THE CONTRACT BROKEN.

Master Plumbers After Better Sanitary Legislation,

EASTERN MINERS WILL ORGANIZE

It is very probable that Pittsburg may yet experience an eight-hour strike, and if it comes it will not only affect the carpenters, but all other building trades. The position taken by the Builders' Exchange in relation to the tinners strike has raised the ire of the carpenters. They say this action virtually annuls the contract entered into with their men previous to May 1, and if by following out the line indicated in Tuesday's resolutions, the men are forced to strike, the latter will demand shorter hours and more pay in all the trades.

There are over 3,000 organized carpenters in Pittsburg and Allegheny and not more more than 100 non-union men. The union men are attached to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, a national organization having a membership of 60,000 and a treasury worth $80,000. In case a strike is ordered the men claim they will be in a good condition to fight for what they demand.

THE CARPENTERS REGRET. The carpenters regret they did not go into the movement for shorter hours when the men in other cities did, and they are likely to take advantage of any technical point that may arise to let them in now. There was a great deal of talk about the matter on the streets yesterday. Contractors even were heard to express themselves as believing the action of the Builders' Ex-change is liable to bring about some such result as indicated. John I. Dawson, the contractor and builder, who is not a member of the exchange, said he could not imagine anything the builders could have done to create an sentiment among the men in favor of a strike than to pass such a resolution. "It shows they are antagonistic toward the men," said he, "and I cannot see anything in it but a willingness on the part of the builders to fight. There is no doubt that the tinners are the poorest paid men of any employed in the building trades, and I believe they should get their de-

In reference to the probable strike of all the building trades he said: "Let them strike. We feel we could stand to fight them for about a year. It is a matter of principle, and if a strike occurs it will simply resolve itself to a question of en durance. None of the contractors would suffer much from a strike. We have one contract on hand that we are liable to have to cancel unless our strike is settled soon, but all our other work could stand. I think most of the master tinners are in the same

There were no new developments in the tinners' strike yesterday. The master tinners will hold a meeting in the Builders' Exchange to-morrow to talk over the situation. The plasterers' strike will begin this morning. About 200 men will go out. The demands of the journeymen in reference to the apprentices have not been granted, and as the decision of the Master Plumbers Association is against granting the request, the strike is a natural result. It promises to be a prolonged fight, owing to the claim of the master plumbers that there is not much work on hand, and they can get along with what men will not strike. The journeymen will meet to-night to discuss the

HOUSES FOR WILKINSBURG

About 1,000 Expected to be Built in the Town This Summer.

The building boom in Wilkinsburg this eason will exceed anything dreamed of by its inhabitants two or three years ago. The promised electric railway from East Liberty has given a tremendous impetus to the real estate market. Lots that could be bought for $400 last year easily command from $600 to $800 now.

The number of houses to be built this spring and summer will run up into 1,000. One contractor told a DISPATCH reporter last evening that he has a contract for 400, to be completed before the 1st of August The bad weather and mud has delayed operations by making it difficult to haul stone over the roads, but builders are hopeful of getting to work in earnest very soon.

A breakage of the machinery in the Oakland power house, about 8 P. M. yesterday, occasioned the stopping for over 10 minutes of the middle cable on the Fifth avenue line. There was considerable growling at the delay.

MASTER PLUMBERS' DELEGATES. | MINES AND MINING.

Dr. Day, in Charge of the Census Statistics, Visits Pittsburg.

Natural Gas is Estimated by the Amount of Coal Displaced.

PLATINUM BECOMING AS DEAR AS GOLD

Dr. David Day, of the United States Geological · Survey registered at the Duquesne yesterday. The doctor has been assigned the arduous task of collecting the census statistics on mines and mining. His job is a big one when it is remembered that his work includes looking over all the mineral resources of the country, and all the products taken from the earth. Natural gas and petroleum come in his department, and since the last census was taken building stone has been added. It is estimated that this business will aggregate $30,000,000 per vear. The doctor is still a young man, but very capable. He dresses plainly and talks finently. He came here yesterday to see Joseph D. Weeks, who is collecting the local statistics on coal, coke, gas, petroleum and iron. Mr. Weeks went South last evening and he expects to have his job done at the required time. The doctor returned to Washington last evening also.

