The following table shows the standing of th seen in this city at Recreation Park yesterday. Gumbert pitched a great game of ball, and nothing but the hardest kind of luck made the score what it was. Only two bits were made off the delivery of Nichols, who seems to have an especial grudge against the colts. Boston scored a run in the fourth inning, after two men were out, on a shady three-hager along the first base line, which Right Fielder Miller vehemently declared was a foul, and a scratch single from the bast of Hines. The first 17 batters for Pittsburg went out in order. The eighteenth, Gumbert scored on Miller's hit, being the only Pittsburger to reach the plate. This tied the score, and from the outest was sharp, but no runs were tallied. At this fatal moment Nichols was first to bat and sent a grounder to short. Crane fum-bled outest was sharp, but no runs were tallied. At this fatal moment Nichols was ended commenced.
