WHEAT IS DECLINING.

The Northwestern Miller Takes a Bearish View of the Situation.

Scarcity of Live Stock in Western Pennsylvania Counties.

THE HARDWARE TRADE VERY GOOD

OFFICE OF PITTSBURG DISPATCE, TUESDAY, June 10, 1890. The current number of the Minneapolis Miller gives a rather bearish view of the wheat and flour situation in the Northwest. Many of the large flour milis have been curtailing the output for the past week. Says the Miller: "The wheat market has been active all the past week, but there has been a declining tendency. We have had a weather market all week. Paid experts have been traveling through the wheat sections, and are too often paid to make special reports that may serve to confirm previously expressed views. Late heavy rains through the wheat belt have been very favorable to the growing wheat crop, and there is a general surprise that there has not been a greater decline in prices. Advices from Glasgow, London and Liverpool are that demand for four is extremely limited, and at the latter place there has been a decline of 6d on wheat. Crop reports from all parts of Europe are at this date very favorable."

A week ago No. 1 northern spot wheat was selling at Minneapolis at 90% to 90%. Now it ranges around the 88c figure. The effect of these depressing influences in the great wheat and flour sections is felt in our market by weakening tendencies, and there is little doubt of a drop in flour before the week is out. Authentic rumors are affect that our flour jobbers are affected when the results of a drop in flour before the week is out. A Butler county cattle dealer, in an interview yesterday, said: "Pittsburg live stock stock markets are every year becoming more dependent on the West for supplies. A few years ago it was not an uncommon thing for me to have from 75 to 100 head of cattle at a time for this market. Of late great oil developments have so increased population that the farmers can find markets for their stock at their own doors. Bosides this, farmers are not raising as much live stock as in former years. Western Pennsylvania has seen its best days as a cattle-raising section. Other things pay better. It now looks as though it would not be many years until live stock farms through the region within 50 miles of this city would become a thing of the past.

In Hardware Lines.

In Hardware Lines. The carriage hardware trade of this city was never in better condition than it is now. There are four firms in the city engaged in this line, and all are as busy as bees. Said a member of one of these firms to-day: "Orders are coming so fast of late that all hands are kept cling, and the days are not long enough to finish up our necessary work."

Similar reports are received from jobbers of regular hardware. Volume of trade was never greater than it has been for the past few months, though in many lines of hardware margins are uncomfortably narrow.

Grain and Flour Exchange was held yesterday. The report of the President showed a slight decrease in the membership, but the renewed activity of the members made up for this loss. President McCague said: "We are glad to see the daily press represented among us, and I take the opportunity for thanking them for publishing reliable market reports." The Treasurer's report showed a slight deficit, but it is of little comequence. The decrease in the business was attributed largely to the fact that the street car times had dispensed with horses, but notwithstanding this the business has increased 7 percent since last year.

The Superintendent's report follows: Showed the amount of merchandise handled by the members of this exchange during the past year will compare favorably with any year since its organization. The receipts of the year were as follows: Flour, 469,800 barrels, increase 22,500; wheat 1,319,400 bushels, increase 2,600; oats 3,340,000 bushels, increase 439,000; rye 573,500, increase 169,750; barley 672,310 bushels, decrease 2.7740; mal 250,200 bushels, increase 2,265; hay, 38,488 tons, decrease 17,400. Thus flour and grain, with the exception of barley, show a handsome increase, while hay and mill-feed show a material falling off.

The following were selected to act as a Board of Managers for the ensuing year: James Herron, R. D. Elwood, R. S. McCague, Peter Veil, John Hood, David Whitemyer, R. McCracken, J. C. Houck, D. G. Stewart, S. L. McHenry, B. F. Vench, S. B. Patterson and Jeremiah Dunley,

MANY ACRES BOUGHT.

The Inside of Syndicate Operations in the Twenty-Third Ward.

A SHORTER ROUTE TO HOMESTEAD.

Andrew Carnegie Said to be Quietly Pishing for the City Poor Farm.

RIVER BRIDGE AND A BIG CUT-OFF

While real estate dealers and buyers generally have given their attention to property surrounding Schenley Park and contiguous to the entrance to it, a syndicate of people equally anxious to get as much of the earth as possible, have been quietly buying in another direction. A number of names are given as embracing the syndicate, but the only thing positive is that a large amount of land has been purchased within the past two weeks in the Twenty-third ward, beginning near Brown station, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and running along and near Saline and Greenfield avenues.

