something for the improvements they have made, I would be willing to go along with my people and start new homes. The tenants have every just claim in equity for compensation for improvements in the way of buildings. We do not want to stand in the way of her putting up buildings to beautify the city, if she treats us fairly. I do not want to criticise Mrs. Schenley, but think her tenants should get some of her

Mrs. Carr, one of the most respected ten anta, lives at No. 28 Third street. She ha been living at the Point for nearly 40 years, and for the past six years at her present place of residence. She was left a widow many years ago, and by her savings from the washboard, managed to accumulate about $1,000, with which she purchased her present residence. She bought the lease to the ground when it had but wix months to run and then renewed it. When a repre-sentative of THE DISPATCH called on her yesterday, Mrs. Carr said:

"I have been here for nearly six years, now, and my lease expires next April. Surely, Mrs. Schenley would make some provision to compensate me for the expense I underwent in improving the property.

After buying the house it cost me $150 to reimproving the pair it, and since then I have made improve-ments from time to time. I had to pay for the lease before I came into the house, and at the expiration of six months I had to renew it. The money to buy the house I drew out of the Dollar Savings Bank, having sayed up about $1,000 hard-earned

WOULD BE A HARDSHIP.

"I have tried to make my home as comfortable as I can, having a large family, and it would go very hard on me to be put out without being paid for the improve-ments. This is $92 a year, and in addition to this I have had to pay nd in addition to this I have had to and in addition to this I have had to pay $40 a year taxes and $8.50 water rent, beside other expanses. You see I pay a good price, but I do not care about moving out into the suburbs. I do not think Mrs. Schenley will compel us to get out without paying for our trouble in improving the property. Many poor people cannot afford to move, and it will fall heavily upon them. Everyone owns his or her little house, and I do not think Mrs. Schenley will take the homes away from her tenants. I do not think she is that kind of a lady. There is no doubt at all but there are a great many old rookeries here that are not worth living in, and they should be torn down. As the people owning them have leases on the ground and put up their own dwellings, they should be paid for the

Thomas Donahoe, of Fort street, said: "If Mrs. Schenley wants to evict us I do not see what we can do. About four years ago we raised a kick, and wrote to Mrs. Schenley, who was then in Paris, but she paid no attention to the letter. She never answered the communication, and the result was fiveyear leases, with an advance of 20 per cent in the ground rent. On Fort stree: the ten-ants pay $40 a year for lots 16 feet front by 423/ feet deep. In addition to this we have the taxes, water rent, grading and paving of the streets to pay for. All of the rent goes to Mrs. Schenley, with the exception of the agent's commission. She pays no taxes, but the tenants pay everything, and then run the risk of losing our little homes. I will think it a shame if we are not paid for our buildings."

We pay about $10 a front for the privilege of living on the ground." We pay about $10 a front foot About the oldest tenant is Mrs. Camp-bell, mother of Mrs. Maggie McCutcheon, of No. 29 Fort street. The old lady is 75 years of age, and was born in the ward on Schenley ground. She well remembers Mrs. Schenley's husband and says she is sure his widow will not let the poor people of the Point suffer. She lives in a neat two-story brick house, which she has owned for about 23 years, and tears gathered in the old lady's eyes at the prospect of leaving. She said: I was born on old Pitt street, and do not Mr. Pearson is spoken of by numerous care about living in the suburbs or anywhere friends, and his name is prominently mencan be done, though I will not believe it."

LOOKING FOR THE DEED. Chief Bigelow Hints at Another Schenley Surprise in Store.

The deed for the Blind Institute property, Mr. E. M. Bigelow says, will probably arrive on the Umbria some time this week. He was adverse to talking much about the institute when a visit was paid to his residence vesterday afternoon, but thought that the plan of the ground which he sent to London for the approval of Mrs. Schenley was the property to be transferred. This is spart from all the approaches to the park, and in a secluded spot at the end of the park, where the blind people will not come in contact with pleasure-seekers. The idea to have the formal opening of the park next year, when Mrs. Scheniey will in all probability be here, was suggested to Mr. Bigelow, who thought it not wholly impracticable. He said: "If Mrs. Schenley contemplates visiting Pittsburg, I Schenley contemplates visiting Pittsburg, I opinions were advanced yesterday by of Allegheny, favoring the formal opening of the park until she ar-fives. But as to her coming I cannot say. Her visit to Pittsburg is only talked of informally, and before the time comes around Mrs. Schenley may change her mind about making the visit."

