

NEW RULES NEEDED

To Save the British Tory Administration From Speedy Destruction.

DIVISIONS IN THE PARTY.

The Newfoundland Dispute May Cause Very Serious Trouble

BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FRANCE.

Explorer Stanley Will Arrive in America Next November.

RUSSIA BIDDING FOR EX-KING MILAN

The Salisbury Government is making a desperate effort to avert dissolution by adopting new rules for free legislation through the House of Commons.

The party is seriously divided, and only preserves an appearance of unity because of the certain disaster in a general election.

Englishmen have at length become aroused to the serious nature of the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland.

The Salisbury Government is making a desperate effort to avert dissolution by adopting new rules for free legislation through the House of Commons.

The party is seriously divided, and only preserves an appearance of unity because of the certain disaster in a general election.

Englishmen have at length become aroused to the serious nature of the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland.

The Salisbury Government is making a desperate effort to avert dissolution by adopting new rules for free legislation through the House of Commons.

The party is seriously divided, and only preserves an appearance of unity because of the certain disaster in a general election.

Englishmen have at length become aroused to the serious nature of the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland.

The Salisbury Government is making a desperate effort to avert dissolution by adopting new rules for free legislation through the House of Commons.

The party is seriously divided, and only preserves an appearance of unity because of the certain disaster in a general election.

Englishmen have at length become aroused to the serious nature of the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland.

The Salisbury Government is making a desperate effort to avert dissolution by adopting new rules for free legislation through the House of Commons.

The party is seriously divided, and only preserves an appearance of unity because of the certain disaster in a general election.

Englishmen have at length become aroused to the serious nature of the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland.

The Salisbury Government is making a desperate effort to avert dissolution by adopting new rules for free legislation through the House of Commons.

The party is seriously divided, and only preserves an appearance of unity because of the certain disaster in a general election.

Englishmen have at length become aroused to the serious nature of the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland.

The Salisbury Government is making a desperate effort to avert dissolution by adopting new rules for free legislation through the House of Commons.

The party is seriously divided, and only preserves an appearance of unity because of the certain disaster in a general election.

Englishmen have at length become aroused to the serious nature of the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland.

The Salisbury Government is making a desperate effort to avert dissolution by adopting new rules for free legislation through the House of Commons.

The party is seriously divided, and only preserves an appearance of unity because of the certain disaster in a general election.

Englishmen have at length become aroused to the serious nature of the dispute with France concerning Newfoundland.

AN AMERICAN IN TROUBLE.

He Exhibited a Too Radical Affection for Other People's Property.

LONDON, June 14.—A leading American "hooker" has been arrested this week in London who gives the name of Thomas H. McLean, and Baldwin. He is the most respectable of second-rate in appearance, dresses in the height of fashion and wears jewels that are secured in his absence some one entered his bedroom and took £70 from the roll, leaving the Major £20 to do business with.

McLean, or Baldwin, was arrested at the Hotel Metropole, and the police have been anxiously searching for some American who would be able to recognize him as a criminal, in order that he may get the full benefit of the law.

STANLEY SURELY COMING.

He Will Deliver His First Lecture in New York November 11.

LONDON, June 14.—Major Fond has completed his contracts for lecture engagements and sailed for New York from Glasgow on the Euræasia. Stanley signed a contract on Monday for a course of 50 lectures in America, beginning in New York, November 11. Sir Morell Mackenzie's contract for 20 lectures in October at the month for the great physician's visit.

Major Fond has also engaged Louis Fagan, a high officer in the British Museum, to deliver a course of lectures in November in Boston, where he gives seven lectures before the Lowell Institute. Frederick Villiers also visits America during the winter to lecture under Major Fond's management.

NOT ASIATIC CHOLERA.

Fourteen Deaths in a Spanish Town Occasioned a Searching Inquiry.

MADRID, June 14.—Cholera has broken out at Puebla de Rugat, in the province of Valencia. There have already been 14 deaths from the disease. It is believed that the disease was conveyed to the place by some soldiers who recently arrived there from North Africa.

In the city of Valencia the public health is good. The Board of Health is making an inquiry regarding the prevalence of cholera in Puebla de Rugat. In the opinion of local physicians the disease is not of the Asiatic type.

HE WILL BE RECOGNIZED.

The Majority of the Voters Favorable to the New American Consul.

LONDON, June 14.—The objections on the part of the pottery trade to William Burgess, newly appointed United States Consul in the Tunstall district of England, have not been entirely done away with.

Today, however, a memorial signed by representatives of 80 percent of the pottery engaged in the American trade was presented to the Home Secretary, urging the recognition of Burgess.

AN AWFUL EXPLOSION.

A Nitro-Glycerine Factory Lets Go With Terrific Effect.

Cities Forty Miles Away Shook as With an Earthquake—Trees Cut in Two—The Factory Reduced to Kindling Wood—A Hole Big Enough to Bury a City Block.

