(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) BROOKLYN, May 24.—Ned Hanlon's team were away off in their fielding in the early part of the game on the Eastern Park grounds with the Brooklyn (P. L.) club to-day, and the errors that were made by Fields and Kuehne were responsible for four of the runs that Ward's men scored. The visitors then settled Ward's men scored. The visitors then settled down to their work, and the cortest began to get very interesting as the Smoky City players be-gan to hit the ball safe and hard, and were close upon their opponents, but the Brooklyus got a streak of batting in the last two innings, and clinched their victory by adding three more runs to their account. Most of the Brooklyns' hits were so badily extremed that they would have were so badly scattered that they would have

Dailey and King started in to pitch for their respective sides, but the former was so wild and the latter batted so hard that each were withdrawn and Kilroy and Barston substituted. Chicago obtained a strong lead in the first three innings, but were passed by the Bostons in the chird and fourth. In the ninth, with the score 8 to 7 in favor of Boston and two men on bases, and two men out and two strikes cailed. Comissey hit to left center. FRANK STILL TALKS

Secretary Brunell Has a Few Words to Say to Mr. *paiding. CHICAGO, May 24 .- Secretary Brunel, of the Baseball Brotherhood, in an interview this after noon, replied at length to yesterday's interview with President Spalding, of the Chicago League

Among other things he says: "Through A. G. Spalding's 'intest' there runs the same old strain of pessimism so apparent in his sensational declaration some three weeks ago. It says plainly that the 'old League' would rather wreck the game of baseball than permit it to prosper in other hands than their own-hands, by the way, which in these days, are greedly pervous in their desire to get all the dollars as they got all those of the last five seasons. Baseball cannot be talked to death. As operated by the Players' League to-day, it is in less danger than under the regime serve rule and nurse-the-gate tactics."

In regard to Mr. Spaiding's expression of doubt cannot be excused for circulating it, because he cannot be excused for circulating it, because he could have found out the exact truth. Our financial men will compare very favorably with some of the old League's backers. Spaiding's figures are as had as his facts—picked out to suit his purpose and mislead the public. Not one player in the Players' League has complained of its gate receipts, not one of our players has declared that he could not get his salary, and we haven't to hold any secret meetings and put financial salve on the wounds of our crippies. The old League cannot say this with truth."

In reply to Mr. Spaiding's declaration of war against the Brotherhood, he says: "For such a brave man, Mr. Spaiding shouts very pitifully. He will get all the war he wants. His declaration, therefore, is unnecessary, and reminds one of the brave man, Mr. Spaiding shouts very pitifully. He will get all the war he wants. His declaration, therefore, is unnecessary, and reminds one of the feverish desire to fight on the part of the fellow who could not run away. However, J. P. O'Neil, of Pittsburg, shouted as boildy as Mr. Spaiding shouts less than a month ago. Yet he was the first magnate to cry 'enough.' The old story about baseball being built up by the National League after Hyears of hard work against crooked and dirty ball, lack of discipline and general demoralization, is again told. Mr. Spaiding protests too much. The National League did good work for about eight years after 1876. Then its men got the song of gold in their cars and began to do bad work. Everything was subordinated to money-making, and at last the worm turned. Mr. S-aiding's prediction as to the length of life of the Players' National League is funny. But there is magnificence in its humor. To me it seems to mark the limits of the old monopolistic League's fight. If it has fair luck up to Decoration Day, it will not change its schedule, and the second stage of this bitter war is to last until July 4. Spaiding need uever opine that the Players' League will weaken in the face of z foe."

In answer to Mr. Spaiding's declaration that Sunday rames, beer and demoralization will be the outcome. Secretary Branell says: "Mr.
Spaiding knows this to be untrue. There are

The glove contest between Paddy McBride and Mike Dugan, instevening at Braddock, was exceedingly disappointing. The crowd was too small to satisfy the contestants and they declined go of four rounds.

In the first round McBride gave Dugan two terrific thumps on the side of the face which virtually ended the contest. The other three rounds were of little interest. The referee awarded the contest to McBride.

