REMARKABLE HEAT IN OTHER CITIES

NEW YORK, July 8 .- Only twice in the last 19 years has the weather been hotter in New York than it was to-day. Hudnut's record shows that Sunday, July 9, 1876, just 14 years ago, the mercury rose to 1010. The day before the maximum register was 990, and the following week it kept up in the nineties, climbing on the 12th to 960, and on the 13th to 990. That made a very hot week for the town, and the day of 1010 seemed worse, probably, than it was because of the prostrating heat of the previous day. In 1879, on July 16, the maximum of 1010

It was fortunate that the humidity was not high, for waves of heat swept down spon the city with fierce force. Mercury oiled and struggled in its efforts to get out of its confining tube; shirt-fronts wilted and collars dangled broken-heartedly about the heated, oozing necks of their wearers. The streets, blistered and dusty, seemed to act in concert with the sun, both striving to render surface travel impossible.

There were few who ventured to brave his condition of affairs, but those who did give their experience as having been "roasted." Even in the upper stories of high buildings, where there would be breezes if there were any to be had, employes almost dishabille leaned over their tasks, their energy and vitality streaming

ROYALIST INTRIGUES IN FRANCE.

The Comte de Paris' speech, delivered at Sheen House, was an answer to the cry of alarm raised by Le Monde. Le Monde is an old-fashioned, religious paper, Royalist as it can be, and for doing everything decently and in order. I believe it was put on to say what it did by an intimate friend of the Comte de Paris. What did it say? you may ask. That young and turbulent and in-triguing Royalists were egging on the Duc d'Orleans to separate from his father and set up as an independent Pretender; that they were trying to de-Christianize him, to lunge him into dissipation and to get him o break off his engagement with the

The noblemen in question are very intrigu-ing, fussy, greedy of lucre, and some of them have lives of rather funny pedigrees. Three of them were partisans of General Boulanger while his boom lasted. Two other impulsive ones, the Due d'Uzes and the Duc de Luynes, are thoroughly honest and have no settled plan of campaign, but think the Comte de Paris too correct in his methods. The others are what Le Monde says-intriguers: The idea was to obtain the Czar's only daughter for their young presented and for him meanwhile to amuse himself and for him meanwhile to amuse himself with young married women. It is notorious that a charmer of very high rank followed him to Switzerland when he was there, turned up again in Brussels and got up quite a cabal against the Princess Marguer ite, who, the caballers complained, profitted too much by the Duc being in prison to parade her engagement, which the Comte de Paris never officially announced until the

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPAPOR. BOSTON, July 8 .- Dull, listless and aninteresting was to-day's game between Boston and Pittsburg, of the National League. Baker started in to pitch for Pittsburg and pitched fairly steady, but in the second inning he gave way to Bowman, because his pitching hand was disabled by coming in contact with a batted ball. Bowman was rather wild, but the Bostons had a batting streak, and, with the perfect helding which they did, could easily have shut out Pittsburg. Getzein was in prime condition, and in the last half of the seventh inning he gave way to Taber, who allowed the Pittsburgers but two hits and struck out three men. Long player a remarkably fine fielding game, and Berger covered the same territory for the Iron City lads with almost equal brilliancy. These two men had the iton's share of the infield work. ANOTHER LEAGUE QUITS. No Games Played in the International

