THE THIRTY-TWO BURNED MINERS.

The Hill Farm Mine Will be Hermetically Sealed in the Effort to Smother the Raging Fire Within.

WORK IN OTHER MINES TO BE RESUMED

Active Preparations Being Made for a Thorough Investigation at the Inquest.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENTA DUNBAR, July 2 .- To-day the work of closing up all known or artificial entrances to the Hill Farm mine has been pushed rapidly and by daylight to-morrow morning the mine will be as air tight as human ability can make it. Inspector Keighley had charge of the work of stopping the cut through from the Mahoning mine. A brick wall three feet thick was built in the opening. The work was completed by noon and Mr. Keighley soon after departed for his home in Uniontown. His duties are finished, except to see that the work of stopping up the Hill Farm mine is done without subjecting the men to danger. All day the work has been pushed at the other openings. The two bare holes have been plugged tight. A brick brattice is being erected in the entrance from the Ferguson mine and another brick brattice is being put up in the manway of the Hill Farm. This manway is separated by 20 feet from the main slope, run-

CONFINING THE FIRE.

No fire has burst out of the manway. The fire has been confined to the alope, out of which the thin blue smoke has been rolling all day long. It is not thick smoke, but more like quivering heat, so that no one can go within 40 or 50 feet of the pit mouth. An engine was erected near the pit mouth yesterday, and to-day it has been forcing compressed air into the manway. This has driven back the smoke. This afternoon workmen were able to go down for 500 feet. Here the brick wall is being put up to-night. The pit mouth will be filled with cinders and earth. This will be difficult work. There were employed in the Hill Farm mine and were employed in the Hill Farm mine and on the ovens and works connected with the ings of the men who were lost. The father mine 120 men. In the Ferguson mine there were 80 employes. A majority of these men have been employed in the work of rescue. That being ended many were employed in various ways about the works. The Dunbar Furnace Company hopes to employ all in a

The Ferguson mine will probably resume and there is strong hopes the water may soon be got out of the Mahoning slopes to allow the renewal of work there. This mine has not been worked because of water for about 13 months. The work of pumping is at last showing effect. There will be no lack of work for able-bodied men.

ASSISTING THE NEEDY. long they will keep this up. They are not in a condition to furnish clothing. To-day Levy Dewolf, manager for Mrs. Gusky. came to Dunbar and made inquiry into the conditions of the widows and orphans. The | Master Workman Kerfoot to-day returned Mr. Eagan, Secretary of the local assembly, Knights of Labor. It was found that nearly all need clothing. Some have needed it for a long time. To-morrow Father Malady will send to Gusky a list of the needy ones with their sizes, and Mrs. Gusky will on Saturday or Monday have on hand complete outfits of clothing and shoes for all. She will attend to the wants not only of the families of the entombed men, but will furnish clothing to Mrs. John Kane, Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Hughes, whose husbands have recently met death in the mines, and

A THOROUGH INVESTIGATION TO BE HAD to appear at the inquest next Monday. The investigation will be thorough. The people in this region feel that such must be the case. There is a general agreement that efforts to search further for the bodies were useless. Nobody complains because the work was given up. People know that all was done that could be done. The people around the mine were not as numerou to-day as usual. The workers have generally left, with the exception of a few men running the boilers and pump. The guards have been removed. The inspectors have all gone home. Mine experts will not predict how long the Hill Farm mine will burn after it is plugged. It may be only a short time and it may be years.

AN APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC. DESTITUTION PREVALENT AMONG THE WIDOWS AND ORPHANS.

The Amount Sent in Totally Inadequate Supply the Needs of the Miners' Families -Noble Work of the Relief Committee How the Funds Will be Dispensed.

LYROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] DUNBAR, July 2 .- Now that the efforts of the brave men here to recover the 32 buried miners have ended, the people of the county are likely to forget the widows and orphans here who are suffering. The men down in the bowels of the earth are beyond the help of human aid. There are scores of helpless women and children dependent. who in the midst of their grief, are in want. They have not even the consolation given to most mourners for the dead of hanging a bit of crepe on the doors. At only two houses Las this been done. They were the homes of the two men, Dave Shearm and David Hay, whose bodies were found in the mine At the houses no outward signs of loss has been revealed. Some of the widows have put on black within the last three days.

