THE MUSIC WORLD.

Thoughts Suggested by the Meeting of Teachers at Detroit.

BOOKS WILL NOT MAKE MUSICIANS.

Pittsburg's Progress as it is Portrayed in the Year Book.

THE NATIONAL CONSERVATORY'S WORK

This is the age of combination, of organization, of co-operation. No one can live unto himself in these days without being left behind in the march of general progress. Even in music-an art in which the personal endowment of the individual is of such moment-no one but a first-rank genius can afford to hold aloof from his cotemporaries and affect to be satisfied with the working along in the course of his own limited

The woods are full of alleged musical teachers and artists who hug the delusion that their diplomas from this Conservatory or their certificates from that Herr Pro-tessor furnish an all-sufficient stock in trade to which no further additions from the outside are necessary. They go on chewing their cud over and over and see no use in browsing around for fresh grass. They are teachers — beg their pardon, "professors," you know, and are not ex-

"professors," you know, and are not ex-pected to study any more.

Others do study. They peer into books, great and small; stock themselves up with technical lore and pretty theories, old and new, all of which is very good for them, as far as it goes; it is essential, indeed, to the well-rounded musician that he pe familiar with the scientific sub-structure of his art and with its literature.

But there is a difference, after all, between the dead page and the living word, between learning from books and from men. The latter is equally essential to full develop-ments. Your bookish recluse is like a cow fed altogether on hay; the fresh, green herbage is also needed, and can be got only by contact and interchange with fellow-

Such a train of reflection comes up naturally apropos of this week's meeting of the Music Teachers' National Association in Detroit, which is now the country's musical center of attraction. From a more practical point of view, the advantages accruing from this and kindred conventions is well set forth in the appended extract from a circuforth in the appended extract from a circular of the New York State Association:

Teachers will learn how to advance their claims among their patrons, how to recruit their classes and be of greater value to their scholars. Pupils will be enabled to study and see the forms and methods of distinguished artists. Parents, how to make the home more attractive. Churches and congregations, now to sing better the praises of the sanctuary. The whole aim is intellectual, and a link in the great chain of modern education and accomrane whole aim is intellectual, and a link in the great chain of modern education and accom-plishment. Its tendencies are elevating, its access broad and far-reaching, and the results to be achieved are advancement and improve-ment in an art that to-day occupies the highest position.

ment in an art that to-day occupies the highest position.

The object of the association is elevation of the standard of professional work, mutual improvement by interchange of thought wider dissemination of musical culture, the furtherance of professional fraternity, and the elevation of musical taste among the general punite. For so noble an object, the musicians and music-loving people should enlist themselves for their own benefit, as well as the general good which the association hopes to realize.

A celebrated educator said: "Why, to hear the model music at those recitals and concerts will be an education in itself for advanced pupils; and I'll tell you a fact: I would not employ a teacher who agnored this association meeting. For the very idea that he showed no interest in it would be a proof that he was lifeless and valueless as a teacher. Why! I firmly believe that no lover of music can afford not to hear such fine and noted artists, or neglect the privilege of listening to the celebrated and brainy musicians who are to give the lectures and essays."

Mr. G. H. Wilson's "Musical Year Book leartily welcomed at this deak. Its record of musical doings of importance throughout the country, compiled from authentic sources, grows in completeness and interest from year to year. The statistical tables that fellow the detailed record by cities, give a valuable and instructive birds-eye view of valuable and instructive birds-eye view of the country's musical work, especially the part taken by native and resident composers. Pittsburg occupies a page or more with the season's activities of the Mozart Glub and the Beethoven Quartet Club. Someone ought to have told Mr. Wilson that the past season should add Allegheny to his former list of cities, the two new choral organizations—the Alleghenes and the country of the the two new choral organizations—the Alle-gheny Musical Association and the Handel Society-entitle it to that honor, to say nothing of the new municipal officer, the City Organist, with his weekly free recitals. Local readers will also be interested to note the recurrence on high-class programmes of the names of Ad. M. Foerster, Charles Davis Carter, Ethelbert Nevin and H. W.

