THE LAST ELECTION Frequently Alluded to During the Present Tariff Debate.

ONLY THE FREE USE OF BOODLE,

According to Democrats, Defeated their Favorite Ticket.

THE REPUBLICANS RETORT IN KIND.

Considerably More Politics Than Logic Developed During the Day.

A number of tariff orattors aired their opinions in the House yesterday. The last Presidental election was a favorite topic for discussion. The Democrats deny that the verdict of the people was against revenue reform.

WASHINGTON, May 9 .- The tariff bill was again debated in the House to-day. Mr. Fitch, of New York, was the first speaker. In criticism of Mr. McKinley Mr. Fitch said that having failed to do what he had promised in his speech of two years ago, on the Mills' bill, abo ut tobacco, and done what he had not promised to do about sugar, Mr. McKinley went a step farther and repudiated all his arguments contained in that speech. The bill ways a makeshift to meet a political situation.

Mr. Gear expressed his opposition to any trust or combine formed to enhance the price of the necessaries of life. He believed in following the advice of the Irishman to his son in going to Donnybreok fair, "If you see a head, hit it." Whenever Congress saw the head of a trust, staite it down. The time had come for the American Congress to end the sugar combine by passing the pending bill.

CHEAP SUGAR FOR ALL.

This bill gave the people cheap raw sugar and cheap refined sugar, and destroyed, root and branch, the greatest combine known to the country-a combine which might be called the American devil fish-which had been devouring the substance of the people for almost a century. _ Mr. Crisp, of Georgia, did not believe that to the manufacturer protection had been a beneficial system. As to the laborers in manulacturing establishments, as to the farmers throughout the land, he felt sure that the system had been injurious. The avstem drove out competition. It diminished the number of producers of a given article and increased the ease and facility with which they could combine to elevate the price. Mr. Crisp, having declared that the reduction in the prices of shoes and other useful articles was due not to the tariff, as asserted by the Republican party, but to in-vention, Mr. Walker, of Massachusetts, vention, Mr. Walker, or massacruster, asked if it were not the tariff which had caused inventions to be made here in such splendor and prolificness.

THE AMERICAN INVENTOR.

Mr. Crisp denied this and declared that no legislation that could be passed could prevent American enterprise from cheapening the necessities of life. It was absurd to ascribe invention to protection.

Mr. Walker-Can you conceive anything that goes turther in the line of protection than a patent? Mr. Crisp-The theory of the patent law is to stimulate the genius of invention and the Government says to a man, "If you will discover anything that is useful to mankind we will agree that you shall have the monopoly of its sale for 17 years." The patent system gives to an individual that which is his by reason of discovery. Protection takes from the farmer by force that which is his by reason of labor.

The majority of the Ways and Means Committee, said Mr. Crisp, continuing, was farmer that it had put a duty on his products, when the truth was that that would do him no good. The way to benefit the farmer was to give him free salt, to give him free cotton ties and to reduce the price of the necessaries of life.

insurance companies carrying on business. Several times during the past 15 years com binations have been formed among them to raise the insurance rates and to lower the brokers' commissions. But each time there has been a collapse owing to the secret practices of certain other smaller companies in privately cutting rates. The last combina tion fell through in April 1887. Ever since that break there has been quiet

The application was made the proposed site for the library and go over to Justice Pratt, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, in behalf of the bondholders and stockholders, and James K. O. Sherwood, of Glen Cove, was appointed. Under a bond of $50,000 he will take possession of the property as trustee, collect the debts. put the property in repair, and operate the hotels. The deposition of Austin Corbin was among the papers submitted. Mr. Cor-bin said he had been familiar with the property for 20 years. For the last two years especially it had suffered from the action of the ses, and in September last, during the phenomenally high tide, a large amount of damage had been done. of repairs, and it was necessary to borrow money for running expenses. The receiver will foreclose a mortgage of $1,000,000 on the property. The bonds are at 7 per cent, but the company is to be reorganized with a new issue of bonds at 4 per cent, and the de-ficiency will be made up to the bondholders in additional stock. The hotel will open as usual this season.

Pearl NORWICH, N. Y., May 9 .- The porch of an old-fashioned farmhouse in the neighboring town of Otselic was recently the scene of the fulfilment of one of the longest marriage engagements on record. Nineteen years ago Miss Della Newton, then 17 years of age, lived with her parents in the house.

In a neighboring farmhouse lived Arthur R. Tucker, who had just attained his mapledged to the principle of protection, and offered a sop to the farmer. It said to the former that is the dame of the farmer. It said to the former that is the farmer of and he decided to go his fortune, and when he had acquired it, return and claim the girl as his wire. The overs parted at the porch of the old farmhouse, he giving and she accepting a plain gold ring as a mutual pledge of enduring ffection and constancy. The young man settled in Richmond and buckled bravely to work. But fate was cruel, and for many long years sickness and other mis/ortunes interposed a bar to the nuptials. At last his luck chaoged, and he struck a high tide of prosperity. Then he hastened back to Chenango county to claim the betrothed who for 19 years had faith ully awaited his coming. They were united in wedlock by the Rev. J. A. Packard in the Evidence was next introduced to show that as soon as Claassen secured possession of the bank's assets, he, through his agents, turned them over to parties who paid the checks with which the bank was bought. Witness declared that, when he turned over the bank to defendant, he had every reason to believe that Claassen had qualified as his successr to the presidency. Andrew E. Colson said he was cashier of the bank on the 22d of January, 1890. " It was the Sixth National Bank. On that day the assets of the bank amounted to $2,-569,000. The surplus was between $450,-000 and $500,000. The capital stock was $200,000. On January 25, President Class-

Claassen said they would get as security for the loans New York Central and Delaware ackawanna and Western, while as a mater of fact no security was received until five days later, and then it was not that mentioned by Mr. Claassen. The $622,000 bond which Claassen gave Pell, Wallack & Co. were taken without the witness' knowl-edge. This is the $622,000 mentioned in

A MATTER OF HISTORY.

Mr. McMillin-I didn't intimate anything. I said it was a part of history.

Mr. Payne-I notice that my friend did not say anything about his Presidental candidate and his Cabinet officers who stepped up to the captain's office and settled in violation of the civil service law. [Appl: use and laughter.] Of course that money was to charter canal boats and not to buy vo tes.

Mr. Payne then proceeded to argue in support of the bill, especially those feature which he contended would be of benefit to farmers. Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama, spoke against the bill, and then the committee rose and the House took a recess till 8

A Brewery Agent and a Hackman Arrested for Being the Conspirators.

SALT LAKE, May 9 .- Henry Hoffheimer, acent of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing As sociation branch here, and Hackman Eberly are under arrest charged with the abduction of Myrtle A. Wellington, a young lady of this city. Hoffheimer had been paying rattention to the girl, and about two weeks a:ro Eberly, the hackman, went down to the girl's house and called her out. She got into his back after a few words with him, without taking the trouble to go back in to the house for her hat or cloak. Since that time no trace has been had of the girl, and her mother is wild with grief. She employed a detective without result, and failed on application to the Chief o Police to get any help from him. She then put the case in the hands of United States officials, and arrests followed.