Lengue Yesterday. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 BUFFALO, July 8.—No International games were played to-day, and the league is on the rocks. Hamilton is practically disbanded, but an effort is being made to keep the team together. Saginaw-Bay City has quit, the Lon-dons are all being sold by Manager Fessenden, who is working for an umpireship in one of the major leagues. Grand Rands and Saginaw claim that they have been treated unitarity. Toronto, Detroit and London lost a large amount of money on the Buffalo club and it is believed that they tried to bleed the rest of the clubs to meet this loss. The management of Saginaw has in two months of its existence been assessed $720, which is far in excess of the requirements. All outstanding indebtedness has been paid and the players received their salaries. This team is anxious to stay in the loague, but, believing that they cannot get a fair show, want to disband. They were paid by the Secretary and Treasurer, Ike A. Samuels, for Friday, Saturday they did not receive any pay, and they were obliged to remain here over Sunday, as the Secretary left town. To add to this dissatisfaction over such proceedings, the Newark boys kicked because they had received no money for two weeks, and they all threatened to quit. It is now thought that the club will go to pieces.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.-There were no cases of sunstroke reported at the Brother-hood grounds this afternoon, although there was some evidence of the sun's rays having affected Captain Hanlon, of the Pittsburg club, for he forgot himself on several occasions and made bitter attacks on Secretary Brunel's umpires. Kiell and Staley were the pitchers, and, although the former was wild and uncertain in his delivery, he kept the visitors' hits down to two until the seventh inning, when they lit onto him for six singles and a home run. Then Buffinton exchanged places with the Californian, and the side was retired. Staley, who had proved a puzzler for the local batsmen, was an easy mark for them to-day. From the second inning they banged the ball right, left and center, until the visitors panted for breath. The fielding of both teams was poor, but the intense heat was an excuse for every poor play made. Attendance, 770. The score:

CONNORS QUICKLY BEATEN.

He and Ike Weir Have a Short But Very Lively Battle. SEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. BUFFALO, July 8.-The Eric County Athletic Club rooms were crowded to-night with nearly 1,200 people to witness the Weir-Connors fight. There were to be 24 three-minute rounds. The men fought with skin-tight gloves for $1,750, $1 500 to the winner Jack Ashton was referee The seconds of Connors were Mike Quinn, of New York, and George Brintell, of Buffalo, and Tommy Warren, or New York, and Ed Smith, of Denver, were behind Weir.

First round-Connors had the longest reach and Weir seemed likely to fall an easy victum. Connors went for Weir, who whirled and clinched, spoiling the professor's attack. Then he gave some ugit blows on the body, one in the face and took a smash on the noie. "That's good," said Weir, smilling and backing toward his corner. Connors began a rush. He did not finish it. Weir went at him suddenly hammer and tongs, punching him in the face and ribs, and as Connors recovered and let up a lefthsader, the Spider dacked and the glove slid up his back. Connors only get in one teiling blow in this round. New York, and George Brintell, of Buffalo and ound.
Hol sparring occupied them in the second and he ben rang just as Connors received an ugly Hot sparring occupied them in the second and the beit rang Just as Connors received an ugly smash on the nose.

Third round—Weir was playful, Connors mad. Connors followed up a feint rush by Weir with an ugly attack, which Weir ducked so quickly that he went into the ropes. A second later he planted his hot left on Connors' eye. This rushing, hitting was repeated three times. Then Weir made a double foint with his left and cross countered with his right on Connors' jaw. As he went back Connors feli like a log and never really recovered, though he was put up again.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1

CANTON, July 8 .- A terrific cyclone truck the southern portion of the city at 6 o'clock this evening, wrecking one house ompletely, and badly damaging several others. The storm was accompanied with heavy rain and hail. It came very unexpectedly, and before its approach was known, it had passed, leaving a path of ruin in its wake. The greatest damage done was to the house of Conrad Shode, on Navarre street. This was a new frame structure, all but completed. The slaters and carpenters expected to finish the work within the resent week. The wind cut it open as if it had been cut with a knife, leaving nothing but a few feet of sidewalk and the foundation. The workmen had left but a few minutes before, thus luckily escaping In the track of the storm, the house of E. Bachert next suffered. Here the chimney was blown off, the wind seeming to rise, and only strike the upper portion of the bu ilding. The house of a man named Walter, was the next to feel the fury of the storm. A por tion of the roof was taken away, chimneys blown down, and the house was damaged both inside and out. Henry Hull's place was then visited, and quick as a flash the plastering was visited, and quick as a flash the plastering was torn from the walls, though strangely enough there was no other damage done here farther than scattering furniture and household fixings all about. Other damage in the way of fences and out buildings, and trees blown down, was reported, but not of as serious a nature as the above.