SADLY IN NEED OF HELP. Many people will doubtless be surprised when they learn what a small amount has been done for the people here. In Dunbar and within a mile of this place are 18 widows and 5 dependent parents and 86 orphans, yet all the money raised and reported to the local relief committee is but $1,600. There is great need of help for the families here, but the situation does not seem to be appreciated by the public. The local relief committee has given out thus far only $35 to two families who were in need of immedisterelief in the way of clothing. This afternoon a long session of the relief com-mittee was held in the office of Dr. Mullen, the Chairman of the committee. The mem-bers of this organization who are taken representatives of the Knights of Labor has done herculean work, not only as a committee, but as individuals.

INDIVIDUAL WORK OF THE COMMITTEE Dr. Mullen gave $150 to the fund. This was the largest single donation made here. Besides this he established a hospital at the Mahoning pit mouth, and there he remained night and day for 15 days. Last night for the first time he slept in his own bed. Father Malady, the Catholic priest, has been tireless in his work among the men at the mines and in visiting and consoling the bereaved families. Ten of the families of the lost men belong to his flock. Rev. W. F. Hunter, of the Methodist Church, is also F. Hunter, of the Methodist Church, is also on the committee. He has been at the mine daily, and has been ready at all hours to render help. Other members of the committee who belong to the Workingmen's Association have done work of which all the continent knows, being tireless, vigilant and fearless in the discharge of every duty. George Swearingen, the merchant here, made a goodly donation, and is ever ready to help when needed.

AN APPEAL TO THE GENEROUS.

The members of this committee are sorely troubled because more generous aid has not been given, and they unite in a desire that the people of the United States may be urged to remember the destitute by aid. The meeting this afternoon was a long and and perplexed one. A serious problem troubles the committee here. It is not much a question with them as to the present, but to the future. There is no present need of provisions, but the families must be aided in some way to becoming permanently self-supporting. The committee discussed are also become are feasible. several propositions, but none are feasible

Dr. Mullen says: "To secure humble homes for those who wish to remain here and to get them into a position to support themselves, and to assist those who wish to themselves, and to assist those who wish to go elsewhere, will take much more money than we now see any hope of receiving. Such things ought to be done, however, and we trust that the good people of this country will help us." At the meeting this attenuon the available funds were considerated to the second of ered. There are $700 on hand, and C. M. Parker, the District Assemblyman Treasurer, had sent word he would be over from Scottdale with $1,000.

DISPOSITION OF THE FUNDS.

It was decided to pay $50 to each widow or dependent parent and $5 for each child of the bereaved families, This money will be paid to-morrow by the Distribution Committee, which consists of Dr. J. J. Mullen, Rev. Father Malady, Rev. W. F. Hunter and Columbus Shea.

and Columbus Shea. Money for the aid of the tamilies of the miners can be sent to any of these four men or to C. M. Parker, all of whom may be ad-dressed at Dunbar. There will be another meeting of the committee to-morrow. After the meeting this atternoon the news paper correspondents were called in the room, and were addressed by Dr. Mullen. He expressed the gratitude of the citizens for the work done by the newspapers, and voiced the hope that they would be able to arouse greater interest in the unfortunate of the miners' families. Dr. Mullen explained that the money allotted will be paid, not only to the 108 women and children who live here, but will be sent to those away of Dan McCashshaw and the mother of Patrick Cabill, who live in Ireland, and the father and mother of James Dewey, in Tioga county, will each receive their $50. Word has been received here through newspaper reports of other relief subscriptions which have not been sent in. The $368 raised by the International Sunday School Union in Pittsburg has not been received, but no doubt is selt that it will be sent in a HASSLER.

Mrs. Lippincott, Whose Forgeries Amount to Many Thousands,

ARRESTED AT HER MOTHER'S HOME

How the Shrewd Woman Eluded Detectives for Many Months.

THE PRISONER TELLS HER STORY

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.-Justice has vertaken Mrs. Julia C. Lippincott. The shrewd woman whose forgeries, and upon their discovery her subsequent flight, created such a tremendous sensation in South Jersey last February, was caught in the drag net of the law yesterday, and is now safely lodged in Camden's old-fashioned jail.

