Roughers Get an Advance From the Amalgamated Association.

COTTON TIE CLAUSE DEFEATED,

As Iron Workers Heartily Indorse the Eight-Hour Movement.

JAMES CAMPBELL AND THE TARIFF

The roughers and catchers in steel mills have scored a victory, and as a result, are very jubilant. The scale of the Amalgamated Association was yesterday handed to the printer, and will be ready for presentation to the manufacturers in a few days. The main points of the scale have been published in THE DISPATCH, but some unpublished decisions of the convention are of a startling nature. In the 18inch structural mill scale, provision was made insuring the rougher-down not less than 30 per cent of rougher's wages, and the the rougher-up not less than 42 per cent. This is a signal victory or concession for this class of workmen, and will end all talk

This is a signal victory or concession for this class of workmen, and will end all talk of secession on the part of the ronghers and catchers in the structural department.

Another important matter has cropped out in the discussion of the wage scale, which was of the greatest importance. The Western delegates made a vigorous effort to regain the prestige of Pittsburg in the cotton ties trade by increasing the output. It was argued that once Pittsburg drove a thriving trade throughout the South in the manufacture of cotton ties. That such mills as J. Painter & Sons and Long & Co. were, ten years ago, devoted to the manufacture of the cotton ties. The term when the case will be continued on Thursday. The Case will be continued on Thursday.

The Twenty-seventh ward election contest was resumed yesterday moraing before Miaster Susses and comparing the registry and tally sheets some half dozen names were found on one that were not on the other. The master was then about to compare the ballots and string from when the other of the registry and tally sheets from the structural department.

Another important matter has cropped out in the discussion of the wage scale, which was resumed yesterday moraing before Miaster John S. Robb, Jr. After opening the ballot boxes and comparing the registry and tally sheets, some half dozen names were found on that the order of court did not authorise to moral the order of court will be asked to grant the permission, and the case will go on further to-morrow.

The master was then a whelming competition from British m The delegates argued that if the egates argued that if the men wor at lower wages and longer hours, they could so increase the output at low prices that the Brit-ish cotton ties would be forced out of the

This proposition raised a storm in the con-This proposition raised a storm in the convention. The majority of the delegates contended that an increase in hours would mean a surrender of the eight-hour project, and few of the delegates were prepared to boldly attack this aim of organized labor.

The discussion finally developed a strong eight-hour sentiment, which effectually silenced the advocators of increased output on cotton ties, and their proposition was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

As the scale or ware committee's report was finished on Saturday, the convention yesterday had nothing to do but await the reports of committees on duties of officers, organization.

mittees on duties of officers, organization, good of the order, constitution, etc. Most of these committees were not prepared to report, and the convention took a recess yesterday at moon until this morning.

THE COMMITTEE A MYSTERY.

James Campbell Tries in Valu to Find Out About the Glass Clause. James Campbell, who has been in Washing ton for a week trying to find out what the Senate is going to do with the McKinley bill in regard to glass, says that he never knew of a time when information in regard to the movements of a committee was so hard to obtain Both among Senators and Representatives there is the same suspense in regard to what the Finance Committee of the Senate is going to do with the bill. Some say it will be slashed and others not, but from a canvass of members of both branches the drift of opinion is that the committee will slash the bill.

The cause for going back on McKinley and the House is as vague to the minds of Congressmen in general as the whole affair. Some say men in general as the whole affair. Some say that Altison and Hiscock, two members of the committee, having the Presidental bee in their hats, do not want to see McKinley got the glory that a passage of his bill in entirety as it went through the House would give him. However, there are so many ways of defeating any such motives when it comes to the Senate for vote, that such a fact could hardly defeat any point. In regard to the Jeannette case Mr. Campbell and he was sorry that the House had not decided to investigate the matter, as some things much that was been promit, out then that would

WELL PLEASED WITH IT.

Con! Miners Heartily Indorse the New Dead. Work Scale.

The operation of the dead-work scale this week is giving general satisfaction among the miners. John Thomas, of West Elizabeth, was in Pittsburg last evening, and was very en-thusiastic over the working of the new scale. He said: "The miners along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and Pemicky line are greatly pleased over the prospect of fair earnings for run-of-mine-coal, driving entries and turning rooms. Heretofore compensation for this class of work and for clay veins has largely depended of work and for clay veins has largely depended upon the disposition of the operators. The scale, however, provides fair wages and will be an incentive for miners to perform these classes of work with rapidity.

The driving of entries, turning of rooms and penetrating clay veins has always been the bete noir of the digger, and every excuse was resorted to in order to escape such irksome and ill-paid duties, although the work is necessary in order to insure steady work for the miners. The new scale works admirably and will doubtless go far toward quieting the complaints of miners, which so otten culminate in strikes, shutting down mines and costing operators valuable contracts.

CONCENTRATING THEIR FORCES.

