EVENTS OF A DAY IN NEARBY TOWNS

"SPECIAL TRLEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] JOHNSTOWN, May 30 .- The banks, city offices and other public places of busines were closed all day, and this afternoon business throughout the town was generally suspended. A very solemn feeling prevailed, as the thoughts of the people involuntarily reverted to Decoration Day a year ago, which was the last day upon earth for thousands of Johnstown's citizens. The finding of the body of James M. Rosensteel, one of the most prominent residents of the place, at the expiration of the year is a vivid reminder of the flood. A number of organizations took part in the parade, and the exercises were performed in the usual manner. The floral emblem marked to the "Unknown Dead" was a large Maltese cross, and as it was stiently borne along in the procession, attracted the attention of every one. Although intended only for the soldier dead, it had a realistic significance to thousands of families who witnessed the pageant, as it of families who witnessed the pageant, as it brought wividly to their minds that their dead were yet "unknown." The exercises were all appropriately solemn, but as this floral tribute passed along stiffed sols and sighs could be heard from the people lining the streets, and many checks were wet with tears. It was the welling up of a flood of memorics which have been stiffed back for a year past, and was a very affecting scene. The people could but re-member how their lost friends reverently took part in the exercises of the day one year ago.

ago. Ex-Congressman Brum delivered a touching address, which was listened to by a large crowd. The day was pleasant but the streets were not crowded, the people seemingly giving them-selves up to meditation.

PROGRAMME AT SCOTTDALE.

SCOTTDALE-To-day was appropriately observed in this place by the G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps, S. O. V. and civic organizations. which, headed by the G. A. R.Cornet Band of this place, marched to the Scottdale Cometery this place, marched to the Scottdale Cemetery this forenoon, and decorated the graves of their dead comrades. They returned to the Central Opera House, and were addressed by the Rev. Alexander McArthur, the orator of the day. Everything passed off pleasantly, and a large crowd participated. New CaSTLE-Decoration Day was appro-printely observed in this place. There was a big parade of old soldiers, headed by the Citi-ters and, and an oration at the cemetery by the Rev. Dr. Squires, of Epworth M. E. Church. Post 100, G. A. R., had charge of the services this year, and decided not to invite the civic proteities, as they thought that day was being made a day of rejoicing instead of a day to commemorate the memory of the heroes who cell in batle.

WAYNESBURG-Memorial Day was observed here with more enthusiasm than for several years past. The services were under the charge of McCullough Post, G. A. R., and were participated in by a number of other organiza-tions and many citizens. In the foremoon the post, headed by Semple's Military Band, marched to Morrisville Cemetery, one mile east of this place, where a number of the bravest soldners of Greene county are burled, to decorate their graves. In the afternoon a large procession was formed, consisting of G. A. R. Post 307, Company K. N. G. P.; Sons of Veterans, Odd Fellows, Free Masons, and Royal Arcanum lodges; the various Sunday schools of the town, college students, oid sol-diers and the citizens generally. About 1,500 people in all were in line. They marched to the cemeterf, where appropriate exercises were held. Rev. W. H. Giadden, of East Liver-WAYNESBURG-Memorial Day was observed the connetery, where appropriate exercises were held. Rev. W. H. Giadden, of East Liver-poid, O., was the orator of the occasion. The day was also observed at Greensboro. Carmi-chaels, Jefferson, Rogersville and other places in the county. in the county

QUIET DAY IN WHEELING.

WHEELING - Decoration Day was very quietly observed here to-day. All of the public offices, city, county and Federal, were closed, and there was a general exodus to picnics at the parks, fair grounds, etc. In the morning the G. A. R. and S. O. V. and Woman's Relief Corps visited the various cemeteries and strewed the graves of the many dead with the curve on their new track at the corner of the most prominent street in the city, to avoid the rush in the daytime. The total amount of money spent in building operations since the flood is estimated at fully $1,000,000. The Cambria Iron Works and the Johnson works are running full time, giving employment to thousands of workmen, and the place is indeed a busy field of industry. The banks have more money on deposit than ever nefore: real estate is higher than before the flood, and altogether the people seem to be prosperous.

hood, and altogener the people scene to prosperous. But the citizens, as well as the strangers, think of other things than the material pros-perity of the place on the anniversary of the flood. They remember with a shudder all of the untoid horrors that have been encountered during the past year, and hundreds of relatives think of their own whose bones yet lie undis-covered beneath acres of sand, over what was the most populous portion of the town.
