

CONKING IN A FIGHT. A Story of a Meeting in the Great Blizzard of 1888.

GOULD COMPLETELY CORNERED. The Millionaire Abashed and Silenced by a Tramp's Remarks.

BRIEF ANECDOTES OF GREAT MEN

NEW YORK, R. I., July 3.—There are many very lively spots along the sea in Europe where people idle and bathe. Our own coast has countless winking places for summer enjoyment. But after one has experienced all their delights, I think there is an exasperating longing in the heart to get back to the old New England coast...

As strong a motive and purpose as can move any man to highest physical effort took me through the great March "blizzard" storm of 1888, from Harlem to the Astor House, in New York. I think I am one of the few who have not returned from that feat, but its reminiscence interest me chiefly in a single incident of the seven hours' struggle. Leaving the vicinity of One Hundredth street at 2 in the afternoon, I fought my way to my destination by the most circuitous route, and arrived at my room at 11. The hope and despair, the effort and triumph, the struggle and the necessary to recount; but I shall never forget one meeting on the way. Pounded, torn and all, overcome by the blizzard, I was on the corner of Union Square and Broadway, and while holding to its window frames with freezing fingers, a small, thin, old man came toward me and sent me crawling against the wall, well-wrapped in a heavy coat, and carrying a bundle of papers...

Jay Gould and Uncle Baker.

It is an exceedingly nice fellow citizen the one who is called Uncle Baker. He is a man who has been in the city since the year 1822, and he is now in his 80th year. He is a man of a very peculiar character, and he is one of the most interesting characters in the city. He is a man who has been in the city since the year 1822, and he is now in his 80th year. A Place Made Famous by Irving.

No place excepting Tarrytown's dreamlike Sleepy Hollow was more famous by the association of Irving's Washington Irving than the little town of Tarrytown. It is a town of about 1,000 inhabitants, and it is one of the most beautiful towns in the State. It is a town of about 1,000 inhabitants, and it is one of the most beautiful towns in the State.

A Noble Ship Captain.

A few weeks since, while en route by steamer from Marseilles to Algiers, the ship's second officer, several Algerian officials and myself were enjoying the balmy night at a late hour on deck, relating instances of individual bravery and noble sacrifice having come under our personal observation when the second officer gave us this incident:

The State Line.

As an evidence of the increasing travel to Europe, Messrs. Austin Baldwin & Co., the general agents of the popular State Steamship Company, of the Leyland, Liverpool and Mediterranean line, which was wrecked that date on the coast of Cornwall, Bay, Wales. She struck in a great gale, sometime during the first watch, between 12 and 12 at night, and breaking up went to pieces long before daylight. As we were passing Holyhead, an hour or so before the accident, a steamer, a large, fine, half-tonnage boat, was being hauled from the coal bunkers, and set to some menial employment. No ship's boat could be awaiting the storm was so frightful; the shore life boat could not get to us, and one by one several on board had slipped into the sea, and were seen to be getting about to death on the rocks when the Cyprusian finally went to pieces. About three o'clock in the morning, a steamer, whose name was J. A. Strachan, a half dozen officers and men and the little stowaway were huddled together on deck awaiting the final struggle. The desperate fear and despair of the lad were frightful to behold. Noticing this, Captain Strachan, who was in command of his own person, and, fastening it about the boy, said quietly: "Here, my poor lad, I'll save you more than I can do for you. On to-morrow, I'll send you home. Rate $1 50 round trip. Train leaves B. & O. depot at 8:30 A. M., city time."

SCRAPS OF HISTORY.

Intervenor in a Romance by George Alfred Townsend.

ALEX. HAMILTON IN THE WEST.

How He Sang an Old Revolutionary Song for Pennsylvania Boys

WITH PIPES AND DRUM ACCOMPANIMENT.

From "Mrs. Reynolds and Hamilton, by George Alfred Townsend (Gath). The President now proceeded to Cumberland, while Hamilton and a few mounted friends moved out from the Welsh settlement to pass the great Tuscarora mountains by trail. The mighty mass of rock and woods seemed to open as they approached like a gray cloud, and showed a cove that had a low gate cut by a brook, and beyond this opening seemed nothing but a deep, round bowl of forest and rampart, sublime and serene. Yet within the cove a little way they came to a "stone" or "settler's" shop, the house of the settler, and found some pack horses loading with supplies for the Monongahela. Within the Irish trader's cot the gentlemen took some of the cove whisky and a snack of venison.

