ATLANTA, July 2. - Colonel Thomas Hardman, who three weeks ago threw himself into the Gubernatorial breach, to save the Democrats from being swallowed up by the Farmers' Alliance, has dropped out of the race, as suddenly as he had dropped into it. This gives Colonel Northen, the Alliance candidate, a walkthe race, as suddenly as he had dropped into it. This gives Colonel Northen, the Alliance candidate, a walk-over, and solidifies the agreement reached some weeks ago by which the offices of the State were parceled out. The original can-didates were Northen and Livingston, the latter being President of the State Al-liance. Finding that Northen was leaving him behind, Livingston's friends induced Hardman to join the alliance, with the view of setting him up to beat Northen if Livingston touch binds of the state and task. Subsequently the alliance leaders
