This brought out the deficit.

TRAMPS FOR STONE QUARRIES.

A Judge Decides Keeping Vagrants in Idle pess is Violation of Law. :SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.

CHAMBERSBURG, April 28. - Judge Stuart to-day delivered a long address to the grand jury upon the tramp question. The tramp bill of this county in the last 18 years has been over $125,000. The Judge said that the vagrancy law of 1876 intended that the penalty for vagrancy should be labor, not confinement, and that the custom followed here of keeping the tramps in jail in comfort and idleness during the winter and then allowing them to prey upon the farmers in the summer was a violation of the law and must be stopped.

It is the duty of the officials of the county, according to Judge Stuart, to provide work for the tramps, and neglect to do so is a misdemeaner. He recommended that they be put to work quarrying stone on the almshouse farm. The grand jury was instructed to make a full investigation of the matter, and report some plan to rid the county of the tramps. The Judge said he felt sure they would disappear as soon as they were put to work. The Court appointed ex-Judge Rowe special counsel to assist the grand jury in their investigation.

Three of the tramps who last week attacked and beat farmer Samuel Lehman, and afterward broke open several houses, were tried and convicted here to-day. Judge Stuart sentenced two of them to the penitentiary for 15 months each, and the third to the county jail for a year.

Timber Thieves. FARMERS FIGHT THE FIERCE FLAMES

To Save Their Bomesteads From Destruction in the Conflagration.

New Jersey is suffering from destructive forest fires, started by timber thieves, who have conspired to terrorize property owners who threatened them with prosecution. Thousands of acres of valuable woodlands have been destroyed, entailing a loss of over

CAMDEN, N. J., April 28,-A reign of terror has been begun in Burlington county, N. J., by the timber thieves who infest that region. Their fiendish work of setting fire to the valuable timber lands in the eastern section of the county, around Mount Holly, Vincentown, Medford and other small neighboring towns, which was only stopped by the heavy rain during the past three days, has resulted in the loss of many thou-sands of dollars to the owners of timber tracts and lucrative cranberry bogs, besides destroying the homes of many tenants. At present no estimate can be exactly placed on the amount of property ruined, but it will certainly not fall short of $50,000.

A stretch of ten miles, which one week ago contained the finest specimens of oak, ine, maple and cedar timber, has largely been converted into a plain of ashes and charcoal and smoking stumps of trees. It is known that timber thieves started the destructive conflagration early on Wednesday morning in revenge for the recent wholesale threats of the owners that they intended to shoot down any man who should steal their

AFRAID TO PROSECUTE,

Now that the thieves have wrought such levastation, the owners are afraid to prose cute any of them for fear that new fires wil be started. The Timber Protective Society, which has been inactive during the last two years, has leaped into life again to track down the offenders. A leading official of the society said yesterday that the organiza-tion would shortly hold a meeting. He also stated that some plan would be adopted to stop all thieving in the forests, and to punish the men known to be in the business. The fire started on Wednesday morning at a place called "Big Hill," in Southampton township, owned by John Wells. At the same time the thieves set fire to several adjoining tracts. Within a few hours the whole section of the country pulsed by the fearful heat.

Throughout Wednesday and Thursday the fire spread rapidly, and laid waste to the thousands of acres. The cracking of timber and the strong wind fanning the fire filled the country with continuous roar. The heavy rain on Friday morning, however, stopped its progress. The burned district extends from the southern part of Southampton township to Shamong, and through Woodland and Med ord townships. A greater part of the destroyed woodland was young timber. Many cedar tracts were also destroyed. The cedar was selling at a good price, it being used for shingles, inside ma-terial of houses and lead pencils.

A CRANBERRY GROWER'S LOSS. Probably the heaviest loser was Joseph Hinchman, of Medford township, who lost ont 1,200 acres of cl sides a lot of cut wood. The fire also injured most of his 500 acres of cranberry bogs. Hinchman is the largest cranberry grower in Southern Jersey. It is thought his loss will not be less than $12,000. Several will not be less than $12,000. Several small houses on the property of Mr. Hinchman, occupied by some of his workmen, were burned to the ground.

Great damage was done to the immense tract of woodland of General John S. Irick, of Vincentown. Speaking of his loss by the fire yesterday General Irick said: "I indee that about 2,000 acres of the wood the wood that was that about 2,000 acres of the wood the wood that was that about 2,000 acres of the wood the woo judge that about 2,000 acres of the wood-land belonging to me and John Wells have been destroyed. The timber was valuable. being heavy and used for logs. As I have not made any inspection I am unable to set any figure as to my loss. I shall prosecute the timber thief who may attempt to destroy or pilfer my property in the future to the fullest extent of the law."

