The object of the silver men was to jurnish more money and stop contraction; to relieve the debtor and stop contraction; to releve the dector and producer and to preserve to the people their rights of property and liberty. The friends of silver had been misunder-stood. They had been represented as silver barons, desiring to unload their product on the Government. If silver was not needed as money, the sooner that fact was known the better, because the supply of silver on hand for other purposes was sufficient for 50 years. The Republican party had incorporated in its national platform a declara-tion in favor of both gold and silver, and condemning the policy of the Democratic administration in its efforts to demonstize silver.