FINDLAY, O., June 14.—At 2:30 this morning everybody in this city was awakened by a tremendous shock that rocked every building, breaking windows in many places, and scattering the contents of the explosion of the Castner Iron Company's nitro-glycerine works, situated four miles east of the city. A correspondent from the scene reports a hole in the ground large enough to take in a four-story business block, while the factory, reduced to kindling wood, is scattered for a mile in all directions.

The explosion was so terrific that it is said five tons of nitro-glycerine went up. The loss to the factory, and apparatus, was $4,000. The dirt in the hole was thrown out in large chunks showing the tremendous force of the explosion. The factory was situated in the midst of a wooded tract, and immense trees were cut in two by the force of the explosion. Specialists from all points in Northwestern Ohio show that the shock was felt for over 40 miles in every direction, and was generally attributed to an earthquake. It was distinctly perceptible in Toledo.

A GIGANTIC CORPORATION

Organized to Carry on the Entire Business of the Country.

TRENTON, N. J., June 14.—The charter of the North American Company was filed in the Secretary of State's office today. The capital stock is placed at $20,000,000, but business may be commenced with $12,000.

The principal place of business of the company will be at New York, and it will transact business in all the States and Territories, in South America, Canada, Europe and elsewhere.

The corporation is to form and promote the formation of railroads, street railways, steamships, electric light and electrical companies; to deal in stocks, securities, franchises, etc.; to act as a general corporation for individuals, States or municipalities in the negotiation of contracts, obligations, and water works, oil works; to mine all kinds of ores; to carry on transportation business of every kind; and for the transaction of all kinds of business.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR REMEMBER.

The Westinghouse People Will Try to Get Possession of Their Dynamos.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 14.—The next legal step will be taken in behalf of the Westinghouse Electric Company to prevent the use of their alternating current dynamo for the execution of murderers in this State, will be in the form of a writ of replevin to repossess themselves of three dynamos of their patent now in the State prisons at Auburn, Dannemora and Sing Sing, which Harold P. Brown, the electrical expert, purchased for the State.

The Westinghouse Company claims to retain a proprietary interest in the dynamo they sell (or claim merely to lease) to customers, after the manner of the Bell Telephone Company in leasing its telephones. They will claim that Brown illegally and fraudulently obtained possession of them by acquisition of their owners.

A LACK OF RESPECT

Shown to the Memory of Ex-Speaker Randall by the House.

By the Utter Indifference Manifested by Former Friends.

MEAGER RETURNS FROM THE CENSUS.

Capital Society Agitated by the Marriage of Miss Caldwell to a Baron.

Only about 30 Congressmen listened to the eulogies pronounced upon Samuel J. Randall yesterday. The family of the dead statesman was present in the House and shocked by the indifference displayed. Less attention was paid than on any similar occasion.

It will be remembered that Miss Gwendolen Caldwell, a sister of the bride, recently created a sensation all over the civilized world by first offering to marry Prince Turak and settle a comfortable annuity on him, and then she shocked the House by marrying a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

WEALTH AND TITLE TO UNITE.

MARRIAGE OF MISS CALDWELL TO A GERMAN BARON.

The Wedding of the Heir at the Capital—Guests General, the Millionaire—Gossip of the Day.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The wedding which is now more than all other ones of the near future exciting the interest of the cream of fashionable society is that of Miss Lind Caldwell to Baron von Zedtwitz.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

Miss Caldwell is the young millionaire who gave the million or so of dollars toward founding the new Catholic University, the first great building of which has been recently occupied. The beautiful chapel of the University owes its entire existence to the munificence of Miss Caldwell, and because of the fashionable season, they will be unfortunately postponed next Tuesday morning.

It is evident that Miss Lind will not absorb all the attention, as all "society" appears to be anxious to set eyes on one American girl who had the good fortune to marry a prince. The young man, Lina wed a young German baron who has been well known in Washington society for years as an attaché of the German Embassy.

ANY SIZE PACKAGE

Can be Freely Sold Under the Decision of the Supreme Court.

THE LAW LAID DOWN IN KANSAS

In an Emphatic Manner by the United States Circuit Judge.

ALL OF THE PRISONERS RELEASED.

The State Authorities Have Absolutely No Right to Make Arrests.

Another important "original package" decision was delivered yesterday. The United States Circuit Court Judge in Kansas released clerks arrested by the State authorities, whom he declared had no jurisdiction. It was also held that the packages could be as small as desired.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

Every question of law raised in these cases has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. That Court in a recent decision, says: "The original package, distilled liquor, ale and beer are subjects of commerce, and traffic like any other commodity in a right to be carried in interstate commerce, and the decision courts is not to be disturbed in the absence of legislation on the part of the Government. The original package is not to be treated as a separate article of commerce, but as a part of the interstate commerce, and when imported it is to be treated as such."

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

DESTRUCTIVE STORMS.

A PARTY OF FISHERMEN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING, TWO BEING KILLED.

Raging Torrents at Rockford, Ill.—People Driven From Their Homes—A Widow's Home Lost at Joliet—Fears of a Flood at Dixon, Ill.

PARIS, KY., June 14.—A terrific lightning and thunder storm passed over the northern part of this county about 4 P. M. yesterday. Two of a fishing party were killed and two others badly injured.

<