Henry J. Irick, the son of the General. lost 500 acres of his magnificent timber in Northampton township by the conflagration. Jesse Braddock and Japhet Bowker were large losers in Medford township. They lost 1,000 acres of timber, besides some of their cranberry bogs. The large timber tracts of Joshua Jones, Mrs. Louisa Moore, J. Ballinger and C. Pennock, stretching over 2,000 acres, were nearly all reduced to ashes, and the farmhouse and outbuildings of Charles H. Haines were laid in waste.

A resident of Medford said yesterday that for the past five years fully 20 cords of wood have been stolen from his property daily. In Northampton and Medford the public sleep the number of these silferns. townships alone the number of these pilferers is above a score. They make their liv-ing by stealing the wood of their neighbors. One man, well-known to the inhabitants of Northampton township as the "King of the Timber Thieves," is alleged to have spent his whole life in stealing his neigh-bors' timber. Had he not been a heavy drinker he would now be a rich man at oth er people's expense. He can drink a quart of applejack daily without feeling the worse for it. He has been indicted, but the case is still pending against him. The tim-ber thieves have settlements at "Magnolia," "Canaan" and "Retreat," three notoriously bad places in the eastern portion of Burlington county.

PRETTY QUICK DETECTIVE WORK. Chief Murphy Locates Jahn Bonner, Wanter

His mother found it out on Sunday morning, and reported the fact to Chief of Police Murphy, who promptly took such active measures that the young man was located in Cincinnati, and a telegram to the authorities of that town caused his arrest yesterday. Word was received last night that Bonner was in jail, and was willing to return without requisition papers. and Detective Glenn left at 10 o'clock on short notice to bring him back, having no "baggage" but an extra linen collar and a handkerchie! A FRIGHTFUL WRECK. A Passenger Coach Jumps the Track and Demolishes a Baggage House-One Passenger Killed and Several Others Injured. STAUNTON, VA., April 28 .- This morning about 3 o'clock a fearful railroad wreck occurred at the Staunton, Chesapeake and Obje station The vestibule train, due here from the West at 1 o'clock, was two hours late About 5 o'clock it came whirling or at a speed of 70 miles an hour. As the train reached the passenger station the rear sleep ing car ended, striking the platform covering, tearing away the iron posts and demolishing the whole platform structure. It struck the eastern baggage house 50 rods from the station, a new brick building, crushing in its tront and wrecking the building. The rear sleeper then jumped the track and turned over on its side a few feet from the track, shattering the car into numberless pieces. There were a number of passengers in the sleeper. The city fire alarm was sounded. The fire companies responded in-stantly and went to work at the wreck, assisted by many citizens, to rescue the passen-gers from their imprisonment. One person was killed, Miss Myrtle Knox, of Kansas City. She was fearfully mangled. One leg was cut off below the knee, her left arm broken and right shoulder dislocated. A piece of wood was buried in her thigh, cut-ting an artery, causing death from bleeding in a few moments and before surgical aid could be summoned.

Those known to have been injured are W. J. Kirkpatrick. New York, wound of the leg and head; L. H. Sloman, Cincinnati, slightly injured; Edith Miller, New York, leg broken; Mrs. Edward Webb, leg bruised; Edward Stevens, shoulder the straight of the strai sprained; Miss Bertha Fisher, concussion of the spine and confusion of the abdomen, considered serious; Lewis Harrison, scalp wound; Miss Jane Durham, sprained ankle. The accident was caused by a brake rod alling, throwing ballast among the air brake connections.

The Small Brokers of Washington Compelled to Ask Time-The High Rollers Continue Business and Think the Panicky Feeling Temporary. FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, April 28.-There has een a great flurry among the bucket shops of this city for the last two days. The failures and excitement in New York and Pittsburg have put a damper on operations and a padlock on the money market, and this morning the announcement was made by most of the local bucket-shop keepers to their customers that they had no money and could not meet their obligations at once, but asked for time. It is safe to say that at least one-half the bucket shops of the city are running under shortened sail, while hundreds of people groaned and mouned over the possible loss of their savings. The transactions in this business here are usually small, but are quite extensive, and the stringency that prevails will have a widespread effect. Clerks in the departments and young men about town on short commons are the chief patrons, and while they do not risk much at any one time they are industrious, requent and certain. The trouble here does not affect the larger and more responsible brokers, although there is a nervous feeling to-day all along F street and a number of the brokers who do not really fear any serious trouble have been a little chary about taking much new busiess until t cases of closing, although a number of bucket shops have been obliged to tem-porize and ask a few days time in which to settle up. The more hopeful dealers on the street say the trouble will not last long, and doubts are expressed as to whether there will lands will play their last game of the pres-be much actual loss. Like a number of others, they paid out all they had here and when they failed to receive remittances today found themselves short. They have settled with paper at 30, 60 and 90 days with all their customers and take the paper in payment on margins, but as a rule they prefer cash business. THE SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