President Washington and Governor Lee

President Washington and Governor Lee arrived at Bedford from Cumberland the 20th of October. Four dragoons were the President's only escort. Instead of the magnificent cortege which attended the President's movements, 15 guns were the President and all the members of the cabinet, and straightway business began. Philadelphia troops were detached into the surrounding country for orders, and heeded in 15 minutes the order which had been locally greater than Washington. As these "leaders of the people" rode on their horses to the forests of the mountains, they were followed by a troop of noble and knightly infantry, the militia of the mountains were armed with the best of arms, and the militia of the mountains were armed with the best of arms, and the militia of the mountains were armed with the best of arms.

Kansas City to be Allowed a Recount Owing to Incompetence.

KANSAS CITY, July 4.—A recount will be held on 20 districts in this city where it appears upon the face of the returns that the enumeration has been made in a slighting manner. The Kansas City Board of Supervisors and Congressmen Tarney to Supervisor Miller and President Foxon, of the Commercial Club, today announced that the recount had been ordered as requested by the board of supervisors. At a meeting of the special committee of the Commercial Club, at which Mr. Miller presided, it was decided that it was possible to obtain a fair count on this recount, which it is expected will increase the total by a considerable amount.

A HANDSOME FORGER.

A leading Society Lady of Providence arrested on a charge of forgery. NEW YORK, July 4.—On the arrival of the 8:30 train from Boston yesterday afternoon central office detectives took into custody a handsome, richly dressed woman, named Newark, of Providence. She was arrested by the Boston police, and shown a telegram from Providence, calling for her arrest. It was said that she had forged a check for $1,000 on the name of the late President, and had cashed it at the bank. She was taken to the police station, and her parents in Oak street, Providence.

REMINISCENCE OF THE GREAT FLOOD.

A Good Letter From Mr. H. L. Chapman, Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, JOHNSTOWN, PA., Nov. 12, 1889. DEAR SIR:—The box of six dozen Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, which you sent at the suggestion of Hon. Wesley Redhead, reached us soon after the great flood, and at a time when it was quite fresh. It was indeed a relief to me, and I have since become convinced that it is the best medicine for cholera, cholera, and diarrhea. I have since become convinced that it is the best medicine for cholera, cholera, and diarrhea. I have since become convinced that it is the best medicine for cholera, cholera, and diarrhea.

Pastor Methodist Episcopal Church.

FROM M'KEESPOT, Pa. I spent several weeks in Johnston, after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom were taken with cholera. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy from Mr. Chapman, and it cured them all. I have since become convinced that it is the best medicine for cholera, cholera, and diarrhea. I have since become convinced that it is the best medicine for cholera, cholera, and diarrhea.

CURED AFTER TWO DOCTORS HAD FAILED.

Last June, after the great flood, I received a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy from Mr. Chapman, and it cured me. I have since become convinced that it is the best medicine for cholera, cholera, and diarrhea. I have since become convinced that it is the best medicine for cholera, cholera, and diarrhea. SEEKING FOR SHADE.

Fastor and People Alike Anxious for a Summer Vacation.

GOOD PROSPECTS OF A UNION

Between the Various Sects Bearing the Presbyterian Name.

GLEANNINGS FROM CHURCH FIELDS

In most of the denominations preachers' vacations are now accepted as a fixed fact. Among Presbyterians and Episcopalians a vacation to the minister is generally accepted as a part of the contract with the congregation. The preacher is expected to take a summer rest, and the congregation usually is not only submissive, but cheerful in having the opportunity of seeking green shades, by seashore and on mountains during dog days. One of our leading churches said a day or two ago: "The people are as ready for a vacation as the preachers. These hot days are hard on the preacher and congregation alike. We are more than willing to give our preacher a rest until cooler weather. It is good all around to have a vacation. The people are as ready for a vacation as the preachers. These hot days are hard on the preacher and congregation alike. We are more than willing to give our preacher a rest until cooler weather. It is good all around to have a vacation."

NOT A WORK OF NECESSITY.

Judge Penney's Rules That Sunday Observance is Not a Work of Necessity. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—Judge Penney, presiding over the case of the packer-to-day delivered a decision on the question of Sunday shaming in the city. The opinion was given in connection with the appeal of William R. Waldman, a barber, from the magistrate's fine. It is stated that the judge said: "It is contended upon the part of the defendant that Sunday shaming is a work of necessity, and that there are some persons whose health requires shaving daily, and there are some occupations which require the use of a razor every day, and therefore within the exception of the statute. It is a well-known fact that the barber's trade is a necessary one, and that there are some persons whose health requires shaving daily, and there are some occupations which require the use of a razor every day, and therefore within the exception of the statute. It is a well-known fact that the barber's trade is a necessary one, and that there are some persons whose health requires shaving daily, and there are some occupations which require the use of a razor every day, and therefore within the exception of the statute."
