DIVORCE FOUR HOURS AFTER DEATH.

Accidents, Crimes, Disasters, and Miscellaneous News of Three States.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] DUNBAR, July 3 .- The efforts to fill up the main entrance to the Hill Farm mine have not yet succeeded. The heat issuing from the pit mouth is still so intense that men cannot get near enough to it, even from the hillside above, to dump anything into it. The superintendent of the mine and others interested have about made up their minds to use water in an attempt to drown out the fire, and water will probably be pumped into the slope to-morrow. It will have to be drawn from a creek some distance away, and there is great doubt as to the possibility of getting it in sufficient quantities to do any good. Some water was thrown into the pit mouth to-day, but it evaporated in steam and accomplished nothing. Even if the mine can be flooded it ing. Even if the mine can be flooded it may not put out the fire inside of a month. Inspector Waxchorn tells of a mine in Wales which was filled with water for three weeks, and when the liquid was pumped out the fire soon showed itself again.

The Dunbar Furnace Company is anxious from business reasons to get the fire out as soon as possible. For human reasons also they desire to render it possible to recover the dead bodies. The company has already been compelled to buy coke from McClure & C.o. to operate its blast furnaces just above this place.

THE CAUSE OF THE DISASTER. Superintendent Hill, of the Hill Farm mine, declines to be interviewed in any way concerning the causes of the disaster or the intentions of the company. He says he feels that his position is so critical that he must not talk until he does so at the inquest, Mr. Hill has been he does so at the inquest. Mr. Hill has been severely worried mentally during this crisis, and has been a leader in pushing the work of rescue. He is generally commended for all that has been done since the disaster.

Citizens here nearly all say that the company will be sued by the widows for the deaths of their supporters. This will greatly depend, however, upon the verdict of the Coroner's jury. At the inquest both the furnace company and the Knights of Labor will be represented by attorneys, and every step taken will be watched carefully.

THE RELIEF COMMITTEE'S WORK. To-day the members of the distribution committee have been busy visiting the families of the lost miners and distributing the funds. Some families received as much as $100, where there were ten children. About $500 additional was placed in the hands of the relief committee to-day, including the money raised by the Sunday School Convention at Pittsburg.

The excitement has nearly died out here. The people still stand about in groups in the streets and discuss the disaster. There is a disposition not to cruticise the company any further until after the inquest is held.

Notwithstanding that a general gloom has been cast over this neighborhood, some people do not seem to be at all affected by the affair. Last night two men working in the stone quarries about a mile up Dunbar creek engaged in a brutal prize fight. They fought to settle a quarrel and battled for five rounds, when one of the men threw up the sponge. About 40 men attended the affair, but the names of the fighters cannot be ascertained. HASSLER. TWAS NOT CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

The case was instituted as a test case, and the specific charge was involuntary man-slaughter. The Judge discharged Philips on the ground that the evidence produced did not constitute what could be called criminal negli-

The Docks at Eric Becoming Overcrowded With Iron Ore. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

Entr. July L-The docks at this place are prowded. They have 110,000 tons of ore in stock, and cannot take more than 20,000 tons more unless the rall shipment increases. The present shipments are not over 1,500 tons per day, while the recoints are over 3,000. The Pennsylvania Company has let a contract to J. L. Linn, of Philadelphia, for storage tracks and treatles at an outlay of $30,000, and that will add about 50,000 to the present capacity. Unless there is a move on the part of the mill men down the Pennsylvania line, Shenango and Putsburg valleys, there will be an ore blockade at Eric.

THOMPSON IS FREED

A Jury Decides That George Corken's Shooting Was an Accident.

THE VERDICT IS QUICKLY FOUND, All the Evidence Pointing to the Fact That Murder Wasn't Meant.

JOY OF THE SISTER OF THE ACCUSED.

Edgar Thompson was placed on trial yesterday before Judge Slagle for the killing of George Corken, at the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railroad depot, in Alegheny, on May 1. Thomas M. Marshall and Harvey Henderson, Esqs., appeared for the defense, while District Attorney Johnston and Mr. Martin represented the Commonwealth. Thompson, looking somewhat pale and worried, was surrounded by his sister and other lemale relatives. The first witness examined was W. B. G. Andrews, who witnessed the shooting. He testified that Thompson pulled the revolver from his pocket at Corken's request, and while handling the pistol it was accidentally discharged.

STRUCK BY THE BULLET. John Dyer, who was one of the party, and who was struck by the bullet, testified that Thompson was handling the pistol when it was accidentally discharged; the bullet passed through Corken's leg and struck the passed through Corken's leg and struck the witness on the knee. The witness knew that the shooting was accidental, and heard Corken say so himself.

The Commonwealth rested at this point, and Mr. Marshall opened for the defense by claiming that they would prove the shooting entirely accidental. A number of character witnesses were first called, who testi-fied to Thompson's good character, after which the defendant was placed on the stand. Thompson's story was that he had met George Corken in the morning, and they had spent the day together. Corken had helped him pack his trunk, after which the defendant gave Corken a gold-headed um-brella as a keepsake. They then started down town, and had severa! drinks. AN ACCIDENTAL SHOT. During the afternoon they went to the depot; the defendant was going to his cattle ranch at Laird, Col. While in the depot he pulled the revolver from his pocket, for the purpose of transferring it to his valise, and while handling the pistol it was accidentally discharged. The defend-ant and Corken had been friends for some years, and never had a quarrel or a dispute of any kind. D. H. Martin, Esq., made the argument for the Commonwealth. He claimed that while the shooting might have been acci-dental, the detendant should be punished. Thomas M. Marshall, Esq., made the appeal for the prisoner, and claimed that under no circumstances could he be con-

Judge Slagle's charge was merely as to the law covering the case. The jury was only out half an hour, and returned with a verdict of not guilty. Thompson was congratulated by his many friends present, and kissed by his sister, whom he accompanied age and single. He was a brother of George von Bonnhorst, who is the Republican candidate for County Recorder, and William von Bonnhorst, cashier of the Marine Bank. He was the son of the late Sidney F. von Bonnhorst, who was appointed postmaster by President Lincoln and removed by Andrew Johnson. Beyond the fact of his illness, no reason can be assigned for the act. The heart where he was employed elected. The bank where he was employed elected a new Board of Directors and they were to take hold to-day. It was said he feared the new board would put another man in his place. If he had any idea that such was the case his fears were groundless, as the new directors had no such intention. They had every confidence in him and in his ability.