As intimated in yesterday's DISPATCH, the directors of the local Players' League club have decided to reduce the price of admission to their home games to 25 cents. A policy of this kind has been steadily urged by this paper and the adoption of the suggestion is a wise step from every point of view. Doubtless those who are not friendly toward the club will attribute various kinds of causes for the move, but after all have had their say the fact remains that the change is one for the public benefit, at least that portion of the public that takes an interest in the national game. porting Editor of The Dispatch: Now that the baseball championship season of 1890 has fairly opened and the baseball loving public have had an opportunity to judge between the two clubs representing our city, and it has been made manifest by the attendance at the games of the Players League club, by a majority of 10 to 1, that that organization is the popular one, and since the National League clubs, after having used every means within their power to overthrow the Players' League, have at last resorted to the only remaining subterfuge, a non-conflicting schedule, it has been deermined by the Pittsburg Players' League Club to further popularize itself by the introduction of a 25-cent admission to its home

This change, which goes into effect to-day, should be welcomed by all. THE PITTSBURG PLAYERS' LEAGUE

CLUB. A POPULAR MOVE. The above statement may be a little strong in places, for instance, the use of the word 'subterfuge," but it contains a deal of truth. From a standpoint of expediency and also of duty it is a step in the right direction. Without doubt it is somewhat of a heroic move on the part of the directors of the club, and the local baseball patrons should respond accordingly. The expenses of the club were all originally estimated on 50-cent admission basis, and to reduce that basis 50 per cent without reducing the expenses is a very bold step to take. Nothing but a hearty response on the part of the public will make the sten a profitable one. It is worthy of note that the change is being made at a time when there is no opposition in the city as far as a competing club is concerned, so that the reduction is one entirely to accommodate the working com-munity of this great industrial center. CARD FROM MRS. PHINNEY.

She Upholds Mrs. Foster and Credits Her With Being Non-Partisan.

CLEVELAND, April 28.-Mrs. Ellen Phinney President of the National W. C. T. U. (non-partisan), has prepared the following for publication: "A statement that does great injustice to Mrs. Foster and at the same time represent me as in a hostile attitude to one whom I not only love and honor, but recognize as the strongest and ablest champion of constitu-tional prohibition the nation has yet produced, appeared in the Chicago News and alm aneously in the public press. Because of the injustice thus done to those representing injustice thus done to those representing the non-partisan temperance movement the correct version of what I did say on the point under discussion should have as wide a circulation. I said that while Mrs. Foster has no peer upon the temperance platform, her connection with the last political campaign has hindered this movement, because of a general misapprehension in regard to her non-partisanship; that while we clearly understand the difference between individual political action, and know that when Mrs. Foster went into that political contest the woman believed in the Republican party and its governmental policy. We know that Mrs. Foster is just as ardent a Methodist as Republican; that she fully believes the Methodist Church is the church for the people; that it is the greatest denominational medium for uplifting the masses, but she does not seek to bring to its support the influence of the women of the Union because she believes they should exercise their own preferences in these as in political matters. So we see that as a temperance woman Mrs. Foster is truly non-partisan, but many fail to understand it, and the repeated charge brought against us by those who are unable or unwilling to understand our position."

"I did not say 'Mrs. Foster had done great injury to the temperance cause,' nor did I say to a reporter in explanation that "I did not mean what I said." I did not mean what he said, but I stand by the statement I made." the non-partisan temperance movement the

PROTECTION FOR BRAKEMEN.

Congress Asked to Make a Law Compelling

Use of Air Brakes. WASHINGTON, April 28,-Representative Henderson, of Iowa, to-day introduced to the House Committee on Railroads and Canals, L. S. Coffin, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who, as a repre ntative of the Brakemen's Association of the United States, addressed the committee in favor of Mr. Henderson's bill for the profavor of Mr. Henderson's bill for the protection of railroad employes. The bill requires all railroad cars to be equipped with automatic couplings and power brakes, that there will be no necessity for the men to go between the cars. Mr. Coffin presented a statement showing that in the period of one month last year 100 employes had been killed and 136 crippled for lack of these devices. He said that the Brakemen's Association had paid out of their scanty earnings last year 5500,000 for the relief of widows of their members killed between the cars. He did not favor any particular device, and was not present as the representative of the company interested in the manufacture of safety couplers, or brakes. All that he asked was that the committee should require the railroads to adopt any system which would obviate the necessity for the men going between the cars in coupling. going between the cars in coupling.

Representatives of the Master Car Builders Association were present at the session of the committee and supplied information upon the technical points. As the Inter-State Commerce Commission now has the subject under consideration the committee has called upon it for models of the different devices which have been submitted for approval.