The Brass Molders Organizing to Combin for Shorter Hours.

The Brass Molders' Assembly, K. of L., me last night at District Assembly No. 3, and initiated 33 new members. The assembly is growing rapidly, and the leaders believe that in a few weeks they will have organized every shop in Pittsburg and Allegheny. A member of the organization stated last night that they are in hearty sympathy with the endeavors of the brass workers in other cities to enforce the eight-hour rule in their midst, but they are not prepared to take part in the movement at present, and will devote their attention to organizing the brass foundries and journeymen plumbers about Pittsburg during this year in order to have a through union and unbroken ranks in 1881. Then they will inaugurate the shorter hour movement. the brass workers in other cities to enforce the shorter hour movement.

In this the brass molders are indorsed by the local unions of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and the Machinery Molders' Assembly, who are working with the same object in view.

WILL NOT FOLLOW OUT.

A General Protest Being Made on it by Pittsburg Puddlers.

The Pittsburg puddlers are making a general protest against the class of work known as "follow out." As a general thing when there is any repairing to be done, it is put off until Saturgays, and in order to make these repairs the firms have asked the day-turn crew to begin work on Friday night at 10 e'clock, when the night turn gets done work. By doing this the men can get the mill ready to be shut down by 80 clock on Saturday morning. The men by 80 clock on Saturday morning. The men claim that this kind of work is barder than all the rest of the week.
For this reason the puddlers at Moorhead Brothers & Co, and Carnegte, Phipps & Co, refused last week to follow out.

MAKING ELECTRIC POLES.

The Whitmere Company Going Into Business in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg is to have enother mill added to its long list of iron industries. The Whitmore Manufacturing Company has commenced to make electric light poles in the Continental Tabe Works, near Laughlin station.

The firm finds the field comparatively new, and have orders ahead from other cities to keep them busy for some months.

The Quarterly Meeting.

The guarterly meeting of District Assembly No. 3, K. of L., will be held on Wednesday, at which time a delegate will be elected to the General Assembly, which will meet in Denver next November. The choice of delegate lies between Master Workman J. L. Evans and ex-Master Workman I. N. Ross.

A Reduction That Pleases. The local agent of the Clark O. N. T. Thread Company at Newark, N. J., has received word that the firm has voluntarily reduced the working hours of its 3,000 employes one-half hour each day. There was no solicitation and the employes are delighted over the reduction. ELECTION DAY ECHORS.

The Brinker- Eisenbeis Contest-Gross Carelessness Charged Against the Election Boards-A Dispute Over the Twenty-Seventh Ward Ballots - Looking for Evidence in Allegheny.

The election contest of Brinker versus Eisenbeis, contestants for the office of Alderman of the Twelfth ward, Allegheny, was continued yesterday morning before Master O. D. Thompson. Archy Rowand, Esq., for the contestant, showed by witnesses that quite a number of votes had been cast by men who had not paid their taxes, and others who were not qualified to vote for various reasons. A man named Charles Smith had put his ballot in the window just before the polls closed, but was told his name was not on the registry list, and his vote was thrown out. An examination of the list showed his name among the rest, and his vote should have been counted.

There are a number of peculiary flagrant breaches of the election laws in the case that go to show how carelessly some boards conduct their business. Among the papers secured by the master from the ballot boxes were a lot of affidavits of voters who had voted on age and on residence. All the blanks that the board had on hand were used up, and they accepted the votes of some 35 new men who did not sign such affidavits. such affidavits, but were allowed to vote by simply signing their names on the backs of the blanks. The court will be asked if such action is legal. The case will be continued on Thurs-

J., the North American Company, supposed to be affiliated with the Oregon and Transcontinental Company, filed articles of incorporation. The capital stock has been fixed at $50,000,000, divided into 500,000 shares. The fee for filing the charter was $10,000. The objects of the incorporation are to do almost any kind of legitimate business under the sun. The company proposes to carry on its business in the States and Territories of the United States, Mexico, the States of Central and South America, the Dominion of Canada, the provinces of British North America, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Germany and in the other countries of Europe and elsewhere.

It was supposed by many that the Pittsburg concern was part of the gigantic company, but such is not the case. It is a purely local delivery company, owned and operated by Pittsburg parties. J. C. Henry is at the head of the company.

THE LAWYERS' PICNIC.

It Will be Held To-Morrow at Rock Point,

With Trimmings. The lawyers of the Aliegheny County Bar Association, with their invited guests, will hold their annual picnic at Rock Point to-morrow. An elaborate programme for the day has been prepared. The leading attractions will be series of athletic contests, consisting of a quoit ournament, shooting match, foot race, kicking match, sack and boat race. Entries have been made for all these contests.

The train will leave on the Ft. Wayne at 8:30 in the morning, returning about 9 o'clock in the evening. These annual picnics of the lawyers are becoming notable and most of the members of the bar attend.
