J. Daschbasch on Ward street, near Cato. The house was not quite finished and the origin of the fire is unknown. The loss was $4,000. This is another of the apparently incendiary fires which have so far baffied all the efforts of the police. It is the general impression that one man is responsible for all of them.
On the night of January 11 Mrs. Joseph Daschbasch saw a man on the porch of her some, which is near the residence which was burned down last night. The descrip-tion she gives of him tallied exactly with the description given of the man who had Oakland avenue and who was also seen run ning away from the O'Neil residence in Oakland square the time it was fired. The Oakland citizens want to know why the po-lice officials of the Third district are unable catch the firebug.

sufficient to fine the defendant, but quite a number of mitigating circumstances were shown in favor of Mrs. Rocks. On that account she was discharged, after she had been lectured by both Mr. Dean and the Alderman.

Only One Applicant Left on the Anxious Bench-Another on Probation for a Month-Who the Fortunate Possesso of Precious Papers Will Be.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Judge Ewing handed down to Clerk McGunnegle the list of applicants to whom retail licenses were granted in the Allegheny wards except the first four, which were given out a week ago. The total number of retail licenses granted in Allegheny City is 122, more than half of the number of applicants. There are at present only 39, so that the number of saloons is more than trebled. The application of Peter S. Huckestein, Nos. 57 and 59 O'Hara street, in the Seventh ward, is held over. Patrick Flaher-ty's license, on Preble avenue, is to be granted only after his restaurant is in suc

A BIG SNAG STRUCK. The Duqueene Runs Against the Old City

Passenger's Rights. The City Passenger Street Railway Company yesterday organized and elected officers. This company was chartered under the act of 1879, but when that act was declared unconstitutional everything was dropped. By the act of 1889 the company was given the option of accepting the act, and they have accepted. They have an or-dinance passed by City Councils which gives the right to build a line from Liberty street up Sixth avenue to Forbes street, and Forbes street to Brady street, to Second, and then to Glenwood.

The incorporators were Jos. H. Reed, F.
M. Magee, T. O'Leary, John Larkin, R. S.
Frazier and James Welden. This line covers part of the Second avenue route and the Duquesne Company's route. The in-corporators have two years in which to build the road, but they say they would rather sell out to the other companies.

SOME STOLEN CLOTHING. Inspector McAleese Wants to Find the Owners Thereof.

Inspector McAleese has a fine gold watch and a fine Prince Albert coat and vest for which he is anxious to find the owner. Two men, well-known to be thieves, were arrested in Cincinnati a few days ago and on them were found pawn tickets on Pittsburg pawnshops for the watch and clothing.

The tickets were dated back about a month or six weeks ago. They were sent to the Inspector and he redeemed the goods, but is confident they were stolen from some one in or near Pittsburg not less than six weeks ago. The articles can be seen at the Inspector's office.

MILLIONS AT STAKE A Clash Over the Estate of a Philanthropist Who Left His MONEY FOR TECHNICAL SCHOOLS.

Isaiah V. Williamson's Testament to be Bitterly Contested.

AN IMPORTANT PEATURE OF THE WILL

Is Null and Void, According to the Direct Beirs of the Dead Man.

A contest was begun in Philadelphia yesterday against the will of Philanthropist Williamson, who left his fortune to establish a training school for boys. The provision concerning the interest, which will amount to $4,500,000 in ten years, is asserted to be null and void.

ISPECIAL TRIEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH 1 PHILADELPHIA, April 11. - The first clash over the estate of Isaiah V. Williamson, who left an estate of $12,000,000 to found a training school for boys in this city, occurred to-day when the estate was before Judge Ferguson in the Orphans' Court. The contest arises over the question of what shall be done with the balance of income for the year, of $457,456 73. It is claimed that the fourteenth item of the will is void in so far as accumulation of interest is directed, and the court is asked to award the balance of income in the hands of the executors directly to the next of kin in proportion to their several interests.

THE CASE IN COURT. The estate came up for audit upon the account of Daniel B. Cummins, President of the Girard National Bank, who is the surviving executor. The heirs who were present nearly filled the room. By the inventory and additional receipts, the accountant charges himself with $10,380,654, and after providing for the payment of all the pecuniary legacies, the accountant presented to the court a schedule of securities ap-praised at $5,780,503, as the residue of the estate passing under the fourteenth item of the will.

He also presented an additional schedule of securities, appraised at $1,515,099 26, which, for the present, he will retain, subject to further accounting, and brought into court a balance of income for the year of $457,456 73, which the contestants asked the Court to award to the next of kin. The contestants also asked the Judge, in awarding the residuary fund to the trustee under the fourteenth item, to qualify the award by instruction to the trustee to account, at suitable periods, to the next of kin, for the income accruing upon the estate up to March 7, 1899.

THE ITEM IN DISPUTE. The fourteenth item of the will provides that the income from his residuary estate should be left together for ten years, when it should be divided among the collateral heirs. The contention was that the holding together of the income was illegal, as it was a contingent fund, depending on the death of any of the parties interested and also on heirs yet to be born.

The magnitude of this contention was apparent, when it was seen that if the income should be the same for each of the coming years, the heirs will receive during that time cash amounting to $4,500,000. The Judge will decide the case when he adjudicates the estate.

EXTENDING ITS USEFULNESS.

The East End Electric Company Greatly Increasing Its Capacity. The East End Electric Light Company is about to extend its operations to a degree that will make this city one of more light at night than any other in the country, if not of sweetness. The company will extend its operations to Hazelwood, Glenwood, Homestead and Sharpsburg. A plant will be built at the latter place, and President A. T. Rowand has bought four acres at Glen-wood for a power house there. Hitherto the company has not been able to serve all the territory it had contracted for, but this extension will cover its shorts.

When the places mentioned that now sit in darkness, more or less, are illuminated, Pittaburg will be supplied with 100,000 incandescent electric lights, more than are in
