HOPE FOR THE TIN PLATE TARIFF

Max Moorhead, the iron manufacturer, went to Philadelphia last evening. He is one of the heaviest stockholders in the Monongahela Navigation Company, and is not any too well pleased with the Government, or the prices offered by Uncle Sam.

"I think," he began, in giving his views on the subject, "that Congress had better wait until the question over Lock No. 6 is settled by the courts before it attempts to buy any more. If we don't get satisfaction in this country, we will go higher, and it will be a long time before the views appointed allowed us $200,000 for the dam now in question, but the Government refused to pay anything for the franchise, and this is the point to be settled first."

Mr. Moorhead said that the iron men in the iron and steel industry are disappointed and are doing some kicking, but he thought the present ways and means Committee had done very well in pleasing so many.

The prospects are that the plumbers' strike will be settled in a day or two, as indicated in yesterday's DISPATCH. It is understood that Contractor Tate, who has the big job at Wilmerding, is being pushed by the owners of the work, and unless he can finish it pretty soon the contract will be canceled and given to another master plumber, who has already agreed to the demands of the men, but who is not a member of the Master Plumbers' Association.

ONE THING TO BOTHER HIM. The only question that is bothering Mr. Tate is, what will be the action of the association in case he signs the scale and puts his men to work?

Mr. Tate is, what will be the action of the association in case he signs the scale and puts his men to work? He is afraid it will work against him in the future. It is said he had a conference with some of the journeymen on Saturday in regard to the matter, and that he asked them if they would stand with him and protect him against any action the Plumbers' Association might take in case he signed the scale.

THE IDEAL CHURCH. Dev. Dr. J. G. Townsend's Ideas of What It Will and Ought to Be.

POPULAR PLEASURES OF SOCIETY. Denounced by a Preacher Who Will Combat Them All Summer.

OTHER PULPIT TOPICS OF YESTERDAY. Dr. Townsend said in his sermon yesterday morning: "Ordained priests, nuns, and all other buildings do not constitute a church."

Dr. Townsend said in his sermon yesterday morning: "Ordained priests, nuns, and all other buildings do not constitute a church. Wherever there is an assemblage of men and women, with the sense of brotherhood, the yearning for the perfect, aspiration for the infinite, a deep hunger for the highest truth, there is the real church. Even if, with no roof but the sky, two men with this spiritual yearning clasp hands, the true church is born. But the ideal church will have, not a dogmatic, but a scientific basis. The cardinal ideas of God, freedom and immortality will be taught; these ideas, however, are subject to revision and nobler interpretation with the expanding universe and growing intelligence of men, for even ethics must have a scientific basis; its central principle must be the moral sentiment is lost in sentimentality."

It was deemed best to strengthen it with steel cables only, and to have the cables arranged in a way that would not doubt about its stability.