Fortunately the storm passed only over the southern portion of the city of the demands.

southern portion of the city, or the damage would have been much greater. The oddest part of this storm was the suddenness with which it arose, and the wonderful power it exerted within a half minute of time. A great loss must have been indicted in the country beyond, but at this writing no reports are obtainable.

What Le Monde said was perfectly true

other day in answering Le Monde.

The Princess Marguerite has her mother's even temper and quiet cheerfulness of dis-position. She takes her inoffensive man-ners and disposition and her talent for water-color painting from her father, the Prince de Joinville, the most popular o Louis Philippe's sons, in that King's lifetime, and in all respects a man of blameles life. The Duc de Chartres has also good qualities. He has more engaging qualities than the Comte de Paris, and affabilityquality I never met with dissociated from a courageous disposition. But he has the family incapacity to get out of his small circle. The D'Orleans have friends, but keep too m ch in their shells ever to be popular.

gambling that little of it is done. Cards and whisky being put oway, there is small temptation to disorderly conduct; so it is only when they reach some large city, and are not on duty, that they indulge in a genuine spree. On the ranches kept under fence hey have little to do when not on the drive or in the branding time, the cattle being all safely enclosed. But they must take their turns at line riding, which means a close inspection of the fences, and the repair of all breaks and damages. Where night overtakes them, there they sleep, staking their horses, and rolling themselves in their blankets. These rides of inspection take days to accomplish, for there are ranches in Texas which extend in a straight line over 75 miles. Those ranches which are not kept under fence necessitate more work. The boys must then keep their cattle in sight, and while allowing them to graze in every direction, must see that none in the many thousands beyond the limits of their own ticular pastures. It is not a life of hardship, and pays well enough. Everything is furnished to them free and of the very best, and they are paid besides $30 per nonth. Each party stays out from two to three weeks at a time; but they take with them the finest of camp wagons, with beds and bedding, cooking utensils, the best of groceries of all kinds, and as excellent a cook as money can employ.

These men are exceedingly chivalrous to all women; this seems to be a trait born in them, as much a part of their moral nature as it is of their physical to have small feet, for it is seldom that a genuine Texas cowboy can be found who has not the distinguishing mark of a handsome foot, and his boots are to him all that the som-brero is to a Mexican. He will deny himselt many pleasures, he will go without a coat and be seen in most dilapidated attire, but his boots must be of the best and most beautitul make that the country can afford, high of heel and curved of instep, a fine upper and thin sole, fitting like a glove and showing the hand-

CITY MEN ON FARMS All the Romance and Profit Vanish With a Single Season.

Dr. Talmage in Ladies Home Journal.] Just at this time of the year there is always a number of city men who get an itching desire to be farmers-not farmers for health or pleasure, but farmers for profit. Now, farming is a grand occupation; but to the average city business man who goes into it for profit, it holds out nothing but failure. The city farmer, for example, never considers, as does the wise and knowing farmer that there may be disappointment in crops He thinks whatever he sows will come up and vield profit.

Even a stupid turnip knows a city farmer as soon as it sees him. Marrowfat peas fairly rattle in their pods with derision as he passes. The fields are glad to impose upon the novice. Wandering too near the bee-hive with a book on honey-making, he gets stung in three places; his cauliflowers turn out to be cabbages; the thunder spoils his milk; the grass-butter, that he dreamed of is rancid; the taxes eat up his profits; th drought consumes his corn; the rust gets in his wheat; the peaches drop off before they ripen; the rot strikes the potatoes; expect-ing to surprise his benighted city friends with a present of a few early vegetables, he accidentally hears that they have had new potatoes and green peas, and sweet corn for a fortnight; the bay mare runs away with the box wagon; his rustic gate gets out of order; his shrubbery is perpetually needing the shears; the hogs destroy the watermelons to make a large outlay for his own amuse-ment and the health of his family, let him hasten to his country purchase. But no sensible man will think to keep a business in town and make a farm financially profit--Miss Mary Lee, who came from Egypt to witness the unveiling of the statue of her father, is continually meeting people whom she only casually knew years ago, but she never misses a name or fact, it is stated, and can even refer to details of a former meeting wholly forgotten by the others.