The purchases include the lands of J. J.
Stoer, Ira M. Burchfield, Hill Burgwin, John McEiroy, John D. Soully, E. and H. Walker, Frank Kohne, the House estate and many others that could not be obtained for the reason that several other deals are pending.

The Brown estate was wanted, but it is understood the owners refused to sell, although they sold quit claims on all coal interests they had on the syndicate property in that section of the city, and granted rights of way through their property for a steam or electric railway.

One purpose of this syndicate, which now controls from 300 to 400 acres of land, is to shorten the distance between Homestead and the Court House 834 miles by bridging the river at or near Brown's station, at sufficient height on this side of the river to reach the bluff bank at Brown's, and make the grade easy along the northern line of Calvary Cemetery. The great bend in the Monongahela river at Glenwood is thus cut off, and the distance to Homestead shortened between 3 and 4 miles. The route, as before stated, is through the Brown estate, North of the new cemetery to Hazelwood ave-North of the new cemetery to Hazelwood avenue, thence along Greenfield avenue and through the Twenty-second and Fourteenth wards to Craft avenue, where it becomes a part of the Duquesne Electric or Pittsburg Traction road, as may be decided on.

The charter for the bridge was obtained by

Mr. Burchfield, who is said to represent the syndicate; at least he secured most of the land.
W. A. Herron & Sons had a 30-acre tract on their books a month age; they haven't got it now, and it is fair to assume it has been gob-bled. S. W. Black has lately increased his holdings there, and Mr. Larkin, of J. B. Larkin & Co., admitted that he represented 28 acres, but nothing further could be got out of him. He bought the Kohne orchard, on Hazelwood avenue, embracing about 12 acres, two months ago, and the syndicate now owns it. He would neither affirm nor deny the purchase or sale.

This opens up a new territory, and puts Homestead practically within the city limits. It is said by some that the intention is to head off the Second Avenue Electric Railway Com-pany and its proposed connection with Home-stead by ferry, and to provide transit for the people along Greenfield, Forward, Hazelwood people along Greenfield, Forward, Hazelwood and Saline avenues. A gentleman who lives in that part of the city said yesterday that the Sunday travel to the Park and Calvary Cemetery alone would pay the expense of a properly equipped passenger railway, to say nothing of the immense advantages of such a line to the people and manufacturing concerns in and about Homestead.

Whether the proposed sale of the City Farm at Homestead has any significance in this connection is one of the things that "no fellow can find out." It was stated yesterday by a reliable gentleman that the farm would probably pass into the possession of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, gentleman that the farm would probably pass into the possession of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, who has opened negotiations for its purchase.

The prices paid by the syndicate for the land they have already acquired range from $1,000 to $2,500 per acre, which is considered quite reasonable, considering the possibilities of improvement and consequent enhancement in value.

A number of Haralwood avenue property

A number of Hazelwood avenue property owners had secured a charter for a railway from the top of the hill to Second avenue, and thought of commencing operation in July, but the proposed cut-off has knocked this enter-prise on the head.

More About Parunesus. The Parnassus manufacturing and town scheme, which has been referred to in this column, promises to be one of the big things in which Pittsburg is directly interested. The which Pittsburg is directly interested. The prime mover in the project manages to keep in the background, but THE DEFATCH was again informed yesterday that at least 400 to 600 acres have been sold, the information coming indirectly from the former owners of the tracts. The market soon shot up to $2%, but later on weakened to $0% on Oil City selling, recovering in the last few minutes and finishing at $1%. The pipe line report was less bullish than expected, and had very little influence on the market. It shows a net decrease in stocks to June 16, of 137,434 barrels.

The Bellevernon Light and Heat Company has a well near Rider No. 3, which has made a good showing in the Big Injun sand. It is already producing as much gas as Carson No. 1. When the lower sand is reached, a big pressure is expected.

After All the Territory. The Smith No. 1, in Robinson township, has een shot, and now makes ten barrels an hour. Oil men in that territory are making strenuous efforts to secure more territory, and are taking efforts to secure more territory, and are taking every available farm. A test well will be drilled on the old Noble farm in the west end of the township, on Campbell's run, now occupied by James Reed. Several more wells are being drilled on Montour run.