UNABLE TO GIVE FIGURES. Mr. Weeks said he was not able to give any figures yet, but he has discovered that the coal business has not increased much in this section lately. Dr. Day in speaking of what he had already done said: "The work is about two-thirds accom plished. It covers so much ground that I cannot give any exact data now. There are some curious things in connection with mines and mining. The development of the mineral resources of the country has been enormous in the past ten years. When the last census was taken natural gas was not in it, now this fluid is added. The only way we can get at its worth is by the amount of coal displacement. It has, as you know, almost driven coal out of this market and moved the markets South, West and North. As nearly as I can tell now the and North. As nearly as I can tell now the gas interests will amount to $25,000,000. Oil is something also which was not pro-duced in Allegheny county ten years ago. The production of the county will average about 25,000,000 barrels per year.

COAL MARKET SHIFTING. "One peculiarity about the coal business is the shifting of the market. Gas has come in and spoiled the local trade, but the operators have gone west into Ohio, Illinois and Indiana. The Pittsburg coal being of superior quality has pushed the western coal in turn out of these markets. I even find Illinois coal sold in Indiana, but much of it is shipped to Duluth and other points in the Northwest. This coal is burned extensively in Iowa. The Pittsburg coal has thus created a new market for itself, and in fact a better one than it had when the Gas City was the Smoky City. The development in mining in the South has been remarkable within ten years, and I wonder what will be the results ten years from now. "While on the Pacific Coast recently I was very much interested in the platinum mines. An English firm by a shrewd trick has gobbled the platinum trade in America.

Johnson & Mathews, of London, buy up the product in this country at low prices.
They do this by underselling sometimes, but principally by making the miners believe that their platinum is inferior in quality, and not worth much. BEARS SOHEEZE THEM OUT. "By such bearish methods they succeed in of platinum was failing in Russia, and this use. The manner in which this is being done is interesting. The new bridge is no wider than the old one, but as the work per ounce to $14, and Johnson & fact, helped by a corner which the English per ounce to $14, and Johnson & Mathews predict that it won't be long before the price of platinum is as high as gold. I have been watching this firm's movements New York agent sold his shop and gave out that on account of failing health he would spend a while on the Pacific coast. I feel sure that his whole scheme is to gobble as much platinum territory for this firm as he can mines in Oregon are good, and would pay well if worked. There is no reason why th American market should not be supplied by native platinum." Dr. Day was taking to Washington with him a tan made out of aluminum, which Captain Hunt presented to him. He was very proud of the gift.

J. Bayard Henry, of Philadelphia, one o the owners of the Confluence and Oakland Railroad, was at the Anderson Hotel last evening. ALLEGHENY, PA.

SANTORIO ARRESTED AGAIN. He Kicked the Door of a Fellow Country

man and Was Run In. Josef Santorio enjoyed a brief season of liberty. About five months ago he was released from the penitentiary, where he had served two years for shooting at a woman on Virgin alley. Last evening he was arrested for disorderly conduct, but the charge may be made more serious. Tomaso Pequillo visited the Central station and complained that Santorio had taken forcible possession of his domicile, at No. 27 Webster avenue The two men had been acquainted six years, and when two weeks ago Santorio told Pequillo and Peppo Ambonio that he was about to open a saloon, where they could obtain unlimited credit, he easily borrowed their sayings.

Pequillo loaned Santorio $65 and Ambonio gave up $100. Early last evening Santorio kicked in Pequillo's door and sat down by the stove, calmly declaring that he intended to roost there all night. Santorio has the reputation of being a bad man, and Pequillo started for the Central station on the run. Detective Nick Bendel went up to the house on Webster avenue, jerked Santorio's feet out of the baker and threw him into a patrol wagon. The Italian announced loudly that he would not go and tried to fight, but Nick immediately persuaded him that he was wrong. When searched at the station he was found to have a keen stilletto, about eight inches long. Santorio is a shoemaker by avocation and is said to be a bad man by