Mr. Bigelow said that he knew of something else in connection with Mrs. Schen-ley's visit, but he wouldn't divulge this something. Wednesday, he thought, would likely develop the exact site on which the institute will be erected. By that time Mr. Bigelow expects to be in possession of the transfer papers, and to learn something definite about Mrs. Schenley's visit.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE.

How Suspicious Characters Got Out of the Fourteenth Word Station.

Sergeant McElhaney, of the Fourteenth ward station, has the escape of two prisoners, John Burke and Con O'Haggerty, to answer for. The men were arrested at an early hour yesterday morning on Sylvan avenue as suspicious persous.

Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Sergeant McElhaney discovered that the cell the men had occupied was empty. The bar on the door had been withdrawn and, as there is a window in the rear of the cell room that is not barred, the route of their escape was plain. Sergeant McElhapey says the only explanation he can give is that he failed to lock the door properly, and that the men reached out from the cell, withdrew the bar from the slot and ther made their escape from the unbarred win-A description of the men was sent out at

ANNEXATION TO PITTSBURG BROACHED

By Those to Whom the Census Figures Furnish Much Food for Thought.

In the near future a change will take place in Allegheny. The city will shed its third-class dress and array itself in all the dignity of second-class robes. Her citizens have been looking forward to the coming event with great interest, augmented by the information received from the census enumeration of this year, which shows that Allegheny has a populatian of considerably over

It is the talk of business men and everybody in the city. A number of prominent citizens expressed themselves on the matter yesterday. The expense account of Allegheny will necessarily be increased when the change of government takes place, but that is an emergency which the taxpayers are ready to meet in consideration of receiving greater advantages than the city now enjoys. As Mr. C. C. Scaife, one of the leading townsmen, observed last night: "It is the same as with a young man-he dresses differently at 21 than he does at 19." WILL LOSE NO TIME.

Legal light has been shed on the matter, and the city across the river will lose no time in changing the government as soon as official returns are received from Washington, giving the correct population of Allegheny as ascertained by the recent census. Nothing can be done before this in ormation is received. When the proper figures are known, immediate steps will be taken. Some well-known officials and others interested in the matter have already anticipated the alteration, and formulated plans to be put into execution when the opportune moment arrives. From statements given out by those who know the combination, it was learned yesterday afternoon that local politicians had been looking forward to the new order of things for some months past. They displayed unusual interest in the outcome of the censustaking, so far as it related to the increased population of the city, and figured on about 115,000 as the probable number of 1nhabitants at present. With the instinct of true political students, they comprehended that Allegheny would now be entitled to a charter of the second class, and provide new offices. Naturally, they knew just the proper men to fill these positions.

FIXING UP A SLATE. As a result, after due and careful consideration, a slate has already been fixed up. It holds the names of several candidates for the new offices that will be instituted when the government is altered from the third to the second class. Of the several new places, that of chief of the Department of Public "I haven't many years yet to live, and Safety may, according to well-informed peo-would like to pass my last days at the Point. ple, fall to the lot of ex-Mayor Pearson.

reporter yesterday afternoon. He said: "Or course, new that the city has over 100, 000 inhabitants, it will come under the second class government, and that means the creation of new offices, which will increase the expenses of the city, but Allegheny does not expend nearly as much as other cities of

WHERE IT COSTS MORE.

"Take Minneapolis, for instance, which has 13 Street Commissioners at comfortable salaries. That city does not approach Alle-gheny in the number of inhabitants, and surely we can afford the addition of a tew new offices. There will be about six Street Commissioners in when the city government is changed, who can satisfactorily discharge all the busi-ness that pertains to the care of our nighways. The inauguration of new depart-ments will be an improvement over the present system, as it systematizes municipal affairs. As to the probable candidates for the new offices, I cannot say who will stand the best chances, but it is quite likely that the present incumbents of the important positions will be retained in similar places citizens of Allegheny, favoring the union of the two cities. One of the strongest and most emphatic advocates for annexation is Mr. E. Holden, who is at the head of a leading pharmaceutical establish-ment on Federal street, Allegheny, and has been in ormed by well known business men that annexation would be desirable. He

SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES.