MIDSUMMER DULLNESS

Settled Down Temporarily on Wall Street-Speculators Awaiting the Outcome of Sliver Legislation in Congress-London Loses its Grip.

New York, June 10.—The strong temper of the market at the close yesterday was not carried over until this morning, as London prices were lower, and the opening of this market was slightly lower in sympathy. The silver legislation still continues to be the most important subject of interest in Wall street, and the general feeling is that something will be done at this seasion, although the bears try to make all the uncertainty possible upon that point. The disposition is, however, on all sides to await definite action by the Senate before entering into new ventures, and the market has sunk into the regular midsummer duliness for the time being, although as a rule there is no lack of attendance at the board. Duliness usually invites attacks by the trading element, and the selling to-day was principally by that class of operators though they do not lat declines to invites attacks by the trading element, and the selling to-day was principally by that class of operators, though they do not let declines go far, and cover up quickly upon any sign of renewed strength in the market. The market showed great lack of interest to-day, and only in the Villards, the Trusts and Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, Richmond and West Point, Lackawanna and a few specialties was there any life shown. The early depression disappeared immediately with the open-Black & Baird sold to Charles Clendenning lot 62 in D. H. Barr's plan in the Twenty-first ward, having a frontage of 25 feet on the south side of Tioga street by 101 feet in depth to a 15-foot alley, for $500 cash. They also sold for J. Walter Hay lot 15 in the plan of Valley View place for $575. The purchaser was Harvey H. Bligley.

Pacific Coast and later when the price was let off there were rumors of a decision in the Sugar case by the Court of Appears. The fluctuations, however, were evidently the results of manipulation, pure and simple, that they had no effect for good or evil upon the regular list. Rumors of a propessed lease of the Missouri Pacific by parties in the interest of Archison, attracted some attention but had no apparent effect upon the stock of either company. Oregon Transcontinental and Northern Pacific preferred were the feathres of the regular list, both being active and strong. Reading also came into prominence late in the day but its movements with those of Richmond and West Point were not specially important. The high prices attained during the forencen invited some realizations with hammering by the traders and the late dealings developed a weaker tone with material reactions in some of the leading stocks.

The close was fairly steady and generally at small fractions better than the opening prices. The final changes are irregular, but generally in the direction of higher figures, though in all but a few cases for small fractions only. Sugar is up 3½ per cent, but Chicago Gas is off. 1%.

Railroad bonds were a shade more active, the sales aggregating $1,456,000, but the activity in Reading 4s, which countributed $172,000 to the total, was the only special feature of the day. The same firm tone existed, but the changes in quotations were still upon the same limited scale. The advances include Indianapolia, Decatur and Western Ists, 2 to 97.

The Post says: Much interest is felt in the street in regard to the sale in the city of Baltimore of its B. & O. stock, and especially with regard to who or what corporation is likely to come into the control of the railroad. Most persons have thought that the purchase of the block of stock from the city of Baltimore was made in the interest of either the Richmond Terminal Company or the Northern Pacific. We have, however, the most trustworthy information that neither of these corporations is interested in the purchase, but, on the constant, that the Garrett interest formed the nuclus of a syndicate which has bought the stock of the city of Baltimore for the purpose of maintaing the independence of the Baltimore and Ohio instead of allowing it to fall into the hands of, and thereby becoming subservient to the interests of any other corporation.

This does not by any means indicate that the Baltimore and Ohio will ever again assume that aggressive attitude of seven or eight years ago by which it antagonized all the trunk lines and also all the express companies and telegraph lines and persisted in this policy under that aggressive attitude of seven or eight years ago by which it antagonized all the trunklines and also all the express companies and telegraph lines and persisted in this policy under the Garrett management until the surplus earnings over fixed charges diminished from $2,256,684 in 1880, or about 15½ per cent on its $15,000,000 of stock down to $35,258, or next to nothing, on the stock in 1887, when the Garrett interest was temporarily in the hands of Ives and Stayner for sale, and found no purchaser. On the contrary the syndicate will he governed largely by the policy of the bankers who helped the Baltimore and Ohio out of its difficulties three years ago. This policy has already resulted in restoring the earning capacity of the property, and it is believed by those who have excellent opportunity for knowing what its business is that the earnings over fixed charges are now equal to fully 10 per cent on the stock. It is this which has induced the formation of the syndicate to hold and protect the property against any schemes of consolidation with or annexation to any other corporation.
