Chief Brown intends to present a bill, which comes under this head, to the next Legislature. It will resemble the bill which passed both houses of the State Legislature at the last session, and was vetoed by Governor Beaver. The bill will create an insurance fund for the police. From this fund will be paid certain sums to the policeman who is injured or falls sick, and in the event of his death to his family. The uniform of the police will also be bought by the city.

The latter provision would remove a grievous burden from the very moderately paid policeman. It is suggested that the policeman is compelled by existing circumstances to work twice before risking his clothes in the execution of his duty. There is something in this, and if the city uniformed the police it would add to their efficiency in more ways than one. Chief Brown's efforts to improve his department should command the assistance of our legislators at Harrisburg.

THE REWARD OF HEROES. The Toledo Commercial, commenting upon the fact that the rescuing party at Dunbar found nothing but a dead mule, a couple of houses, dinner buckets and a few other things, propounds these questions: Was all this labor at attempted rescue thrown away? If not, in what place, manner or way was compensation received? If lost, was it a bad economic example or precedent? If so, what should be done to prevent such a case from involving something besides wealth? It is not the performance of duty an economic benefit as well as a moral principle.

No labor in the cause of human life is lost. The heroic miners who risked so much to little profit are content with the knowledge that they did their duty as brave men.

WOMEN AS VOTERS. A correspondent of the Philadelphia Times writes that the exercise of the cheerful woman in Wyoming.

In Wyoming the women have voted so long that nobody thinks anything about it. From all accounts women go to the polls as simply and naturally as the men. They do not wear long dresses and high collars, but they do not wear the same as the men. They dress as well as the women in any of the Eastern cities, and far better, as a rule, than they do in Chicago. It is very curious that when the women were not allowed to vote, they were in consequence. Perhaps the chief objection we shall hear to woman suffrage will be something like this, our contemporary thinks: "There is no use in giving the ballot to women, because it doesn't make any difference. When women vote the place is the same as when they don't. The women there care about such things as the ballot. In Sanborn county, S. D., out of 1,200 female voters not over 100 voted, and that is the county where are the headquarters of the woman suffrage campaign, and that is the same indifference was observable. In North Dakota the women voted they voted usually as their husbands did. The Jamestown Allegiance says: "A recent school election in the Dakotas does not seem to have changed conditions. The ballot was not disaffected nor elevated to any considerable extent, and the women themselves are no better off."

Perhaps the Wyoming women, like their sisters in Dakota, are none the wiser for their vote. This is only a conjecture, of course.

BREWERS ARE BUSY. There has been a great increase in the consumption of beer in this region during the past twelve months. The United States revenue returns show that over one hundred and twenty thousand more barrels of beer were brewed in June, 1889, than in the preceding year. Six hundred thousand barrels of beer were brewed in the twelve months ending June 1st last. Some people, including several brewers and saloon keepers, are inclined to attribute this great increase to the operation of the Brooks law, but the fact is that the increase in beer drinking here is probably not much in excess of the growth of the population.

EX-GOVERNOR PATTISON will celebrate Independence Day with sympathetic joy.

There is but one city in the "Original Pawnee State," where the Pawnee Indians have taken to the country since prohibition has been strictly enforced in the cities.

That extreme heat has a tendency to derangement of both the physical and mental constitutions has often been argued from the number of suicides which have occurred in the city during the past few days. The fact is, however, that the heat is not the cause of the suicides, but the result of the derangement of the mind.

THE SILENT BILL is likely to go to pieces under the strain of a steady pull from Senate and House conferees.

Both Delamater and Pattison have earned their holiday today if hard work in hot weather can be seen. In the meantime the settlers find a slight compensation for their troubles in applying the English method with molasses of material for their most delicious dishes, rabbit pie. The skins also have become a good article of commerce.

ENCOURAGING THE POLICE. The police force of Pittsburg has been greatly improved of late, and Chief Brown is determined to make it better still. Any measure aiming to increase the efficiency of the city's guardians should be applauded.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE.

Editorial Clippings From Democratic and Republican Papers—His Nomination Generally Acceptable and His Election Almost Certain.

In addition to the fact that Mr. Pattison will not receive many Republican votes, there is considerable antagonism to him in his own party. The feeling is that he is not a Democrat, and that he is not a man who will be satisfied with the manner in which he conducted his administration. Whether this feeling will be sufficient to offset the Republican vote that he will receive.

AMERICA ABROAD.

Interesting Bits of News and Gossip From London—A Tablet of Interest to Americans—New York to Have a Big Variety Show—English and American Artists.

The following bits of news and gossip are taken from the London Illustrated News, which devotes more space to American matters than the average English weekly magazine. A tablet that has attracted many Americans to Holy Trinity Church, Minorities, was erected to the memory of William Legge, Lieutenant General of Ordnance, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Washington of Packington, in the county of Leicester. Upon this tablet are the names of the stars and stripes, and the average American is startled to find so vivid a reminder of his country's flag upon a tablet erected to the memory of a man who died in 1670. He is also interested in learning that Sir William Washington's brother, John, who emigrated to Virginia about 1671, is supposed to have been the great grandfather of George Washington.

Spain to Celebrate Belligerency by 1892. In this same Holy Trinity Church, in addition to other objects of interest is a small box containing a glass case, which is the head of the Duke of Suffolk, father of Lady Jane Grey. He was beheaded in 1554, in the reign of Queen Mary, for having married his daughter on the throne after placing her there. The Duke of Suffolk was beheaded on Tower hill, which stood at the time a monastery which was connected by means of a subterranean passage, with the buildings formerly known as the Convent of St. Clare or Minorities, the suppression of which had been assumed by the monks who occupied the abbey, built by the Countess of Lancaster. The story goes that the executioner, John de Bole, who was the executioner of the Duke of Suffolk, was also to be executed for having committed a crime at Holy Trinity Church.

A Spanish-American Affair. Active measures are already being taken in Spain to celebrate belligerency by 1892, the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. A committee has been formed in Madrid to organize the Spanish-American Exposition, which will also be the Eastern trip.

CAMDEN'S SPOOK.

Several Persons Claim to Have Seen Old Quaker's Specter.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 3.—The phantom specter is known as the "Quaker Ghost," and several persons claim to have seen it within the past week in the vicinity of the old Quaker meeting house on Walnut street. Samuel Harris, a cabman, of No. 10 North Second street, claims that he saw the ghost while out on duty with a young woman. He alleges that the ghost followed him and his companion, when the latter failed to get away from the meeting house. When the smoke cleared away the white object had disappeared.

George Sparks, of No. 217 Benson street, living here one night recently from the ghost while out on duty with a young woman. He says that he was suddenly stopped, and when he got up he found a carriage in the street. He saw a white object in the middle of the high way, and he found a carriage in the street.