"If Pittsburg and Allegheny would consalidate the wholesale merchants across the river would not go several squares up Penn avenue to erect their warehouses, but come over here and build great establishments along Federal street. This would be nearer to their business center, and would have the effect of booming our city immensely."

Mr. R. H. Boggs, of Boggs & Buhl, the drygoods merchants, said: "The annexation of Allegheny to Pittsburg presents numerous advantages, but it also has its disadvantages. This city is prospering, and circumstances are such that a union would aid in some ways. We would be willing to annex Pittsburg to Allegheny." Mr. Shipman, of the Poor Board, said:

"The main objection raised by some in regard to annexation is that Alleghenv would have to shoulder the debt of Pittsburg. That objection is easily disposed of, when we consider that when we are annexed to Pittsburg our local municipal offices will be done away with, which is a clear saving that will ultimately equalize the payment of Pittsburg's debt. The entire county should be incorporated as one city, though, similar to Chicago taking in the whole of Cook county, and that would make about the fifth city in the Union, with 600,000 population, "The census figures show that the growth of Pittsburg is largely in its suburbs, so as they are really a part of the city now, there is no reason why they shouldn't be a part of it in name, too."

Two Temperance Meetings. The W. C. T. U. held a meeting yesterday n their hall, corner Second avenue and Grant street. Mrs. S. Getty presided, and speeches were made by Mrs. R. H. Jones, Messrs. Powell, Tussey and others. A temperance meeting was also held at Glenwood. A number signed the pledge.

POISONED BY A RAT'S BITE.

A Policeman's Arm Badly Swellen and the Flesh Beginning to Decay. John McNeill, a police officer of the First district, is lying at his home, on Liberty, near Twenty-eighth street, suffering intense agony from the bite of a rat received nearly a month ago. A watchman at a Liberty street commission house captured several rats in an empty barrel, and Mo-Neill was assisting in dispatching them. One of the rodents jumped to the top of the parrel and was clinging to the canvas which covered the top, when the officer attempted to dislodge him, and the rat snapped at him. After a while McNeill found that the animal had inflicted a slight wound, a mere scratch in fact, on his right thumb.

The wound healed in two or three days, and he thought nothing further about it until about ten days ago, when his right hand and arm began to swell. The swelling kept up for several days, the officer was compelled to go to bed, and it was feared that he would lose his arm. When the swelling reached his shoulder it began to cause great lumps to develop under his arm ben on his neck.

At present he has two lumps larger than a man's fist under his arm, and two on his neck nearly as large. The flesh on his hand has rotted and is sloughing off terribly, but yesterday the pain had decreased and the physician in attendance was of the opinion that the officer would recover without the loss of his arm or any further complication.

A SEA BATTLE RECALLED.

The Chief Engineer of the Keurange Spenks of the Fight With the Alabama. Among the guests at the St. Charles Hotel yesterday was T. P. S. Hampson, of Grand Rapids, who was, during the late war, chief engineer of the Kearsage. He was in charge of the vessel when the fight took place with the Alabama off the coast of France.

In speaking of the event, he said he would never torget how the English put to sea in their yachts to see the fight, and fully expecting that the Alabama would win. Captain Simms was anxious to get out of the harbor at Cherbourg, but the Kearsage watched his movements too closely to suit him. Finally, goaded on by English sympathy, he issued a challenge, and the rest is history. Mr. Hampson said the fight was history. Mr. Hampson said the fight was short but fierce. In about an hour and a half after the commencement the Alabama was on its end and in a sinking condition.

Any one who acquaints himself of the objects of your order must see that religion has an affinity for the same principles of mutual aid, benevolent assistance and general uplifting of ach other which your order inculcates and requires, and such an organization as yours flourishes under the fostering influences of Christianity better than anywhere else.