"Reculy" Mason called at this office last evening and stated that he will fight Dugan for a stake at 118 pounds. Mason will be at Tug DISPATCH office to-morrow night to make a match.

glorious victory over the Atalanta crew of New York this noon, winning by eight lengths, in 20:17, and with the captain and stroke oar out of the boat after the first mile and a half, of the boat after the first mile and a half. The water, which was very rough in the morning, sub-sided wonderfully after 12 o'clock, and at 12:30 Referee Garfield ordered the two crews out. The harbor was alive with craft of all kinds and many steamers and tugs followed the crews after the start. Yale secured the inside position, though there was little choice, as the course lay diagonally across the harbor. The start was made at 12:40.

A GOOD START.

The Atalantas took the water first and jumped into a lead of half a length. They increased this lead to three-quarters of a length at the first quarter. Then the strong barebacked boys of Yale got in some good work, and when the three-quarters was reached the shells were side by side. At the mile stake hale was a length in front, and for the remainder of the race the Yale crew studied the stroke of the Atalantas. At the mile and half what looked like a fatal accident happened to Yale. Allen, the captain, and stroke, broke his oar. But with the recovery he shot out of the boat and into the water, ite was picked up by the referree's boat, but it left the Yale crew with but seven men and without a stroke and captain.

SPURTED IN VAIN. A GOOD START. SPURTED IN VAIN.

The Atalantas now spurted, but the Yale boys showed their sand by answering, and the Ata-lantas could not draw up at all. This spurt conlantas could not draw up at all. This spurt continued until the two mile stake was reached, and after that the Atalana crew was not in it, aithough they rowed pluckily to the fluish.

The Yale eight, of seven men, continued to walk away from the crack New York eight, despite the fact that Yale was stroked by a freshman, Ives. As it became apparent that Yale would win, the diu of whisiles and college yells was frightful. The whole harbor from was lined with 10,000 people cheering for Yale.

Yale crossed the line in 20:17 and Atalanta in 20:42. This is the first defeat ever suffered by the Atalanta crew, and the men, while ackewiedging having been well beaten, do not relish it at all.

There was no trouble in starting them, and at the first tap of the drum the flag fell and the horses were away. Bill Letcher led by half a length, Riley second, and Avondale a close third. Bill Letcher kept his lead until passing the stand, when Kiley moved up and held the lead under a strong double pull. All the jockeys were pulling hard. Riley increased the distance between himself and Bill Letcher, who led Avondale by a hoad. A syndicate of New York and Boston yachtsmen

The fight was for $50 a side and was a very game seven-round battle in which heavy singring took the place of acleuce. Both men were badly punished. They fought at 135 pounds. The winner was cut about the face and head and bruised about the ribs, heing well singged. While the loser received similar treatment, he was the most scienced man and contested his opponent with ease, so say his friends. The outlook is good for the men to come together again for a larger amount.

OARSMAN AL HAMM wants all the credit due him for fast sculling. While on his recent Southern trip, in company with Gaustaur, Hoamer and Ten Eyck, he showed remarkable speed for short distances, and in a quarter-mile dash for the prize offered by Mr. J. A. St. John, it was announced publicly that he made the fastest time on record for that distance. The accuracy of the timing has been questioned, so Hamm has obtained four affidavits to substantiate his claim. These affidavits are made, respectively, by the surveyor of the course, the timers, ludges and referee of the race. Hamm says: 'I have gone to considerable trouble to get the affidavits, and I now feel that the record will be allowed. The conditions under which the race was rowed were good, and I see no reason why some good amateur cannot equal it. I seel confident that, if put to a test, I can row one-quarter of a mile in I minute and 10 seconds, or better.

"Why don't you back her for a good, round sum, if she can do what you claim she can?" he asked. "That would prove that you had confidence in her, but as it it is—."

"See here, my friend," said the other, with a twinkle in his eye, "don't you know me well enough to know that I'm too modest to bet on my own nag, especially when I feel sure that she can't come out ahead?"

When a man knows he can accomplish what he undertakes, he doesn't feel too modest to say so. When Dr. Pierce put his "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms, commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.