Mrs. Thurber sends the following circular which is willingly given the publicity due to the noble work planned and being done by the institution named:

The annual entrance examinations of the National Conservatory of Music, Nos. 126 and 128 East Seventeenth street, New York, will be Singing Classes-September 25 and 26, 1890 from 9 A. M. to 12 M.; 2 to 5 P. M; from 8 to

NEW EVIDENCE DISCOVERED.

The Bribery Cases of the Elevated Road Resumed at Chicago. CHICAGO, June 28 .- The grand jury continued its investigation into the charges of bribery of Aldermen in connection with the granting of a franchise to the Lake Street Elevated Railroad. The investigation is based on alleged affidavits by ex-

Aldermen Wallner and Monear, confessing that they were bribed. These affidavits bear fac similes of the natorial seal and signature of Joseph C. Mackin, recently released from the State penitentiary, where he was confined for political "fine work." Mackin was called back for the grand jury some days ago, but professed to know nothing about the affidavit. The impression was sought to be given that the affidavits were manufactured by Mackin's clerk.

Something of a sensation was created to-

Something of a sensation was created to-day when Mortimer McRoberts, an inti-mate friend of both Mackin and his clerk called on State's Attorney Longeneker and said that he was indignant at the attempt to put a false charge upon the clerk. He said turther, that the affidavits were drawn by Mackin, and that the latter had frequently boasted to him of the fact that he had them. This gave a new starting point, and a bailiff was sent out to begin for a second session of inquisition. Then another sensation developed. Mackin could not be found, and the general impression is that he has absconded to avoid prosecution for perjury.

NOT EASILY CAPTURED.

Young Donaldson Successfully Escapes-His Finnces.

UNIONTOWN, June 28 .- Perry Donaldson, who on Thursday last held up Jacob Atkinson, paymaster at the H. C. Frick Wynn Coke Works, and robbed him of $1,160, has not yet been captured. The mule he stole from Walter Lang, and upon which he is supposed to have made his escape into West Virginia, was found on top of Chestnut Ridge this afternoon making its way home. A posse of men are after Donaldson, and had him surrounded this morning, but he leaped from the mule, and escaped by hiding in the bushes.

Young Donaldson has been the accepted lover of Nett Sullivan, the young woman who figured so conspicuously in the career the notorious Sullivan gang, whose robbing and feet-burning exploits aroused such wide-spread consternation in the county a few years ago, and it is claimed that he got his training with, and was a member of this daring gang.

MRS. M'GINTY PLEADS GUILTY.

End of the Celebrated Conspiracy Case to Kill Banker Foliz.

PROTAL TRUBGRAM TO THE DISPATOR! NEW CASTLE, June 28.-Mrs. Sarah Randolph, alias Sarah McGinty, the woman who has been in jail for three weeks on a charge of conspiracy to kill William S. Foltz, President of the First National Bank, of this city, has entered a plea of noile contendere through her counsel, which is virtually a plea of guilty. She will be sentenced by Judge Hasen, of Butler, who will hold court here July 7. This looks as if the end of the celebrated case has about come, and in all probability the real author of the conspiracy will never be known, as the woman steadily refuses to give away the man who, she sava, got her to enter into the scheme to kill the banker.

Sam Kissinger, who gave the plot away, still says he does not know the name of the principal, and the woman, McGinty, has evidently made up her mind to suffer the penalty of her conspiracy in silence.

To make thy riches pleasant."

It is surprising how few books have been written on the diseases incident to old age. No work would be more generally read by all classes than a "Treatise on the medical management of old age." There is no medicine that is more happily adapted to the alleviating of the pains and aches of the aged than Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills. They do not shock the most enfeebled constitution. In cases of kidney diseases, torpid bowels, indigestion, loss of appetite, their healing properties are wonderful. Their effect on the nervous system is prompt. The old and young will be alike benefited by the use of this valuable medicine.