Her capture reflects great credit upon the sagacity of Detective James Henry, of Camden, who ran the fugitive to earth after scores of other detectives had given up the chase, and declared that Mrs. Julia Lippincott had disappeared never to be found. Not one of the many victims of this clever woman's eleverer forgeries would have magined by their quiet demeanors that the quiet, motherly-looking woman and the hrewd-looking man who walked through Broad street station together last night were playing the roles of captive and captor. But they were. The woman was Mrs. Lippinott, looking but little the worse after a four onths' chase with the law, and her comanion was Officer Henry, the terror of eviloers in Camden county.

THE DETECTIVES' HUNT. The capture of Mrs. Lippincott was the end of a long period of unceasing work and sleepless effort on the part of Detective Henry. When the private detectives of her many dupes were scouring the country ex-hausting clues as to her whereabouts, and hausting clues as to her whereabouts, and other Videoqs were raising the wind to get on her trail, Henry was quietly marking out his course, and the last line he drew on his successful map was one that stretched from Camden to Baltimore. Mrs. Lippincott was arrested by the shrewd Jerseyman in the Monumental City at high noon yester-

The 10 o'clock train from the South that rolled into Broad street station last night numbered them among its passengers. Detective James Tate, of the Central station office, met the pair on their arrival here. He was closeted in an interview with his brother officer, and half an hour later the trio were in a carriage on their way to Cam-den. It was nearly midnight when the lock on the jail door clicked behind Mrs. Lippincott, and she laid down upon the plain prison cot a prisoner for the first time in her

NOT A FUGITIVE. She played her sharp game till the last moment, and her wideawake captor was more than surprised when he led Mrs. Lip-pincott into the ladies' restaurant, and Lawyer R. O. Moon, of the firm of Arundel & Moon, stepped up to and pleasantly greeted them. In the intervening time between her capture and departure for this city she had written and dispatched a tele-gram to her attorneys. While she partook of light retreshment Counselor Moon en-gaged her in conversation, and Detectives Henry and Tate and a reporter sat at an ad-joining table. By courtesy of Attorney Moon and Officer Henry the reporter inter-viewed Mrs. Lippincott, who maintains her self-possession to a remarkable degree.

"I have not been hiding from justice," was her answer to a question regarding her apprehension. "You can see that I am a ample opportunity to do so this morning. But here I am and ready to prove that I am not such a terrible character as the newspapers have painted me.

SHE CHARGES TREACHERY. "I want to say that there has been treachery," she said suddenly, as if recollecting a train of thoughts which must have been running through her mind while she was saying the above. "Yes, treachery," this with marked em phasis. Then Mrs. Lippincott resolved into "Where have I been since February?"

she repeated a few moments later, in response to a query. "Oh! all over. You know I have relatives living all through Maryland, and have been among them all the time. I was stopping with my mother this morning when the officer called and I willingly complied with his request to ac-company him to Camden without a requisition. This affair has been so greatly enlarged that I suppose the public are willing to believe that I am some terrible character Do I look so?" and Mrs. Lippincott smiled. She was dressed in a black figured gingham gown and wore a plain black straw hat. There was not the slightest trace of worriment imprinted on her motherly features. Though there are 17 indictments hanging over her head, Mrs. Lippincott submitted to arrest, thinking that there is only one. This is an alleged forgery of the name of a relative of her husband's in Camden, Freedom Lippincott, who charges her with swindling him out of several hundred dol-

ARRESTED AT HER MOTHER'S.

The warrant upon which Detective Henry arrested her was one assued from the bench by Judges Hugg and Garrison at the May term of court upon the application of Freedom Lippincott. Detective Henry expected to capture Mrs. Lippincott a month ago, but when he went down to Baltimore after her she had disappeared, and he returned to wait for her reappearance. The co-operation of a fellow officer at Baltimore was secured and only vesterday morning a telegram told him that the jugitive was on hand. Four hours later he was in Baltimore and directly on the way to the residence of Mrs. Lippincott's mother, Mrs. Culnan, who lives in the suburbs of Baltimore. He knocked at the door, which was answered by Mrs. Lippin-cott herself. She did not change a muscle as Henry took the warrant from his pocket and read it to her.