"The word mechanic, which you use i the word mechanic, which you are in a liberal and appropriate sense, suggested to me the words of the text. The first chapter of the Bible teaches that on the day that man was made his Creator gave him the great and far-reaching command to replenish the earth and subdue it. All mechanical arts and industries were foremechanical arts and industries were fore-shadowed in that command, for it is evident that without these arts the world could never have been subdued. Man rides the horse unsaddled and unshod until the mechanic comes to his aid. Some of the roads of Allegheny county, after a century of settlement, are almost impassable. Booth & Flinn, with a few bowlder and limestone crushers (the invention of some mechanic) crushers (the invention of some mechanic could, in a short time, macadamize them all. "A short time ago the electric cars were started in a Southern city. The colored people turned out in great numbers to see the new and wonderful invention. When the cars glided away an old colored man said: 'These Northern people beat the world. A short time ago they came down here and emancipated the slave; now they have come down and emancipated the mule. The mechanics of America have emanci pated the street car horses and mules. A LESSON FROM SOLOMON. The Evil Effects of Failing to Practice

What is Taught. Rev. S. R. Gordon, of the Church of the Covenant, East End, preached last evening from Proverbs xii: 27-"The slothful man roasteth not that which he took in hunting." He said: "Solomon, in this proverb, has taught us some very practical lessons: "First-People who build a church, support a pastor and the 'means of grace,' that the truth may be made known, imitates the slothful hunter' if they do not practice the truth that is preached. "That the people of God are not better, and that sinners are not saved is not that the necessary knowledge and means are wantng, but that men do not live up to what they know. The truth lies at their feet, and this truth they have gotten at a cost. Why don't they appropriate it.

"Second—People who go to church and hear the truth, and do not practice it or make it a part of their lives, act like the lazy hunter, as much depends upon the hearing as the preaching. Preachers can't apply the truth or practice it for the people.

ANOTHER SCALE CONFERENCE TO-DAY.

The colored hotel waiters of the city will soon be ready to present their list of demands to the proprietors. They have com-pleted their organization. More than 140 men, representing every hotel in the city where colored waiters are employed, have joined, and it is thought that in a week or two the remainder will be in the union. When all have joined, the waiters will be in shape to force their demands upon the proprietors. Meetings are held every week, and the various complaints made by the men from each hotel are being referred to a committee appointed to formulate the list of grievances and demands. At the last meeting held a complaint came in from the Anderson which insures a clause in the list of grievances different from the ones relating to wages and the regulation of hours. The waiters from the Anderson complained about the manner in which they

WHAT THEY KICK ABOUT. The substance of the complaint was that The substance of the complaint was that the waiters there are given the food left on the tables by patrons of the hotel; that they do not get enough to eat; that if they are discovered eating anything while on duty they are fined 50 cents, and that frequently they wait until they get away from the house, and then pay for their meals in preference to eating second-hand food in the hotel. At the Monongahela house, Seventh Avesue, Central, St. Charles and other hotels tables are arranged in a separate room for the waiters and they are separate room for the waiters and they are given exactly similar food to that served to patrons, but it is claimed that at the Ander-

The clerk admitted that the waiters there are kept on duty from 5 o'clock A. M. to 11 P. M. (two hours longer than the waiters of any other hotel), but seemed to justify this by saying that the Anderson employes were paid as much as those of any other hotel, viz., $22 per month. The waiters are working quietly on their organization. They have given up the idea of going into the Knights of Labor.

Whether they will go into the Federation has not yet been determined. They have gained one point, at least, since they organized. The proprietors of the Central Hotel advanced the wages of their waiters voluntarily from $20 to $22 per month. There is no hotel in the city now where the men are paid less than $22, but they want $25 and shorter hours. A decided move is to be made by them within the next two weeks.

AN UNSETTLED DISPUTE

a to the Future Control of the Derry San Ledge Territory. Both parties interested in the Derry sand ledge fight are still encamped on the disputed territory, each awaiting movements by the other. In the meantime Mr. Slocum privileges, and who do not avail themselves is proceeding with the construction of the of what they possess and become Christians, sand mill. It will be 150 feet long and about 80 feet wide and three stories high. The fuel to be used is natural gas, from a main only a few yards distant.

The mill will contain six Blake crushers and every modern convenience for drying and washing the sand. The motive power will be furnished by a 140-horse-power engine. The sand itself is a very superior article. In a test made of it, it was found to melt and form flint glass in almost three hours less time than any sand hitherto used. And there is enough deposited at Derry to last for centuries. The rock is conveyed to the mill by an incline designed and constructed by Wilkins & Davidson, of the Southside, that is a marvel of engineering skill. The Penn-sylvania Railroad Company is building s siding to the mill for removing the finished product, which will be about 200 tons per day.

