A VERY SHAKY CONTEST.

G. D. Noremac Issues a Sweeping

Challenge to the World. THE SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

The local National League club scores another victory yesterday, defeating the Jamestown club. The game of the Pittsburg Players' team at St. Louis was postponed. G. D. Noremac challenges any man in the world to a race of 12 hours a day for six days. None of the players of the old local club will be released at present.

Exhibition games in cold weather may be a means of giving ball players practice, but there is very little fun in them for the spectators. This would seem to be the general opinion, because there were not 200 people present at yesterday's game in Recreation Park between the local National League team and the representatives of Jamestown N. Y. The latter are in the New York and Pennsylvania League, and may be up to the standard of that organization, but they are very far below par where anything of a firstclass standard is seen on the ball field. Of course, it is not expected that they are anywhere near first rank, or else they would probably not been in Jamestown. But the fact is, they played a poor game yesterday, and the home players were in very little better form. When it is stated that out of the 18 runs made by the two teams only three were carned, it will be well understood that there was some seedy playing all round.

A FEW BRILLIANT PLAYS, The cold weather, doubtless, had something to do with the poor playing, as many of the most flagrant kind of errors were made, but there were a few brilliant plays made. Fred Dunlap reappeared and during the game he made one of his old-time stops of a very hot grounder. He gave the people to under that he is still Duolap. Youngman played third and did fairly well, but La Roque was awfully off. One of his wild throws sent the ball right into the bleachers behind first base and allowed Kelly to travel the entire circuit of the bases. Nash and Beam, of the visitors, each made a very fine catch and were cheered by the little

The pitching was all very faulty except in the case of Jones. Daniels, who didn't appear to be very anxious, was wilder than usual, but only five hits were made off his delivery. Jones, in his five innings, only allowed the visitors two hits. Arlington at times was exceedingly wild, and some of the four passed balls credited to his catcher were very excusable. Brandenburg

A MERRY START. In the first inning any glory that may have been attached to the Jamestown lot vanished. as five runs were made by the local players. Only one was earned although four hits were made. In that inning Routeliffe made a lucky three bagger, but the side ought to have been out before he went to bat. The next five runs made were all netted by mistakes. In the eighth inning Sunday made a triple, and scored on Hemp's sacrifice, making the second carned run and the last of the game.

The wild pitching of Daniels, a passed ball and a scratch single gave the visitors their first run in the third inning. In the fourth O'Rourke led off, and reached first on an error Spurney got his base on balls, and Beam sent O'Rourke home by a single to left, Beam going to second and Spurney to third. Wilmington flew out to Dunlap, and Wirsche knocked a long single into right field, scoring Spurney and Beam. In the seventh inning three more runs were made on two errors by La Roque, a single hit, a sacrifice, a wild pitch and a stolen base. Zacharias again gave satisfaction as umpire.

CHANGING THE INFIELD.

The changing of the infield was an experiment, and in some respects it was a good one and will be a go. Dunlap, as all baseball patrons know, is an improvement at second, and Youngman at present is more reliable at third than Roat. But many people who want to see the old club do well would like to see a trial or two of the following infield: Hines first, Dunlap second, Youngman shortstop, and Roat third. Certainly one game, or even two is not sufficient to test an infield, but Roat has shown that he can make some very brilliant plays. Experience will vanquish his nervous-ness. It is only fair to state that La Roque has also doce some good work, but he is at present out of form, judging by his playing. At any rate a few days rest for him, while another man is being tried, will do him no harm. Following is the full score:

Chamberlain was suspended a few days ago for not trying to win games. The board let him off on the ground that his indifferent pitching was due to lack of condition and poor health, and he was reinstated.

Won't Release Any Yet. The directors of the local National League club held a meeting vesterday to determine whether or not any of the new players be released at once. It was pointed out that there are more players on the payroll than are needed, but, after a lengthy discussion, it was resolved to not release any player at present. This is a sensible resolve as several of the youngsters have not had a thorough trial yet Manager Hecker is a strong advocate of keep ing all the players for awhile longer.

last evening to try and make a match to contest against each other in a 72-hour race for $500 to $1,000 a side. They could not agree on a date for the race, and for the time being no match was made.

Cartwright wanted to gun during the week commencing May 19 and Noremac wanted a week later. After a long argument Cartwright stated that he would run in five weeks' time for $500 a side or in seven weeks for $1,000 a side. To this Noremac stated that he was not sure whether or not he could get $1,000, and offered to make the race for $500 a side open for $1,000 a side. Cartwright declined this, saying that if he waited seven weeks for a race nothing less than $1,000 a side would pay him and his backers if he won. He, therefore, demanded that the stakes be definitely fixed at $1,000 a side if the race was to take place in seven weeks. Noremac would not consent to this, and negotiations came to an end.

Noremac left for Philadelphia last evening and before leaving left the following sweeping challenge accompanied by $50 at this office.