Without wasting words she signified her willingness to come back. They waited until the heavy tide of travel was over and selor Moon was waiting and completed arrangements to defend Mrs. Lippincott against all charges. "We shall co-operate with a Camden attorney," said Lawyer Moon, "but will have the entire case under

LOSSES FROM HER FORGERIES. New Jersey was dumfounded when, on the morning of February 27, the papers published an account of the disappearance of Mrs. Lippincott, together with a full history of her operations during the years that she had been a successful business woman and the partner of her respected husband, Edwin Lippincott, the proprietor of Haddon Hall, at Atlantic City, which had grown to be one of the most popular resorts on the coast, due largely to Mrs. Lippincott's business tact. The news fell like a thunderbolt in Atlantic City and Philadelphia where

resided the many victims of her facile pen, which spared not friends or relatives in its one hundred thousand dollars was the amount fixed as the losses due to her forgeries, and merchants, friends, servants and institutions all suffered to a greater or less degree by contact with her. Mr. Lippincott d his wife's wrong-doing be disgrace was made public and she disap-poared, but though he bravely tried to bear her load, and did pay thousands of dollars to her victims, he could not stand up under the financial weight o her wrong-doing and was compelled to let the world know his trouble after he had paid out the savings of years in his efforts to screen her. Of course, the theory that Mrs. Lippincott was insane knew the shrewd, business-like woman found it hard to accept the theory.

HER PHILADELPHIA VICTIMS. When the crash came it was found that Mrs. Lippincott had given forged notes, bonds, mortgages, checks and mercantile paper of all descriptions. The business people in her own town and her close friends people in her own town and her close friends and trusted servants were the chief sufferers, but her victims in this city were alone a sore, numbering Granville B. Haines & Co., Exambridge & Clothier, Sharpless Brothers, Howett, Warner & Co., Frymier & Edwards, John Wanamaker, John & James Dobson. One of her ventures in this city was the formation of a partnership with Josiah Hearing, a broker at 425 Walnut street, to go into the hotel business. They secured a lease on the Lochiel House for a term of years, and shortly after Hearing discovered that he had been victimized. Edwin Lippincott was notified of his wife's arrest last night and will be in Camden soon, when she will have a preliminary lot box stuffing and suppression of votes [Republican applause,]

Toung Lad of 15 Caught in the Act Pilfering From the Mail Boxes. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCIL PRILLIPSBURG, July 2.-Miles Walker, lad of 15, has been arrested here for systematic robbery of the postoffice boxes, He is in jail now and has confessed. He says that some time ago, he found a key in one of the lock boxes, and was tempted into trying some of the other boxes with it. To his strprise the boxes yielded readily, and ever since then he has been keeping his eye on the mail in the hopes of striking some-thing rich. Yesterday he came to the office, and took some of the 4:30 mail, and not satisfied with this, returned and abstracted some of the 5:40 mail.

They were on the lookout for the thief, as numerous conplaints had been made lately, and the boy was at once arrested. He does not know how much money he has taken at different times, but does not think it is a enterent times, but does not think it is a yery large amount. Some of the rifled letters were found on the hillside, and others were found in a great package under the railroad bridge. The boy had been turned from the house by his father because he had appeared as a witness against him in a case of assault and battery on his wife last week.

The Convention in the Twenty-Fifth Congressional District Still Deadlocked. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW CASTLE, July 2.-The deadlock still continues in the Twenty-fifth Congresional Convention here. Hon. W. S. Shallenberger, of Beaver, endeavored to have the convention take a secret ballot, but failed. He then wanted the candidates to withdraw their names, and let the delegates act without instructions. This also was lost. The other counties thought that Beaver had a scheme in the movement, and the vote on the withdrawing of the candilates stood 13 yeas to 47 nays. Fifty-seven ballots were taken to-day, making a total of 167 since the convention met, and the situation remains the same: Jackson, 15; Black, 15; McDowell, 11; Brown, 4. NECESSITY AND COST. It would cost nothing if there was no need for it. This question would not rest until justice was done, and the conscience of the American people would not be permitted to sleep until these great constitutional rights, equality of suffrage and freedom of action and popular thought, should be, not cold formalities of constitutional enactment, but a living birthright which the poorest and humblest might comfortably enjoy and which the richest and most powerful dare not deny.