As an evidence of the feeling of the citizens of Derry toward the interlopers, it may be stated that yesterday a scheme was afoot in the town to organize a posse and go up and oust them by main force, but cooler beads frustrated the design for the time being, but it is liable to be renewed at any time, and it is said will be, if any of Mr.

Slocum's men are interfered with. THE AMALGAMATED SCALE.

Another Effort to be Made To-Day to Have the Document Signed Another conference will be held to-day on the Amalgamated scale. The chances for an amicable settlement are not exceedingly bright. The manufacturers assert they will not submit to the introduction of a scale for the roughers and catchers, and thereupon hangs the fight. Amalgamated officials say the manufacturers have refused to sign the scale before, but when they discovered the could not get any concessions they attached their signatures just as though they had to. Word was received in the city vesterday that the Birmingham Bolling Mill Com-pany, of Birmingham, Ala., had signed the scale. This makes three firms that have signed, as against about a dozen this time last year. No Pittsburg firms have yet

DESERTED THE CORPSE.

HUSBAND'S HEARTLESS NEGLECT OF HIS DEAD WIFE.

The Poor Woman's End Hastened by Neglect-Delicacies Sent by Friends Consumed by the Man-The Police Have to Order the Body Burled.

Inspector McAlesse had a peculiarly and case before him yesterday. Mrs. Mary Smith, colored, called at the Central station And Grievances Will Soon be Presented and asked him to order the burial of her sister, Mrs. Kate Fields, who dled last Friday, and who had not been embalmed, or even packed in ice. The woman was the wife of Kirk Fields, also colored. They lived on Mulberry alley, and had two daughters, one 12 and the other 15 years old. Fields, it is said, did not treat his family well and recently when his wife began to show signs of con-sumption his neglect of her increased and she lived mainly upon the charity of neighshe lived mainly upon the charity of neighbors and relatives. Two weeks ago her condition became such that she required constant attention and she was taken to the home of her sister, Rachel Smith, on the third floor of a tenement on Forty-second street above Davidson. There she died last Friday, her death being hastened by the neglect of her husband and his refusal to supply her with the necessaries of life.

Mrs. Smith earns her living at the washtub and has not much money to spare, but tub and has not much money to spare, but she bought wine and other delicacies for the sick woman, which Fields would steal whenever possible.

When his wife died Friday, Fields went away and did not return until next day. As there was no money in the house Mrs. Smith went to the Department of Charities, got an order for the burial of the corpse in the potter's field, at the city's expense, but Fields would not allow the undertaker to touch the body when he called on Saturday. The corpse lay on the as the women in the house could give it, and yesterday morning it had begun to decompose and throw off a terrible stench. Fields did not put in appearance all day, and finally Mrs. Smith went to Inspector Mc-When the Inspector and Detective Coul on drove to the place about 4:30 yester-day afternoon, McNuity, the undertaker, was just driving away. They stopped him and learned that the people in the house would not allow him to take the body away after putting it in a a coffin. The inspector had the undertaker, return, and taking the law in his own hands, ordered the immediate interment of the body, as a protection to the health o the neighborhood, the stench from the de composing corpse being so great as to be noticeable nearly 50 feet from the house. The coffin was finally carried out and placed in the undertaker's wagon, after which it was taken to Bellevue and interred.

was taken to Bellevue and interred.
Fields had not returned home up until 8 o'clock last night. The police give him a bad record, and he is denounced by his neighbors. His children will probably be taken in charge by Agent Dean. Fields, according to Inspector McAleese, has only been out of the workhouse a little over a month, having been sent up for cutting a man with a knife out Penn avenue several months ago. He will probably hear from the police again soon.

The warm winter has given this business an immense boom, and the manufacturers can scarcely turn them out fast enough. The supply of natural ice is about exhausted. Several days last week the Pennsylvania road was forced to supply its patrons with warm water to drink. There was a mighty kick from passengers, and the em-ployes were instructed to make this explana-tion. The road is using ice now from the Juniata. It is very thin, contains consider-
