A BACHELOR'S HOME

To be Built on Fifth Avenue, Between High and Tunnel Streets.

IT WILL BE ON THE NEW YORK STILE

The bachelors of Pittsburg are to be congratulated. An enterprising citizen is about to erect a handsome five-story building exthe city. The site of this refuge for the distressed Jennesse doree, is situated in the pany, and other well-known breweries. square bounded by Flith avenue, Tunnel street, Old avenue and High street. The building will measure 120 feet by 30, and, Military and Civic Parades With a Display as has been stated, will consist of five stories. Its principal entrance is to be located on Fifth avenue, and it will extend back to

The plans are being prepared by a wellwork of tearing down the houses now occu-historical parade.

The parade will consist of civil, military pying the site will be at once begun. A well-known Allegheny contractor will take in hand the building operations. The ground floor of this bachelor's home stories, with the greater part of the fifth story, will be devoted to suits of apartments for the bachelors.

In the fifth story a restaurant birely story and surrounding towns to participate in the semi-centennial parade. The meeting adjourned to meet on Friday evening. etc., are to be tried, more as an experimen than anything else. The whole cost of erection will be defrayed by the present owne of the site, and he intends to conduct the building single-handed. As in the new St. Nichotas law building on Grant street, both brick and stone will be used, and a hand-some front is promised. Although the surroundings are somewhat unfavorable, it is confidently expected by the owner that his flats will "take" in Pittsburg. "The bachelors will find them," he said yesterday, to a DISPATCH representative, "more commodious and much cheaper than hotel rooms. The plan of bachelor flats has proved wonderfully successful in the metropolis, and I think it is going to be equally so in Pittsburg.
The part of Fifth avenue in which my bachelor's home will stand, is going to be the business center of our city one of these days. Anyway the best method improving a neighborhood is not by talking about its squalor, but by building in it. From private reasons the future proprietor of the pioneer bachelor flats prefers that his name shall not be divulged for the present. The ground to be occupied is near the old Obio and Pittsburg Milk Depot. The gentieman who will erect the building says he will spend $30,000 upon it, but until several negotiations are closed up he refuses to give

A Boarder Who Did Not Accept Good Advice With Humble Mien.

William Robinson will have a hearing before Alderman McMasters to-morrow on a charge of assault and battery, entered against him by William Hanna, of No. 36 Hazel street. Robinson was a boarder in the Hanna household, but left the house, The prosecutor claims that while Robin son did no actual harm he was a trifle too familiar in general and was advised to that effect. He did not accept the necusation with humility. When Hanna came into the Aiderman's office he bore the appearance of a man who had passed, and not un-

Protection From an Alleged Lunntic. Leonard Ukaker, a resident of Duquesne, was yesterday arrested by Constable Heiner, of Alderman McMusters' office, on a charge of surety of the peace made by August Wesser. The prosecutor claims that he was attacked by Ukaker with the intention to take is life, and as he believes his assailant to be insane, the information was made to have his mental condition determined. Ukaker was committed to iail. Pittsburg Concerns. A meeting of about ten Pittsburg brewers was held yesterday in the Hotel Du-quesne. It is said that Mr. Eberhardt, had assembled to meet Mr. I. Van D. Reed, said to be the member of an old New York brewing firm. Mr. Reed's firm is not in the Brewers' Association. It was rumored extensively that some Pittsburg brewers are thinking of sell-ing out. Mr. Reed was extremely to erect a handsome five-story building exclusively for their use and benefit. The new structure is to be divided into flats, which will be rented to the unmarried males of

A MOST BEAUTIFUL DISPLAY.

A Gilmpse of the Wonderful Millinery

Joseph Horne & Co.'s. Birds, flowers, laces, ribbons and women reigned supreme in the artistic little parlor of Messrs. Joseph Horne & Co. yesterday. It was their opening of summer millinery, and such a distractingly beautiful display as their pattern hats made has never been could in the city. equaled in the city. There were all the latest Parisian and London novelties from the snake bonnet, consisting of a black bended serpent wound around the head in such a way as to suggest the posing for a spring, to the immense Gainsborough, which is always so becoming. A glimpse at the various designs shown fairly dazzled one for a minute, but served to foreshadow the entire scope of this summer's millinery.

One exquisite novelty in that line, though neither a bonnet nor a hat, is the floral boa, at the seashore, and is a distracting mass of ox-eyed daisies and white ostrich tips. The Gainsborough is inseparable from this bon, and when combined with the beauty of a fair wearer the com-bination is irresistible. These bons are "just out" and may be manufactured in any flower, American beauties, pansies, crush roses or water lilies, and in either are very effective. One of the prettiest hats on exhibition was a black tuscan turban, one of Redlern's conceits with four white swal-lows perched for the "homeward fly" on the crown. A sailor hat, which is to be the July hat for street wear, shown was a decided novelty with an open work crown of horse hair trimmed with corn-colored and white gauze ribbou and a graceful bunch of sweet peas. A bonnet that will grace a middle-aged woman is composed of drawn crepe de chene, the tront of which is adorned with a large

Alsatian bow of heliotrope velvet fairly sparkling with irridescent beads, which form a network over it. on the real English hats narrow black velvet ties are always to be found, but they no longer form a bow under the chin or no longer form a bow under the chin or at the side of the face, but are crossed and taken to the back of the head to meet the toque, there being confined with a jewcled dart pin. One extremely pretty hat, in illustration of that, was a lemon-colored muslin de soie crown, with a canary-colored border with a large Alsatian bow of point dutchess lace held i place by massive gold ornaments. The whole completed with a band of black velvet next to the face and the narrow black velvet A handsome English turban in black with high side trimming of light blue velvet poppies, banded with an oriental lace of gilt and turquois was one of the pretties things shown. An orchid bonnet, one of the rarest and most striking, was seen com-posed of Aubergne velvet, one of the new pansy shades, and the entire crown one mass of the most natural orchids imaginable. Another hat that excited much admiring comment was of Gobe-lin blue tuscan made in whorls and crowned with black chantilly lace and wreathed with Gobelin blue birds. An entirely new idea was developed in the Spanish hat of tuscan straw trimmed with hummingbirds and cowslips and with a lace mantilla attached at the back to be worn draped over face and shoulders. The preceding are only a few of the many ex quisite creations that were to be seen and that may be patterned from, while at the continuation of the opening to-day any number of periectly fresh importations will be on ex-