'I will run any man in the world a race of 12 hours per day for six days six weeks after signing articles, for $500 a side, open for $1,000 a side. I now put up a forfeit of $50 with the sporting editor of THE DISPATCH, and I will allow the form of the DISPATCH, and I will allow the foremain six weeks. EX-PRESIDENT HAYES CHIEF ORATOR. His Elequent Address on Lessons Taught by Hi Martyred Predecessor.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the deat of Abraham Lincoln was observed by the Loyal Legion of the United States in Philadelphia yesterday. Distinguished veterans were present from all parts of the country.

PRECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. PHILADELPHIA, April 15 .- The twentyfifth anniversary of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, now being celebrated by various forms, ceremonies and entertainments during the last two days, was begun by a meeting of the Commanders in Chief this morning in the hall of the Historical Society. Not even the South itself can equal the proportion of Generals to the square inch that Philadelphia has at the present moment. To say "How are you, General?" in a Chestnut street car almost any time to-day would have been equivalent to a salute from almost every man in it. Conspicuous among them was ex-President Hayes, looking a sturdy, vigorous and well-preserved man, upon whom the finger of time touches lightly. Also conspicuous was our own General David McMurtrie Gregg, the gallant and intropid leader of the cavalry forces at the battle of Gettysburg. He is the third commander of the Pennsylvania Commanders, his two predecessors having been General John Cadwallader and General W. S. Hancock.

After the adjournment of the meeting at the Historical Society's rooms the members of the Loyal Legion and their wives and daughters were entertained at the Union League. A cold lunch was served in the banquet room. In the large assembly room the United States Marine Band gave a concert between 1 and 3 o'clock, playing a number of entertaining and delightful selections from the latest operas.

A great meeting, presided over by ex-President Hayes, was held in the Academy of Music to-night. Among those present were: Hon. B. F. Tracy, Secretary of the Navy: General John M. Schofield, Commander-in-Chief United States army: General J. M. Hoffmann, Captain F. F. Porter, Rear Admiral John J. Almy, Rear Admiral W. Smith, General John J. Milhau, General John A. THE EX-PRESIDENT'S SPEECH. After an overture by the Marine Band, which came from Washington for the occa-sion, General D. McM. Gregg, Commander of the Pennsylvania Commandery, delivered an address of welcome, and then introduced exaddress of welcome, and then introduced exPresident R. B. Hayes, Commander in Chief of the order, who spoke for half an hour on "Lessons from the Life of Lincoln." In the course of his address Mr. Hayes said:
"Nowhere can the lesson of his wonderful life be more fitty studied, nor more fondly cherished that in this army society, which traces its origin to that awful time when the ending of that life was felt as a personal bereavement by all who fought the good fight that was so ennobled and so constituted by the death of its martyr chief. That lesson, while it contains almost the whole future of our country, is short and simple. Our country may be death of its martyr chief. That resson, while it contains almost the whole future of our country, is short and simple. Our country may be tempted to reject, or may neglect the message of Abraham Lincoln, That message was often repeated by him in words, and always exhibited by him in words, and always exhibited by him in his life from his earliest to his latest days on earth. It can be easily and amply given in a single sentence. His whole life, his very being seemed to say to his countrymen: 'See to it that every son and daughter of our Republic, so far as human laws and human conduct avail, shall have an equal chance and a fair start in the race of lite.' Reject or neglect this, and our Government ceases to be republican, 'except in name, and that doom which the Almighty has appointed for all shams is not far off.

PANORAMAS IN MUSIC.

PANORAMAS IN MUSIC. General Hayes' speech was received with great applause. General Charles Devens, of Massachusetts, was next introduced and spoke at great length, reviewing the results of the Rebellion, dwelling on its incidents and partici-pants, and condemning the mistake while he pants, and condemning the mistake while he lauded the bravery of the South. Next followed a funtasia by the Marine Band descriptive of an episode in a soluier's life, introducing recollections of the war in the shape of camofire songs, bugie calls and everything from "reveille" to "taps." This was heartily enjoyed by the veterans present, who rose to their feet and joined in the singing of some of the songs as they occurred in the piece. Short addresses were delivered by Secretary Tracy and Generals Schoffield, Howard, Beaver, Porter, Slocum, Miles, Swayne, Marshall and Manderson.

At the meeting of the Commandery in-Chief this afternoon it was announced that the sixth annual meeting of the Commandery in-Chief will be held in St. Louis beginning October 16 next. General Swayne's resignation was discussed at length, and he finally withdrew it because of the belief expressed by many that it would be a dangerous precedent to change the constitution of the order. A resolution offered by the Michigan delegation, looking to the abolition of grades in the order, was voted down. At present those who did service on the field during the war are in the first class. The second class comprises the younger men who gain admission to the order through the services rendered in the army by their ancestors. After a vote of thanks to the Pennsylvania Commandery for courtesies extended, the meeting adjourned. auded the bravery of the South. Next fol Commandery for courtesies extended, the
